BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—As the Seventy-first congress ended today President Hoover appeared to have added another to an imposing list of vetoes.

The President failed to sign the Wagner bill for federal coöperation with the states in the establishment of a national system of employment exchanges and, while no announcement was made, it was the understanding that he had decided to "pocket veto" it. If he does so, it will bring the total of his vetoes to 15. Already, after serving only half of his term, he stands sixth among the Presidents in the number of vetoes.

New Ruling Clouds Situation.

As the President has had the Wagner bill before him for a week, there seemed to be no reason that he would take advantage of a new ruling by Attorney General Mitchell, that he has a full ten days from the time a measure reaches him in which to act, regardless of the date of final adjournment of congress. Heretofore it has been the understanding that all bills which a President fails to sign at the end of a congress are automatically "pocket vetoed." Under this ruling President Hoover has until next Monday to act upon the Wagner bill and if he fails to do so by that day it is dead.

President Goes to Capitol.

Notwithstanding the ruling, the President appeared, as has been customary, at the capitol an hour before final adjournment of congress and signed a score of bills, including the second deficiency bill and a world war veterans' hospitalization act. Numerous minor bills, chiefly private claims, were at the White House awaiting approval and will be acted upon during the next few days.

Thus far in the two years that he has been in the White House President Hoover has vetoed eleven bills and pocket vetoed three, a total of fourteen, without counting the probable veto of the Wagner bill.

Cleveland Vetoed 343 Bills.

Cleveland stands at the head of all Presidents in the number of vetoes, with 343. Next comes Coolidge, with 49, followed by Grant, with 46; Johnson, with 32; Benjamin Harrison, with 19, followed by Hoover, with at least 14 and probably 15. Next in order are Wilson and Jackson, with 13 each; Hayes, with 12; Tyler, Pierce, and Roosevelt, with 10 each; Buchanan, with 7; Madison, with 6; Harding, with 5; Polk and Lincoln, with 3 each; Washington, with 2, and Monroe and McKinley, with one each.

Only two of the Hoover vetoes have been overridden. These were the ex-service veterans' bonus loan bill and the bill of last winter increasing pensions for Spanish war veterans. The veto of the Muscle Shoals bill, which the senate sustained last night, takes rank as one of the most important of the Hoover vetoes.

Other bills vetoed by President Hoover have been two relating to Indians, two relating to veterans' affairs, one relating to land and water right suits, one authorizing the coinage of 50 cent silver pieces in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the Gadsden purchase, and two private relief bills. Pocket vetoes have applied to a Texas bridge bill and two private relief bills.

Displeased by Wagner Bill.

The Wagner employment exchange bill was involved in the controversy between the President and congress over legislation to relieve conditions due to the business depression. This bill and the veterans' bonus loan bill, which was designed to aid unemployed and needy ex-soldiers, were the only relief measures objected to by the President which ran the gantlet in congress and reached the White House. The two furnished the outstanding instances where the usually dependable house turned on the administration and approved legislation distasteful to it.

Just how President Hoover has fared in his controversies with congress during the two years that he has been in the White House is a matter of

Raskob, Roosevelt Battle Due Today

DEMOCRATS TO STAGE FIGHT ON LIQUOR ISSUE

Governor Opposed to Declaration.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—With the thunders of the approaching presidential election reverberating from afar, members of the Democratic national committee are gathering here tonight for the showdown tomorrow on prohibition and other issues.

The meeting, which was called by Chairman John J. Raskob, will be the scene of the first skirmish of the factions backing various candidates for the Democratic nomination for President. In particular, it will be a trial of strength between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, on the one hand, and Chairman Raskob and Al Smith, on the other.

Gov. Roosevelt, a wet, with widespread wet support in the east and the central west, has struck out boldly against the Raskob project to obtain from the committee a declaration favoring repeal or modification of prohibition and, in so doing, has made a bid for the support of the dry south.

Raskob May Offer Young.

Mr. Raskob is reputed to be maneuvering in the interest of the nomination of Owen D. Young of New York, apostle of big business, though, in some quarters, one hears the theory that Mr. Young is to be used merely as a stalking horse for Mr. Raskob's real candidate, Al Smith. Gov. Roosevelt will have 90 per cent of the New York delegation behind him, but his opponents are predicting that he never will get the two-thirds of the convention requisite to nomination.

Mr. Smith, who probably will be heard from in the national committee meeting tomorrow, is carefully refraining from the utterance of any word that would foreclose the future with respect to the possibility of being chosen for the second time to lead his party next year. When asked if he would be a candidate for the nomination, he replied that the crossing of that bridge is seventeen months away.

Smith Is Noncommittal.

"It is suggested that in the event of a deadlock you might be the nominee," said a reporter to the former New York governor.

"Nobody can predict seventeen months ahead what a national convention will do," said Mr. Smith with a grin.

"But are you for the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt," was asked of the titular leader of the Democratic party, for whom, in two Democratic conventions, Mr. Roosevelt made the nominating speech.

"I do not think I should be called upon to say whether I am for or against Gov. Roosevelt or any other person for the nomination," replied Mr. Smith. "That matter will be determined by persons of far greater importance than myself, namely, the delegates to the national convention."

Mr. Smith said that he expected to be on hand at the convention.

Raskob Sees Delegates.

Chairman Raskob spent the day secluded in his hotel suite, conferring with arriving national committeemen and working on the proposals regarding policies and party financing he will present to the committee tomorrow.

According to members of the Raskob group, the chairman has lined up a substantial majority of the committee for his program to put the body on record as opposed to prohibition as it obtains under the 18th amendment. It is said that he had a majority in hand before he issued the call for the committee meeting.

One after another, national committeemen from the dry states, notably former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Senator Cameron Morrison of North Carolina, both of which states were carried by Mr. Hoover, passed into the Raskob suite and pleaded with the chairman to abandon his plan of committing the party organization to any position on the prohibition question at this time. They warned him that to forces through a wet declaration would alienate the southern drys and wreck the party.

One after another, the dry committeemen emerged from the Raskob suite, reporting that they found the chairman an extremely stubborn person. One committeeman said the

TEN CHICAGOANS A MONTH TIRE OF THEIR FACES

At least ten persons in Chicago get so tired of their faces each month that they write to the Chicago Medical society to ask that a surgeon who specializes in making folk beautiful be recommended to them.

This was disclosed in a tabulation of the unsolicited correspondence of the society in 1930. According to Dr. N. S. Davis III., secretary of the organization, love affairs as well as the desire to be socially prominent or successful in business are powerful in the motives of those who want surgery to change their features.

But alas for romance! The medical society will not recommend surgeons to those who merely want to have nature's handiwork improved on because the model isn't satisfactory as received. Nor will it encourage the old and fat who want their adipose tissue trimmed off when they could get it off by diet and exercise. Those who have big noses, the most frequent cause of lament, are urged to let them alone.

Mal Daugherty Found Guilty in Bank Trial

Washington Courthouse, O., March 4.—(AP)—Mal S. Daugherty, 68 year old banker and brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, tonight stood convicted of defrauding the defunct Ohio State bank while he was its president.

The jury found the ex-banker guilty of all five counts in the indictment. Each count carries a maximum penalty of 30 years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Plead for Appeal.

Sentence will not be imposed until the court acts on a new trial motion which defense counsel said would be filed in a few days.

A poll of the jurors showed they took only one ballot. They deliberated from noon until about 6 p. m.

The five counts in the indictment charge abstraction of funds, misapplication of the bank's credit, falsification of entries, an attempt to deceive a bank examiner and the making of an invalid loan.

The investigation that led to the indictment of Daugherty was ordered last fall after he was declared a bankrupt with assets of $300,000 and liabilities of more than $600,000. The grand jury returned 16 indictments, but Daugherty was tried on only one. The Ohio State bank failed on May 12, 1930.

Recalls the "Ohio Gang."
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—The conviction in Ohio of Mal Daugherty recalls the series of investigations which revolved about the Harding administration and "the Ohio gang." It brings back the names of his brother, Harry M. Dadgherty, former attorney general; Albert B. Fall, Jesse and Roxie Smith, Forbes, Gaston B. Means, and the "little green house on K street.

Mal Daugherty became a figure prominent in newspaper headlines during the investigation conducted by a special senatorial committee investigating Harry Daugherty's conduct of the department of justice.

Mal Daugherty was president of the Midland National bank, Washington Court House, O. Early in 1924 he was subpoenaed by the senate committee and ordered to produce records of his bank by means of which the investigators hoped to trace graft payments to his brother. He refused to appear and later at the trial of Harry Daugherty on conspiracy charges in New York it was testified that the wanted records had been burned. From this grew the Mal Daugherty case, which eventually was carried to the United States Supreme court and in which the senate's power of investigation was upheld.

THREE MEXICANS, ONE A GIRL, PERISH IN BOX CAR FIRE

Three Mexicans, members of a camp of railroad laborers in Cicero, were trapped by fire in their box car home at 31st street and 61st avenue early this morning and were burned to death. The dead are Anselelmo Espinosa, 46 years old; his daughter, Angelina, 16 years old, and a boarder, Jesus Rarnerera, 30 years old. Espinosa's wife, Trinaldad, escaped by crawling through a small window in the end of the box car.

The camp consists of fifteen or twenty box cars in which the laborers and their families make their homes. Shortly after 2 o'clock Luke Gregory, an engineer on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy line, as he was passing the camp in his engine, saw that one of the cars was afire. He notified the Cicero fire department, and three companies under Capt. Albert Grinstead responded. The firemen soon extinguished the flames, and after the fire was out the three bodies were found. The wife was taken to the county hospital, suffering from burns, cuts and bruises. The fire started from an overheated stove.

YOUNG EVANSTON DETECTIVE ENDS HIS LIFE ON JOB

George Durgin, 37 years old, 1509 Maple avenue, Evanston, reputed to be one of the best detectives on the police force of the suburb, ended his life in a sensational manner early this morning. He had been despondent because of trouble over alimony payments to his wife, from whom he was divorced more than a year ago, according to his mother, with whom he lived.

Durgin was a member of the squad headed by Sergt. Anton Schultz, and was at work during the night with Schultz and Elmer Sach, also a member of the squad. They were cruising in the squad car at Asbury and Howard streets, on the Chicago-Evanston line, when suddenly Durgin asked the driver to stop the machine. The detective alighted and went to the rear of a barbecue stand. Almost immediately Schultz and Sach heard a shot, and upon rushing to his side found Durgin had killed himself by firing a bullet into his brain.

NEW MEXICO SENATE VOTES TO MAKE, SELL RUM

Santa Fe, N. M., March 4.—(AP)—Without debate the New Mexico senate today adopted a favorable report on the proposed state liquor dispensary bill.

The measure, holding that the eighteenth amendment and state constitution do not prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor by a state, proposes to put New Mexico into the business of dispensing whisky, wine and beer to permit holders, with the products to be made in a state distillery.

4 Witnesses Disappear in White Trial

The trial of William J. ["Three Fingered Jack"] White, public enemy, for the murder of Policeman Edward Pfaume of Forest Park, came to a halt early yesterday afternoon when the state and defense lawyers charged each other in court with attempted jury tampering and intimidation of witnesses. The trial was continued until this morning to allow Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne to decide whether the state will continue with the case at this time or ask for a mistrial and postponement.

After the verbal battle between the prosecutors and Attorneys W. W. O'Brien, W. W. Smith, and Everett Jennings for the defense, it was established that at least three, possibly four, of the state's important witnesses have disappeared.

Jury Candidate Called.

The trial was proceeding steadily yesterday, with eight jurors sworn in, until Frank Eastman, 4357 West Adams street, was called into the jury box to be examined as to his qualifications.

Prosecutor Ditchburne started to question Eastman, who was the first man of the last panel of four. Previously, Attorney O'Brien for the defense had accepted two jurors with virtually no examination. He had done the same thing in the first panel.

Eastman was asked the usual questions and finally was asked whether he had talked to anybody about the case.

"No, I have not," he replied. "Last night some one tried to talk to me and——"

Tells of Phone Call.

Judge Joseph Sabath hurried the eight sworn jurors from the box at this point, believing that the venireman was about to say something which might prejudice the men already sworn. Eastman was then examined privately. He finally said that some one had telephoned his home at 9 o'clock and at 11 o'clock on Tuesday night and that his sister had talked to the man.

"She told me that the party said that he must see me before I went to court in the morning," he said.

The venireman was excused by agreement and a short recess was taken. Then the attorneys returned.

Prosecutor Ditchburne remarked to the judge that some of his witnesses from McHenry were missing. Attorney O'Brien countered with a statement to the effect that the Eastman affair was probably staged by the prosecutor to prejudice the defense.

"It is a funny thing that most of our witnesses disappear just as we are about to go to trial," said Prosecutor Ditchburne. "The witnesses were all right until the defense obtained their names. I have received word that four of our witnesses are now missing and I ask that this case be adjourned until I have time to investigate."

Objects to Trial Delay.

"I object to any continuance," said Attorney O'Brien. "This prosecutor knows that he has no case against this defendant.

"We talked to three of the witnesses in McHenry as we have a right to under the law. They will not identify White and the state's attorney knows it."

"John Joyce, another of our witnesses, has disappeared since he talked to O'Brien," replied Prosecutor Ditchburne. "Nobody has seen him since he talked to the defense attorneys."

Attorney O'Brien then said he had an affidavit from the missing Joyce. He said that Joyce does not identify White as the man who robbed him.

HINT AUTOPSY FINDINGS BLOW TO KIRKLAND

Experts Make Their Report Today.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Reynolds, Ind., March 4.—[Special.]—The body of Arlene Draves was exhumed from a grave in the St. James Lutheran cemetery here today and subjected to a second post-mortem examination by a committee of four medical experts, empowered by the Porter county Circuit court to seek new evidence in the case of Virgil Kirkland, now on trial at Valparaiso for the murder of the girl.

A remark of one of the examining doctors praising the completeness of the first autopsy was the most definite hint to the findings, which led to a belief that the report would fail to support the defense contentions. On the other hand, defense attorneys claimed that the report would benefit their claims.

The autopsy was conducted in the village hall, a one story shack furnished with six chairs, three polling booths and a couple of cuspidors. The examining surgeons were Dr. Joseph A. Springer of Chicago and Dr. Herman O. Seipel of Valparaiso for the defense, and Dr. E. S. Jones of Hammond and Dr. George F. Ecknell of East Chicago for the prosecution.

Coroner Presides at Autopsy.

Coroner W. L. Henry, an undertaker of Monon, presided by the judge's order. Sheriff Ray Fisher of Monticello cleared the room of every one else but the four surgeons and himself, excluding even the attorneys and other doctors. During the three hour examination the sheriff stood guard at the front door, but paid no heed to curious villagers peeping through window chinks at the rear.

Kirkland's attorney had demanded a second autopsy on the theory that Dr. J. B. Burcham of Gary, in performing the first, had overlooked a vital point and distorted his testimony at the trial to conceal the blunder. The young physician, just four years out of medical school, came to attend today's examination but, with Dr. Orlando F. Scott of Chicago, medical adviser to Kirkland's counsel, was excluded.

No Announcement of Findings.

While the four surgeons withheld an announcement as to whom their examination vindicated, Attorney Ronald Oldham of defense counsel said one of the experts had informed him the findings at least partially contradicted Dr. Burcham's sworn testimony. Dr. Burcham reiterated confidence that the report would fully affirm his testimony.

"We believe the autopsy findings will benefit the defense considerably," said Mr. Oldham. "The doctors told me their findings were not in exact accord with Dr. Burcham's testimony. In addition the surgeons found other evidence, which was sent to a Chicago pathological laboratory for examination tonight in preparation for introduction in the evidence tomorrow."

On the other hand, Dr. E. S. Jones, one of the state's physicians, pronounced Dr. Burcham's autopsy "very complete." The defense had asked the second examination on the charge that Dr. Burcham's autopsy had not been complete.

In contrast with the lurid aspect of the trial, during which the state's evidence was to show the manner of the girl's death was by repeated ravishment during a Gary liquor revel last Nov. 29, today's proceeding was a casual affair.

Snow Mantles Country Graveyard.

A heavy snow had fallen in the night and the cemetery, situated on a slope below a forest of gaunt oak trees, was shrouded in white. Around the open grave were the lawyers, the White county coroner and sheriff and six or seven persons who had known the Draves family when the father tilled a rented farm across the hill some 15 years ago.

The father, Charles Draves, was not present. His sons, Carl and Kenneth, and his daughter, Elsie, represented the family. They watched in silence and without tears as the cemetery sexton, Adam Vinyard, attached a set of canvas straps to the copper vault and the farmers tugged it to the surface.

The tardiness of Attorney Crumpacker and his pretty wife delayed the opening of the vault 45 minutes. Attorney Crumpacker had the judicial order of his father, Judge Crumpacker, before the reading of which the vault could not be touched.

The legal formalities concluded, the vault was opened and the gray velour casket was removed. Fastened in the center of the lid was a silver plate bearing the legend, "At Rest," so at variance with the events which were taking place.

With the hearse in the lead and the family car immediately following, the cortège started off over the snow packed road to the village hall. A score of idlers were on hand, and all crowded into the little room to view the casket.

The lid was opened. Elsie Draves came in for a farewell gaze at her sister. Without speaking or weeping she glanced at the figure reposing in the casket, the features strikingly like her own, with the cheeks faintly rouged and the slim hands folded across the black dress. Except for the funereal appearance of white ruffled satin around her, the girl might have been only sleeping.

Before Elsie had withdrawn Prosecutor Underwood and Attorney Crumpacker started bickering. The prosecutor's ire had been aroused by the presence of Dr. Springer, who, upon entering the room, lit a cigar, got out his notebook and began asking every one in sight for a name and address.

"Who are you?" Mr. Underwood demanded.

Protests Against Dr. Springer.

"Well, what's the idea? Are you in charge and what are you here for?" the prosecutor persisted.

Dr. Springer said he didn't know precisely why he was in attendance.

The prosecutor directed his attention to Attorney Crumpacker.

"I want it understood that only Indiana licensed physicians are to attend this autopsy," he announced belligerently. "We made such an agreement before your father and you know it."

"There's no such restriction in the court's order and there wasn't any agreement that I know of," Mr. Crumpacker retorted.

The battle was on and the jibes flew until a Gary embalmer, representing the Draves family, stepped forward.

Asks Respect for Dead.

"I think the casket should be closed," said the embalmer. "You know, we're in the presence of the dead."

"I serve notice right now that I won't allow Dr. Springer to testify at the trial," Mr. Underwood said, shaking a finger at his antagonist.

"I rely solely on the court's order," Mr. Crumpacker replied. "It's up to you, coroner; you're the presiding officer."

The coroner ruled that the court order did not bar Dr. Springer.

Attracted by the sharp exchange between attorneys, the room was filling with the curious. The air was blue with tobacco smoke, and the scene bore closer resemblance to a political rally than an autopsy.

Sheriff Clears Room.

Sheriff Fisher raised his voice and ordered everybody out. Some obeyed and others, removing their hats for the first time, sidled over in the corners to make themselves inconspicuous.

A half hour's pushing and shouting was required to clear the room and the sheriff had to open his coat as if to grasp his revolver to overawe one belligerent individual, who challenged his authority.

Attorney Robert H. Moore of Gary, representing Kirkland's co-defendants, Leon Stanford, Henry Shirk, Paul Barton, and David Thompson, engaged in a strenuous argument to persuade Coroner Henry to allow the quartette's physician, Dr. Maxwell Herschleder, to remain at the autopsy.

"If you don't, we may have to come out and do this all over again when my clients go to trial," Mr. Moore pleaded. The coroner was unmoved.

"I can't help it," he declared. "Let one in and you have to let them all in. Now, Mr. Underwood, what do you say, shall I throw the doors wide open?"

Room Finally Cleared.

Mr. Underwood explained that he, personally, was squeamish about autopsies and hence would not remain. He left the inference that other disinterested parties should also withdraw, which seemed to settle the argument against Attorney Moore.

Leading the disputants outside, the prosecutor took up his post at a window, peeped over a yellowed newspaper that was tacked up for a blind, and began counting the heads inside. When all but five had withdrawn he relaxed his vigilance and walked down the street to a restaurant.

The surgeons were busy until 1:30 p. m. When they had concluded and were surrounded by newspaper men, all chorused that there was nothing to say until Friday morning, before which time they expected to agree on their findings. In the interval some specimens of tissue discovered during the examination will be sent to a Chicago pathologist for further analysis, they said.

On a motion of Attorney Moore in Lake County court at Crown Point this afternoon, Judge Martin Smith granted a change of venue to Leon Stanford, who will thereby come before Judge Crumpacker for trial as Kirkland did. Plans concerning trial of the other three boys were not announced.

FOUR WITNESSES IN WHITE MURDER TRIAL DISAPPEAR

Case Is Halted After Lawyers' Charges.

"Serious accusations have been made here," Judge Sabath said finally. "The court certainly wants to know all about these charges and to take whatever may be the proper action in the matter. This case will be continued until tomorrow so that the state's attorney may investigate the disappearance, as he says, of his witnesses."

Says Witnesses Are Missing.

Hilding Hansen, a farmhand of Bearville, near McHenry, packed up his clothes at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and cannot be found, it is reported. Joseph Schaefer, a golf course caretaker, and Harry Morris, a golf professional, also have vanished, according to the prosecutor. These witnesses, it is alleged, would identify White as one of the men who, in December, 1925, held up the West McHenry State bank.

The prosecution intended to use this testimony to show that the police had ample reason to arrest White on sight, Joyce, according to the state, is to offer similar testimony.

The White case was revived during the recent drive against hoodlums, gunmen and racketeers. White was originally convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, but the state Supreme court reversed the lower court after two years, holding that at most White could be guilty only of manslaughter.

Robbed on 'L' Platform, He Reports It by Mail

Opening his mail, Chief of Detectives John Norton last night came across a letter from J. E. Dechman of Peoria. Mr. Dechman wrote: "Was in Chicago March 1. As I left an L train on the south side a man who left the train at the same time followed me. He backed me against the platform billboard and said: 'I want that glimmer you have on your shirt,' meanings the stud. He shoved a gun into my stomach and, of course, I let him take the stud, which is worth $300 to $500. P. S. This happened at 2 p. m."

ARRAIGN MOTHER OF 10 AS SELLER OF RUM TO PUPILS

Boy's Story Causes Raid on Her Place.

Mrs. Louisa Barieto, 45 years old, 126 East 115th street, mother of ten children ranging from 2 to 16 years old, was arraigned in the South Chicago court yesterday before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan on the charge of selling moonshine to students of Fenger High school, 112th street and Union avenue. The case was continued until Saturday at the request of Assistant State's Attorney Henry J. Samuel to allow time to produce student witnesses.

The complaint against Mrs. Barieto was signed by Clifford Brown, 15 years old, 654 West 116th place, a student at the Paul school, a private institution. Frank Brown, father of Clifford, forced his son to tell where he purchased liquor after the youth had come home intoxicated.

Clifford told of visiting the Barieto home and purchasing pints of liquor in company with students. The prosecutor said that he will produce four high school students to support Clifford's testimony at the hearing on Saturday.

Woman Faces Court.

Police, armed with a search warrant, raided the Barieto home, but found no liquor. Mrs. Barieto, a stooped, thin woman with her black hair matted about her dark face, stood mute in court. Assistant City Prosecutor Herbert M. Wetzel asked that she also be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Mrs. Barieto's bonds were set at $2,500. In her cell she said that her husband was out of work.

Mrs. Barieto's arrest came as the Woodlawn police, in coöperation with school authorities and the state's attorney's office, investigated the selling of gin to Hyde Park High school students, following charges made by Monica Henderson, 13 years old, 6619 Blackstone avenue. Two flats in which the girl said she was served liquor were raided, but no intoxicants were found. In a third raid Sergts. Egan, Lyon, Kelly, and Fitzsimmons arrested Bernice Burton, 30 years old, at 1207 East 63d street, when they found a quantity of gin and moonshine.

Judge Orders Inquiry.

The warrants were issued by Judge Howard Hayes, who ordered Assistant State's Attorney William R. Crow to conduct an investigation to determine whether the girl had been used by the police as a snooper.

Monica was questioned for two hours by Prosecutor Crow and Capt. Thomas Kilroy. Both were satisfied she had not been used as a tool by the policemen who arrested Guy Meyers, 6247 Blackstone avenue, on information given by her. Meyers is to be tried on March 11.

Girl Tells of Drinking.

Monica, whose eyes have a glint of hardness out of harmony with her slight, youthful figure and boyish bobbed hair, described her drinking to a reporter. In a casual tone she told of meeting a man friend, known to her only as Jack, at 63d street and Blackstone avenue and accepting his invitation to go on a party last Wednesday night.

"There were five couples of us in two machines," she said. "We drove north a while and then went to a place near the Stratford theater, 63d and Halsted streets, where we drank wine and gin. That is, I drank wine and the others drank gin. I don't go much for gin.

"Then we went to a roadhouse way south. I believe it was in the county. From there we came downtown for a bit to eat in a restaurant. Then we went south to a flat near the Windermere hotel. From there we went to two flats near 62d street and Blackstone avenue. Then to another restaurant. Then to Guy's at 6247 Blackstone.

"A Rather Full Evening."

"Then we went to a hamburger joint. After that we went back to the place near the theater, and finished up at Guy's. It was rather a full evening. I drank wine all the time, but the others went for heavy liquor."

The reporter expressed wonderment at her capacity.

"Oh, I've drunk plenty in my time," she answered with a shrug. "Of course, I dropped a glass or two back of a chair now and then. But it wasn't bad wine. I should judge it ran around 8 or 9 per cent. Now run along and peddle your papers."

Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan ordered that an inquiry into the charges of drinking by Fenger High school students be carried on with that prompted by the disclosures made by the 13 year old girl and raids by the Woodlawn police. The scope of the investigation will include all high schools if evidence obtained by truant officers reveals that such a course is necessary, Mr. Bogan said.

RUTH HAYES.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Eugenie Kast, 425 Briar place, was named as defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages filed yesterday in the Superior court by Miss Ruth Hays, 4330 Lincoln avenue, a milliner. Attorney John P. Loughnane, who filed the præcipe of the suit, said that the damages are asked for permanent scars which Miss Hays declares she received when she was bitten on the cheek by Mrs. Kast's chow dog while attending a party at the latter's home. The incident occurred on Friday the thirteenth in February of 1930, according to the attorney.

VOLIVA IS BACK FROM FLAT TOUR AROUND WORLD

Einstein Is 'Bunk'; Chaos to Come, Russia Ruling.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Apostolic church at Zion, Ill., returned here today from a trip around the world as flat as a pancake.

It was the globe that was flat, not Mr. Voliva. The gentleman with the frock coat and the big hat, who is best known for his astronomical vagaries, was his usual rotund self, in splendid health and eager for a tilt with any one concerning the true shape of the earth.

Learning that Prof. Albert Einstein, a rival savant who goes in for curves, was in town, Mr. Voliva at once dispatched Carl L. Huth, his secretary, in search of the German scientist with a challenge to debate. Unfortunately Prof. Einstein was preparing to sail.

Einstein Theory "Bunk."

"I've studied the Einstein theory," said Mr. Voliva, "and it is pure bunk. Just stuff on paper. The man has no proof. He even thinks a beam of light can curve around and hit him in the back of the head. Space—a round earth—the sun a million miles away. That's bunk. I can prove it. The sun is hanging in a big dome that fits over us like a cup and it is only 3,000 miles away. I have been around the world, but I have not been around a ball. Let me tell you something——" and that is exactly what Mr. Voliva did.

He talked of his ship, the President Harrison, that always sailed north and produced his own compass from a vest pocket to prove it; he described a world "full of hell and rushing to destruction," with 1935 marking the climax.

The world might not be totally destroyed then, he explained, but Russia would overrun Europe, influenza would sweep the hemispheres, India would rise against Britain, the yellow man would go on a rampage, and chaos generally would result. He cited visual and Biblical proof of his predictions.

Plans World Colonies.

He told of his plan to plant colonies throughout the world in spite of the approaching end, blamed the business depression, which he said was world-wide, on a machine age, and then swept it all aside with a magnificent gesture and painted a rosy word picture of approaching prosperity. He boasted of his "100 per cent health," and the next moment virtually dictated his will, bequeathing "my $10,000,000 personal property and maybe two or three farms" to a "trust to be administered for the benefit of humanity."

Mr. Voliva said he had tried to keep in touch with home affairs while on his voyage that began last Sept. 23 and took him to sixteen countries. Prohibition, he said, had nothing to do with crime in the United States—the people were just restless waiting for the end. As for politics, the man from Zion was more orthodox. He said, "I'm afraid the Democrats would sweep the country if a national election could be held right now."

He declined to discuss Chicago politically or spiritually, explaining he felt the rest of the world deserved a little attention from him at the moment.

Still Sure Earth Is Flat.

The Zion man of science said he had observed nothing on his voyage to change his conception of the earth as a dish with the north pole in the middle and a rim of ice around the edge to keep venturesome persons from falling off. What was beyond the edge, he would not venture to say, but he was certain there was not as much space as Prof. Einstein imagined.

FARM WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH.

Walhalla, N. D., March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. B. Johnson, 43, was shot and killed today at her farm home, ten miles southeast of here. Members of the family said Clement Lemay, 26, Beaulieu farmer, fired the shot after an argument with Emma Thorstienson, stepdaughter of the dead woman.

3 WEEKS' EXTENSION ON PAYMENT OF 1929 TAX BILLS SOUGHT

Taxpayers are expected to be granted an additional three weeks to pay their 1929 taxes, due April 1, it was announced yesterday by Attorney Thomas D. Nash, representing County Treasurer Joseph McDonough. The legislature will be asked to approve a bill extending the penalty date by approximately three weeks, according to the attorney, who is drafting the bill.

This decision followed a conference yesterday between the county treasurer and Omer Custer, new chairman of the state tax commission. McDonough has said it would be impossible to have all the tax bills in the mail by April 1, even though there is no further delay in preparing the bills.

The possibility of an additional delay will be settled next Monday by Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor. On that day he will announce his decision on the petitions of 30 downtown property owners to compel the board of review to reopen the hearings on complaints against the 1929 assessments. Attorney Roy Massena, representing the board of review, filed an amended answer to the petitions yesterday, declaring that the hearings should not be resumed because the complainants' objections had been considered, even though they did not appear personally before the reviewers.

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE TO WRECK 'PENNSY' TRAINS

New York, March 5 [Thursday].—[Special.]—An unsuccessful attempt to wreck one Pennsylvania railroad express train by dynamiting it and to derail another by means of a 50 pound stone was made last night near Stockton, N. J., according to officials of the New York offices of the railroad. Only slight damage resulted and no one was injured.

One of the trains was en route from Stroudsburg to Philadelphia. Upon arriving in Trenton the engineer of this train said he had heard a loud explosion as his train passed over a trestle near Stockton. Examination showed that a part of the pilot on the engine and a journal box on one of the passenger cars had been bent. A piece of dynamite was found near the spot where the explosion occurred.

Shortly afterwards a 50 pound bowlder and a smaller one were found nearby. Evidently they had been brushed aside by another train en route from Philadelphia to Stroudsburg.

POLICE RADIO SILENT AFTER BUCKLEY DIED

Detroit, Mich., March 4.—(AP)—The question of why radio, which carried Gerald E. Buckley's political speeches to thousands of Detroiters, should have failed to broadcast word that he had been shot to death in the La Salle hotel, July 23, was taken up by the prosecution in the trial of three men indicted for the slaying.

The radio station with which Buckley was identified was a private one. The state today fixed its attention on radio station WCK, operated by the Detroit police department to carry orders and alarms to cruising police cars.

Questioning by the state's attorney and by counsel for Ted Pinzino, Joe Bommarito, and Angelo Livecchi, the defendants, brought testimony that although there were eight radio equipped police cars within easy crying distance of the hotel at the time of the slaying, no alarm was broadcast.

INDIA REJOICES; PEACE PACT WITH BRITAIN IS SIGNED

Expect Gandhi to Retire to Life of Quiet.

NEW DELHI, India, March 4.—(AP)—When India awoke this morning it found peace on its doorstep.

Over night Mahatma Gandhi with the vision of a prophet had led his invisible sleeping multitudes from the precipice of war to the path of peace. By agreeing to forget and forgive the past he won the confidence of Viceroy Lord Irwin, who less than a year ago jailed the mystic agitator for challenging the authority of the British empire, and an accord was reached which ended the year old civil disobedience movement.

Nationalist circles naturally regard today's truce as a triumph of Gandhi's doctrine of nonviolence. The truce will allow the Mahatma to return to his Ashram colony at Ahmadabad, which he left a year ago on his famous march to the sea to make salt, vowing he would never return there until India gained self-government. With the future looking as promising as it does now he can return to his quiet life of meditation, study, and prayer.

Peace Pact Is Signed.

As Gandhi walked the six miles from the old Delhi to the new through the morning mists today he was followed by hundreds of workmen who had dropped their tools at the sight of him. It was exactly noon when he reached the Viceregal palace.

Five minutes later his signature had put into effect an armistice. He shook hands with Lord Irwin, and the broken friendship between Great Britain and India was reunited.

As the little leader emerged triumphantly shortly afterward the bells of the Hindu temples by a striking coincidence were heralding the Holi festival—or the advent of spring and peace, when the entire Hindu world proclaims itself to be in peace and harmony with all mankind. News of the truce flew all over India, and natives observed this day as a double holiday. Their rejoicings took the form of covering themselves with the seven colors of spring, which is one of the greatest Hindu ceremonial rites.

Calls Off Civil Disobedience.

Gandhi later returned to the viceroy's palace and took immediate measures toward calling off the civil disobedience, which in its single year has caused the British empire almost more trouble than all the previous Indian revolts and mutinies combined.

While the terms of the agreement have not been officially published, it is understood they are as follows:

1. The Nationalists will abandon the civil resistance movement.

2. Indians along the coast will be given the right to manufacture their own salt and thus will not have to purchase it from the government monopoly.

3. Property of congress adherents which has been confiscated because of nonpayment of taxes will be returned, with certain reservations.

Picketing Is Permitted.

4. Nationalists will be permitted to do picketing within the normal laws of the country and will be permitted to conduct boycotts so long as they do not aim specifically at British goods—in other words, if their idea is to enforce local trade and ind stry.

5. Nationalists who were imprisoned for civil disobedience activities will be given amnesty and all government repressive measures will be withdrawn.

6. The Nationalists drop their demand for an investigation into alleged police brutality.

7. The government won from them consent to work for qualified dominion status in a second round table conference.

While the Nationalists have admittedly gained much by accepting the settlement, it is pointed out on the government side that Great Britain gains equal if not greater advantages.

The most important gain in this direction was the point in which the Nationalists agreed to confine themselves at the next round table conference to the specified scope of constitutional questions elucidated by the first round table meeting in London.

This commits Gandhi to the principle of a federation of Indian responsibility, but with British safeguards covering finance, defense, foreign affairs, the position of minorities and the discharge of India's national debts.

GANDHI HAS DRINK WITH IRWIN; USES CONTRABAND SALT

NEW DELHI, March 4.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and Viceroy Lord Irwin met in solemn conclave to sign a truce ending India's strife today, but it was lightened by one amusing incident.

After declining to drink a cup of tea with Lord Irwin, the mahatma ordered a glass of lemon juice water containing contraband salt.

"Now that salt forms part of our peace pact you can't arrest me," he said laughingly.

Honor General at Rites Tomorrow.

Chicago tomorrow will observe the 100th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Phillip Henry Sheridan, brilliant cavalry leader of the Civil war and commander of the armies of the United States from 1883 until his death in 1888.

Formal exercises under the auspices of the Sheridan centenary committee, will began at 11 a. m., when a wreath will be laid on the equestrian statue of the general at Belmont avenue and Sheridan road. A firing squad from Fort Sheridan, accompanied by a color guard and a bugler, will give the customary military honors.

Cermak to Lay Wreath.

Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, has been chosen by committe to place the wreath as the representative of the city. Gen. Sheridan gave important service to Chicago during the fire of 1871, and older residents and historical experts grant him credit for stopping the conflagration and through the agencies of martial law maintaining order afterward. He was a resident of the city at the time.

A military escort, composed of ex-service men who won the Distinguished Service cross, will accompany Mr. Cermak during the exercises. Members of the American Legion, including Lawrence J. Fenlon, Frank W. Kee, R. P. O'Reilly, Harold Schradzski, Joseph Novotny, C. E. Taylor, Edward Clamage, George M. Kellogg and H. E. Reading also will attend.

Albany Plans Exercises.

A luncheon at the Hotel Sherman will follow. Speakers will be Judge John P. McGoorty, J. J. Kelly and Mr. Cermak. John F. Bolton, chairman of the centenary committee, will preside.

The Sheridan anniversary will be observed also at Albany, N. Y., the general's birthplace. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be the principal speaker at the exercises there.

GEN. J. E. STUART SINKS INTO COMA; FEAR DEATH NEAR

Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart, 89 years old, veteran of the civil, Spanish-American, and world wars, was near death this morning at his home at 3144 West Monroe street. He sank into a coma about 7 o'clock last night and Dr. Frank Chapman was called to his bedside. Gen. Stuart became ill about two weeks ago, but because of his age failed to rally sufficiently to overcome his ailment.

Gen. Stuart won the coveted lapel rose decoration for heroism in the civil war. Most of his civilian life was spent in the postal service, and for years he served as chief postal inspector of the Chicago district. He retired in 1920.

POLICE UNRAVEL THE MYSTERY OF LEAPING WOMEN

Detective Sergts. Frank McNamara and Henry C. McNurney of the Pekin Inn station were confronted with a mystery yesterday, but after due deliberation they reached a solution.

The mystery concerned why several women, walking south in Michigan avenue, would suddenly leap into the air when they passed No. 2626. After leaping and eyeing with suspicion the two policemen, who were standing nearby, the women would recover their poise and hurry on. One threatened to get a policeman and make an arrest.

After witnessing the strange spectacle several times and walking around the block to deliberate on the matter McNamara and McNurney entered the rooming house at No. 2626, climbed the stairs to the second floor, and crept from door to door until they heard a popping sound in a room.

They entered unannounced. At a window, with a spring projector pistol, was Beardsley Sperry, 26 years old, who had been taking a correspondence course in marksmanship and was using the pedestrians as moving targets. It was, he explained, entirely harmless, as his buckshot were too light to do more than sting.

But Sperry will answer to a charge of disorderly conduct in the Pekin Inn court today.

FAMILY EXHIBIT REFUTES THEORY OF EYE COLORS

Blues and Browns Are Mixed in Court.

Gregor Mendel may have known just what the offspring of garden peas would look like when he mated a dwarf with a tall pea, but a number of witnesses took issue with conclusions he drew about inherited human characteristics yesterday.

Some of them, witnesses for George Adair Greene Longley of Los Angeles in his suit to break the will of Albert W. Longley, millionaire hat manufacturer of Chicago, identified as their own, children whose eyes were brown while theirs were blue, in direct defiance of the Mendelian laws.

Leo Turney of Glencoe, a jeweler, was excused from jury duty in another court long enough to testify in Judge Michael Feinberg's court, where the Longley hearing is in progress. Turney said that his eyes are blue, that he believed his wife's are gray-blue, and that two Turney children in the courtroom, William, 18 years old, and Sue, 17, have brown eyes.

Spectators Look for Eyes.

Mr. Turney's eyes were partly hidden by shinning eye glasses, and as he testified spectators in the crowded courtroom twisted and turned in an effort to see how blue they are. Mrs. Turney and the children also testified. When Sue was examined by George Longley's counsel, Edward Everett, she opened her eyes widely. They were unmistakably brown and pretty. Her three younger brothers have blue eyes, she said.

This is the seventh week of the Longley hearing, in which George Longley claims he is the son of Albert. The defense, representing Mrs. Mary Caroline Longley, the manufacturer's third wife, other heirs, and seven Chicago charitable institutions which are beneficiaries under the will, produced evidence that according to the Mendelian laws of heredity George Longley, brown eyed, could not be the son of Albert W. Longley, who had blue eyes, and his first wife, who likewise was blue eyed.

Yesterday the complainant's counsel in rebuttal strove to prove that the Mendelian concepts are theories, not laws, and that they are not known by experiment to apply to the human race.

A Blue Brown Eyed Witness.

John W. Hudson, instructor in biology and genetics at Loyola university, and himself blue eyed—although he says they're "scientifically brown"—was another Mendel opponent yesterday.

"Just what is the Mendelian law?" asked Attorney Everett of his witness.

The professor adjusted his eye glasses and regarded the brown eyes of the attorney with his own apparently blue but scientifically brown ones.

"There are three supposed laws," he said. "The first is this; that when two genetic characters are paired together so that one or the other is always present in the organism, only one will express itself, and it will be the dominant one. This is the law of dominance.

Did Not Study Humans.

"The second law is that of independent unit characters. In other words, if a tall red plant is crossed with a dwarf white plant, the tallness and the redness both are dominant characteristics, but one of the offspring may be dwarf red. The third law is that the sperm cannot transmit both tallness and dwarfness to the offspring, only one or another."

Q.—Did Mendel ever try to apply these laws to the human body? A.—There is no reference to it in his works if he did. Dalton was one of the first to study heredity with relation to human beings.

Q.—But have there been any experiments on human beings? A.—Not on human beings.

Tells Limits of Human Tests.

Q.—Is there any reason why such experiments cannot be performed? A.—Because there must be pure bred stock as regards the characteristic you are studying. It's impossible to secure such stock when there's at least 16 years between generations. Also it would be necessary to breed closely, and I understand that's legally prohibited.

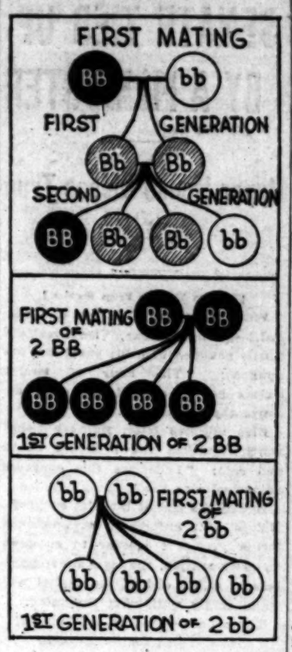
JUDGE FEINBERG — Yes, that hasn't been done since Noah's ark or earlier.

Q.—How many human characteristics are supposed to be affected by these laws? A.—Feeblemindedness, web fingers, six-fingered condition, color of hair and color of eyes, and possibly a tendency to certain diseases.

"But either you have six fingers or you don't have," said Prof. Hudson, "whereas eye colors are not in distinct classes. Eye color grades from blue to dark brown or almost black. Inheritance of eye color is therefore so complicated that a number of factors are involved.

Dr. Frank X. Walls testified that the medical world "does not accept" the Mendelian laws.

How Theory Works



The Mendelian law of heredity, which has been invoked in the suit over the will of the late Albert W. Longley to attempt to prove that George A. G. Longley cannot be the son of the late Longley and his first wife, originated in experiments carried out in the cloister garden of the monk, Gregor Mendel, once a peasant boy.

The Encyclopædia Britannica says: "A few diseases, such as alcaptonuria and congenital cataract, a digital malformation, and probably eye color, are as yet the only causes in which inheritance has been shown to run upon Mendelian lines."

If the Mendelian law applies to eye color, biologists have contended, brown, which is the dominant color characteristic, will appear whenever both brown and blue characteristics are present. That is, the color will appear as brown, although blue, a recessive character, may be present.

Thus, if it were possible to inbreed among human beings as it is among animals or plants, a man with pure brown eyes, indicated by two capital Bs [the capital B standing for brown], might be mated with a woman with pure blue eyes. As blue is recessive, this may be indicated by two small b's."

The offspring all would have brown eyes, but would retain the recessive character, blue, indicated by the "b." If two members of this generation of offspring were mated, one-fourth of their offspring would have all brown eyes, one fourth all blue eyes, and one-half would have apparently brown eyes, with the inherited recessive character, blue, present.

GORDON WITNESS VICTIM OF ACID ATTACK, SHE SAYS

But Prosecutor Doubts Her Story.

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Melodrama was piled on tragedy in the Vivian Gordon murder case this afternoon.

Her face scarred by burns, Mrs. Lena Holsey, Miss Gordon's Cuban maid, told Mount Vernon police two men had hurled acid in her eyes after telling her to keep away from the grand jury.

The story as given out by the police after ten hours' delay was that two men had come to her door and had asked her if she had received a subpoena.

Doubts Her Story.

She said she told them she had, whereupon they declared there was no need to go as the hearing had been postponed. When she questioned them further, she said, one of them drew forth a bottle and hurled acid in her face, burning her cheek, her chin, and her right eye. A doctor treated her and said her condition was not serious.

At the office of District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, however, it was said that investigators who went to the house found only one set of footprints, presumably made by the doctor. Mr. McLaughlin intimated the woman sought publicity.

Seek Expert Assistance.

This afternoon District Attorney McLaughlin turned to Columbia university for expert assistance.

He asked two members of the faculty to examine the rope with which the woman was strangled. He hopes they may help him in tracing it to its place of sale and thus, perhaps, help in discovering its purchasers.

At Bellevue hospital investigators, learned definitely that Miss Gordon once had been committed to the narcotic ward for observation.

Mayor Walker Plans Trip to California for Health

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker made known today that he will leave soon for California where he will stay three or four weeks. The mayor has accepted the invitation of Samuel Untermyer to occupy the latter's country home at Palm Springs, from which Mr. Untermyer only recently returned. The mayor explained that he believed the climate and quiet in California would do him more good than any other retreat he could think of. Mr. Untermyer told him that his own recent rest at Palm Springs after an illness had probably saved his life. Mayor Walker has been advised to take a vacation by his physician, Dr. William Schroeder Jr.

REPORT REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF $100,000 LONG LOST JEWELS

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edgar F. Luckenbach's jewels, worth more than $100,000, which she lost in a taxicab last December, have been recovered in Newark in a most unexpected way, it was learned today.

Prosecutor Joseph L. Smith of Essex county, N. J., is reported to have led a squad of detectives into the office of a trust company almost in the shadow of the Essex county courthouse on Monday night and surprised Noel C. Scaffa, private investigator, and Mrs. Luckenbach's attorneys negotiating for the return of the lost gems.

Their loss was ascribed to forgetfulness. After a taxicab took Mrs. Luckenbach from Mayfair house in Park avenue to the Pennsylvania station the gems were found by two young men named Martin and Goodwin Jaris, the next occupants of the cab.

Scaffa, investigator for a surety company, made his reputation by recovering the $683,000 Donahue jewelry in 1925.

Smith disclosed that when he led his detectives into the trust company office he discovered Scaffa, both Jarises and Mrs. Luckenbach's attorneys at a round table discussing the return of the jewels.

Mrs. Luckenbach, wife of the steamship operator, was reported to be in Florida today.

DEMOCRATS WILL STAGE A FAMILY FIGHT OVER RUM

Meeting Today Promises Bitter Contest.

chairman acted like a holder of a mortgage on the party, who was going to foreclose unless it bowed to his wishes.

This was a reference to the fact that Mr. Raskob has financed the party entirely since the 1928 election. Mr. Raskob or banks which he and his friends control, have loaned the party an aggregate of $600,000 and one of the questions the chairman is to bring up tomorrow is how and when the party purposes to pay this debt. Some of the drys profess to see in the proceeding an ultimatum to the party to go wet at the dictate of Mr. Raskob or suffer foreclosure of the mortgage.

Mr. Raskob's reputed majority of the committee is made up, in part, of proxies, including those of committeemen representing Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines and the Panama Canal Zone. Former Gov. Byrd said that he would fight the voting of these proxies by Mr. Raskob, on the ground that they were given without knowledge of the use to which they are to be put.

May Modify His Stand.

While Mr. Raskob was generally represented as adhering steadfastly to his determination to put through an anti-prohibition declaration, some of the drys thought he had yielded to their representations to the extent of modifying his proposals.

Under the reported modification the action tomorrow would take the form merely of recommendations by both the wet and the dry members of the committee to be transmitted to the resolutions committee of the national convention next year.

Mr. Smith conceded that the national committee has no authority to go beyond the submission of recommendations to the convention. He said that if nothing else were done tomorrow, it would let the people know that the Democratic national committee is functioning between elections.

James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for President in 1920, arrived tonight. He stated that he is for repeal of prohibition and thinks this will be the paramount issue.

"Sphinx of the Senate" Remains Silent to End

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(AP)—Senator Morrow's title, "The Sphinx of the Senate," still held when congress adjourned today.

Throughout the session he remained a spectator, speaking out only in answer to his name when the roll was called. He introduced no bills.

Pressed for an explanation of his silence, he smilingly remarked that "a newcomer must first learn the rules of the game."

House Ends Legislative Life with Song and Much Joy

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—When the prohibition enforcer applauds a song all about gin, when lugubrious looking Secretary Wilbur actually giggles, when the Republicans applaud a Tammany yell, and the Democrats cheer Nick Longworth, then you may know that the house of representatives is staging its post-session stunt party.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN
[Associated Press Photo.]

Today, at noon, immediately following its adjournment, the house abandoned statesmanship for showmanship. For more than an hour congressmen capered through a program that sent Speaker Longworth to the piano and Massachusetts Connery to the top of a table, where he did a song and dance. Representative La Guardia, the pudgy New Yorker, led the Marine band, and Ruth Bryan Owen, with orchids at her shoulder, gave her comrades a tuneful warning about packing up their troubles in the old kit bag.

Every Word a Funny One.

They took Mrs. Owen's advice. They sang and yelled and cheered. Every remark was a funny remark and had to be applauded. Every fellow was a good fellow, no matter if he sat across the aisle. They seemed to have forgotten all about last night's hours of bickerings.

The speaker's gavel, which last night was so distasteful to many a Democrat, sounded sweetly on the ears of all when it banged the adjournment. As Longworth stepped out of the chair, Representative Joseph Byrns of Tennessee stepped into it. Up jumped Representative Crisp, a Georgia Democrat, who called for a speech by Mr. Longworth.

Everybody was loud and joyous. And it was some minutes before the house would quiet itself to listen to the speech it was calling for.

"This may be the last time," Mr. Longworth began slowly, "that I shall address you from this platform."

There was a commotion on the Democratic side.

"I do not mean to insinuate," Mr. Longworth added slowly, "that I regard that as a promise."

There was a commotion on the Republican side.

"It is all in the hands of an all wise Providence." Then both sides clapped and cheered. "Whatever Providence may decree, I am absolutely satisfied. I ought to be. But three speakers have had longer continuous service than I. I have enjoyed practically every minute of it, except a few minutes last night."

Up in the gallery Alice Roosevelt Longworth laughed as enthusiastically as anybody.

La Guardia Leads the Band.

Then a section of the Marine band came in, in their scarlet coats and bright blue trousers, and played some tunes. Representative Connery, who sang for the soldiers during the war, did his bit. He insisted that La Guardia lead the band. La Guardia broke one baton in the performance of duty, but another was at hand.

About this time there was a flurry at the door and four cabinet members, Mitchell, Wilbur, Lamont, and Doak, were ushered in. At first they were very ceremonious and official. Then Secretary Wilbur found himself singing the chorus of Ruth Bryan Owen's song and even swaying a little as her hands gestured the rhythm. When Representative Woodrum sang "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," Secretary Doak, who lives there, hummed happily along with him. A quintet from Roanoke sang about "Smoky Mountain Bill," who had a still and drank a lot of gin.

Longworth at the Piano.

It was Representative Woodrum's song which got Longworth to the piano. Woodrum, with mock ceremony, made a motion that the "Speaker, who works when we work, ought to play when we play," and pointed to the piano. Longworth called back, "Motion's out of order."

"Overruled; overruled," came from all parts of the chamber.

"That's the second time in my life I've been overruled," he remarked, and swept his fingers over the keys.

Somewhere in the proceedings came the "Sidewalks of New York"; yes, the Republicans sang it, too. As soon as it was over a group of New Yorkers gave the Tammany yell.

The interstate commerce commission chorus sang; up in the gallery a woman unfurled an American flag; the press gallery admitted, lyrically, that it wanted a girl "Just like the girl that married dear old dad," and everybody stood to sing "God Be with You Until We Meet Again."

CONGRESS ENDS, SENATE TIED UP BY A FILIBUSTER

Upper House Closes True to Type.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—At noon today, Vice President Curtis pounded with his gavel and announced: "The hour of twelve o'clock having arrived, the chair declares the senate adjourned."

Five minutes later, Speaker Longworth whacked the sounding board and said: "I declare this congress adjourned sine die."

It was the end of the 71st congress. Unless some unforeseen circumstance forces President Hoover to summon an extra session, the legislative chambers at either end of the capitol will stand empty until next December.

The senate ended on a filibuster.

Nice Words for Longworth.

The house shoved back the hands of its clock in order to toss a speech of thanks at Mr. Longworth, whose dictatorship only a few hours before, it had been cussing heartily.

It was a typical ending for both houses.

It will go down in parliamentary tradition as the occasion on which congress adjourned without formally notifying the President.

Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] was the man who literally talked the senate to a standstill. Taking the floor at 9 o'clock, this morning he held until the final gavel. He was filibustering because the senate had refused to take up the Nye resolution for a senatorial investigation of the oil industry. Senator Thomas spoke, he said, in favor of the small companies and the common man.

Refuses to Yield Floor.

Round and about him swirled three separate cross currents. It was a filibuster approved by about half the senate. He was holding up the maternity bill, the immigration bill, and the copyright bill. Each bill's opponents silently applauded the Oklahoma senator for shouldering the load.

From a brief ease, Senator Thomas tugged a pair of patched and dirty overalls.

"The men in every state of the union who wear such as these," he said, "have received no consideration from this congress." He waved them in the direction of the Republican side. "They ought," he said, "to be the badge of the party in power at the next campaign."

Senator after senator pleaded with him to yield, so that this piece of last minute business or that might be accomplished. He yielded so that the veterans' hospitalization bill might be received from the house and its accompanying $5,000,000 appropriation concurred in.

He would have yielded to permit the passage of a compromise resolution concerning the copyright measure, but Senator Blaine of Wisconsin objected. All other requests he refused.

Many Confirmations Prevented.

The confirmation of six judges for the Philippines Supreme court, of Richard N. Elliott for assistant comptroller general, of Gunner H. Nordbye for federal judge in Minnesota, of other judges, district attorneys, marshals, and some three hundred postmasters went by the board.

"They aren't suffering," said Senator Thomas, picking up the overalls. "They're not wearing clothes like these."

Vice President Curtis interrupted Senator Thomas to say that he wished to lay before the senate the joint resolution which, according to long custom, provides for a committee to wait on the President, inform him that congress had completed its work and was ready to adjourn, and to ask whether he had any further communication to make.

Senator Thomas yielded—provided he did not lose the floor.

Norris Sees His Chance.

It was the signal for Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska insurgent Republican. Two days ago President Hoover vetoed the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution.

"A motion to adopt the resolution is debatable," said Senator Norris. "And I shall wish to debate it."

Senator Thomas claimed the floor he had yielded. Vice President Curtis withdrew the resolution and the President went uninformed. In the house the veterans' hospitalization bill, authorizing an appropriation of $20,850,000 was agreed to, the controversy over the allocation of the money being decided in favor of the senate amendment which placed the distributing power in the hands of the administrator of veterans' affairs instead of specifying each project.

Representative Chindblom [Rep., Ill.] made a final appeal for passage of the Chicago World's Fair bill with its authorization of $1,725,000 for federal participation in the fair. He asked unanimous consent.

15 VETOES MARK HOOVER'S ROWS WITH CONGRESS

dispute between his political friends and foes.

The President's friends point out that his most serious reverses have occurred in connection with veterans' legislation, notably when the congress overrode the Spanish war pension bill a year ago, and then followed it by forcing him to accept a compromise bill for disability allowances after he had vetoed the first bill passed and more recently when congress passed the veterans' bonus loan bill over his veto.

The President's foes insist that he has suffered politically by reason of the constant hammering given him in the senate, even in cases where he won out in the end with the aid of the house. They think he has been hurt by the contests over confirmations of his appointments in the senate, including the rejection of Judge John J. Parker for associate justice of the Supreme court and the unsuccessful fights against Charles Evans Hughes for chief justice and against appointees for the tariff and power commissions and the federal reserve board.

ILLINOIS SENATE VOTES HELP FOR CHICAGO'S FAIR

Fund Is Provided by the Upper House.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—State support of the 1933 Chicago World's Fair was promised in the senate this morning, that body passing Senator Roy C. Woods' bill to appropriate $500,000 for an Illinois exhibit and appointing a commission of twenty to arrange details. The bill now goes to the house for approval.

Three other bills were passed by the senate, all applying to Chicago park districts. Two affected Lincoln park alone; one to allow the further annexation of submerged land and to extend highways and boulevards and the other giving the district the right, upon a referendum, to acquire park districts whose boundaries adjoin Lincoln park. They were sponsored by Senator James J. Barbour, Evanston.

The third bill, introduced by Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, gives full police power to police officers employed by park commissioners in counties of more than 500,000 population. Their powers are now limited to traffic control. These bills must also pass the house.

Two resolutions in the house attracted attention. One, written by Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe [Dem., Chicago] called for the appointment of three representatives and three senators to form an emergency taxation commission which would conduct a rapid survey of the financial situations in the state as a whole, and Cook county in particular, to determine what steps must be taken to prevent the exhaustion of state and county funds. It was referred to the revenue committee.

Representative Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin] introduced a resolution which would create a committee of five representatives to examine laws governing fraternal insurance organizations. The resolution mentioned the disenfranchisement of 50,000 members of the Modern Woodmen of America through the raising of rates for insurance. As an example, the resolution stated that rates of $1.50 per $1,000 have been raised as high as $40 and $50 per $1,000. The order's national headquarters are at Rock Island.

HARBOR PROJECT PLANS TO BE TOLD IN HEARING TODAY

Harbor development problems in the Chicago area will be discussed today at a public hearing called by Col. E. M. Markham, senior member of the army board of engineers, in the naval reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street, in Grant park. City officials, representatives of industrial, shipping, and business groups, and others concerned with waterway improvements will attend.

Under an act adopted by congress a year ago the war department engineers have been making a survey of the Calumet river region and tentative conclusions have been reached. These include plans to widen the Calumet-Sag canal, to dredge the Calumet river and its branches, and to develop Lake Calumet into a harbor. These proposed projects will be outlined at the hearing

REMAP WINS IN COMMITTEE OF ILLINOIS HOUSE

Four Downstaters Join in Favorable Report.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—Four legislators from growing downstate cities swung in with Cook county members in the house judiciary committee today and with their aid the Schnackenberg reapportionment resolution was reported out with a recommendation that it be adopted by the assembly. It provides for a joint committee of five from the senate and five from the house to make a "fair and just plan" for a remap of the senatorial districts, now thirty years old.

The vote stood 22 to 18. The 22 affirmative votes came from eighteen Cook county members and four downstaters—Luther B. Bratton [Rep.] of Kankakee, W. O. Edwards [Dem.] of Danville, William E. Gilmore [Dem.] of Champaign, and Schaefer O'Neill [Dem.] of Alton.

A stormy hearing in which the word "liar" was tossed preceded the vote. Arthur Roe [Dem.] of Vandalia and Sol P. Roderick [Rep.] of Chicago got into a controversy engendered when Mr. Roderick reproached members who fight reapportionment as being "violators of the oath of office."

Break Away from Old Leaders.

The debate brought out a disposition on the part of some new members from downstate, from regions which are in the same boat as Chicago on constricted representation, to cut loose from some of the old downstate leaders, who as prophets of gloom today declared a remap "has no chance" unless Cook county agrees to be limited in the assembly.

The committee turned thumbs down on the Roe resolution for a constitutional amendment limiting Cook county, and on the Barr resolution, said to be favored by Gov. Emmerson, calling for a commission with an appropriation of $10,000 to study the question. Both these were reported out with unfavorable recommendations.

"It's like giving away $10,000 for something you already know," said Howard L. Doyle [Dem.] of Decatur, a first termer, who campaigned on the reapportionment issue. "Not since 1911 has a legislature followed the constitution it takes oath to uphold. I have yet to learn, despite this talk of the downstate fear of Cook county, of any measure introduced by a Cook county member inimical to downstate. I think Cook county is entitled to just representation here. Other cities downstate are not fully represented here.

Called Political Football.

"It's been made a political football. By taking from people in certain areas the right of representation you are not doing what your oath of office binds you to, which is to support the constitution."

Arthur Roe spoke for the idea of limiting Cook county as set forth in his resolution.

"We've not solved this question yet," he said, "and we can't solve it unless we get some outside help."

"Well," interjected Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem.] of Chicago, "it's not going to be done by a governor's body. The governor has no right to interfere. The constitution says the general assembly shall reapportion every ten years."

"Yea," cried Mr. Roe, "we've heard that so much it's pitiful."

Elmer J. Schnackenberg dropped a little oil on the waters.

"My resolution," he said, "is for a redistricting under the constitution. The Barr resolution is a dilly dally.

"If there is any place in the world where there is taxation without representation it is Illinois. By the irony of fate, in the house this morning Lieut. Gov. Price of Virginia, cradle of liberty, spoke of the victory at Yorktown as establishing the principle of no taxation without representation."

Uses Emmerson Argument.

Roger F. Little [Rep.] of Champaign expounded the principle discovered by Gov. Emmerson that representation does not depend on population alone, despite what the constitution says.

"Representation in legislative bodies should not be based on population alone," said Mr. Little. "This taxation without representation doesn't exist."

"Well," said Edwards of Danville, "I don't agree that nothing can be done. I'm not playing politics and I'm not afraid to vote. We've either got to reapportion, or some day Chicago will take steps to form its own government. And we all love Chicago. We know that when the burden of taxes is placed Chicago's where we get our revenue."

The next battle comes on the house floor, over the Schnackenberg resolution.

POSSESSION IS VITAL POINT IN SUIT OVER PUP

The old proverb, possession is nine points of the law, plus a German police puppy's acknowledgement of several names, decided a problem of dog ownership before Judge Joseph A. Graber in Fillmore street court yesterday.

In court stood Mrs. Nora O'Keefe of 207 North Crawford avenue, and Mrs. Teresa Culbertson of 4129 Washington boulevard, claimants of the police dog. To prove her claim, Mrs. O'Keefe beckoned the animal by calling "Hi, Pat, come, Pat." The dog ran to her. Mrs. Culbertson followed immediately with calls of "Come, Kriss, come, Kriss." The dog ran to her. Judge Graber, unconvinced, instructed his bailiff to test the dog. The bailiff called "Come, Julian, come, Julian." The dog yipped joyfully and ran to him.

Judge Graber ruled that the dog should be awarded to Mrs. Culbertson because the animal was in her possession last.

LEWIS BECOMES SENATOR BEFORE HE REALIZES IT

Will Leave Tomorrow for Washington.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When James Hamilton Lewis became United States Senator Lewis at 11 o'clock yesterday he didn't even realize the change in his status.

"I knew, of course," he said later in the day, "that my term of office began at noon Washington time, but I had overlooked the difference of one hour between Washington and Chicago time. I was busily engaged in federal court at 11 o'clock and my attention wasn't even called to the fact that I once more was a member of the senate."

At the same hour Charles S. Deneen became an ex-senator. He was in Washington and it was said that he intended to take a night train for Chicago.

Tells About His Plans.

Asked about his plans, Senator Lewis said that he had been informed that the department and bureau heads at the capital would be busy the rest of this week with the requests of departing senators and representatives and that he would be unable to get attention for Illinois matters in which he is interested until next week.

"So I probably shall not leave until Friday," he said, "and that will give me the Saturday half holiday there to confer with my friends."

The senator said in response to a question that he had seen no reason for his presence in Washington during the meeting of the Democratic national committee today.

Must Stay in Jurisdiction.

"I am not a member of the committee," he said, "and am not concerned with the business of the committee so long as it remains within its own jurisdiction. If it attempts to usurp the powers of the next national convention, the membership of which is still to be chosen by the party, I shall feel that it is exceeding its privileges and shall not consider myself bound by any committee platform."

The senator said he was not directly interested in the selection of the place for the next national convention, but it was understood that Michael L. Igoe and Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, Illinois' representatives on the national committee, left for Washington with the intention of insisting upon Chicago's advantages for the 1932 meeting.

Stadium Ready for Use.

They will point out, it was said, that the chief objection to Chicago in the past, its lack of a suitable convention hall, will be met now with the fact that the Stadium on the west side meets all the requirements for the convention.

This local discussion of national politics cropped out in the first lull in the mayoralty campaign activities. With both Mayor Thompson and A. J. Cermak out of the city there were no new developments in this latter field.

The Democrats announced that their new headquarters in the Ashland block will be opened to the public informally this afternoon. They also pointed with joy to a meeting of several hundred Republican and independent women who now are with Cermak. It was held at the South Shore Country club.

At a meeting at Michigan avenue and 51st street, in which two Negro organizations, the South Side Citizens' league and the Fourth Ward Voters' league, were merged, resolutions were adopted condemning Thompson and indorsing Cermak.

DECLARES SCIENCE LACKS STANDARDS FOR DRIVER TESTS

Dr. Paul Schroeder, Illinois state criminologist, told the annual midwest safety conference, in session at the Stevens hotel yesterday, that the research of psychiatry into the causes of traffic accidents has been inadequate to prescribe a technique for determining the fitness of a person to operate an automobile.

"The examinations required under certain drivers' license laws are of little value in detecting a mental weakness that would make an applicant an unsafe person behind a steering wheel," he said. "I have examined men serving in the penitentiary for manslaughter by automobile who would be menaces driving an automobile yet they could pass any of the tests required for a driver's license."

Howard R. Olson, highway engineer for the Chicago Regional Planning association, said that members of his profession are likewise working on the traffic problem without adequate information, designing streets and roads with little information on the volume and character of traffic and on the causes of accidents.

Industrial safety experts will hold sectional meetings all day today followed by a banquet tonight ending the conference.

Mrs. Emily H. Gridley, the widow, is to receive the personal effects of the broker, and a sister, Irene T. Hyde, is given Mr. Gridley's real estate on Batavia road in Geneva township. The remainder of the estate is to be placed in trusteeship of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, the widow to have five-eighths and the sister three-eighths of the income.

Cop Fails to Report at Hospital; May Lose Job

The failure of Policeman Michael E. Morrison to report to a sanitarium in Milwaukee may cost him his job. According to evidence presented to the police trial board yesterday Morrison reported on Feb. 10 to the Stanton avenue station that he was ill and had been ordered to a sanitarium in Milwaukee. A canvass of institutions there failed to disclose Morrison as a patient. He has not been heard from since the day he reported he was ill. The case was taken under advisement by the board.

DR. ROBERTSON IN BED AFTER GORHAM BLOW

Returns from Springfield "Badly Shaken."

Dr. John Dill Robertson, former president of the west park board, who was knocked down in the state senate chamber at Springfield on Tuesday night by Attorney Sidney Gorham of Chicago, returned home yesterday to recover from the shock of that blow. Leaving the train, he went directly home and to bed.

The incident came at the close of a senate committee hearing on an automobile drivers' license bill in which Dr. Robertson was interested. Dr. Robertson felt that Gorham, attorney for the Chicago Motor club, had influenced the selection of members of a subcommittee appointed to consider the bill.

Dr. Robertson Collapses.

An altercation arose at the close of the meeting and Gorham struck Dr. Robertson when the latter accused Gorham of lying about the selection of the committee. Dr. Robertson collapsed later.

"That blow was wholly unexpected and uncalled for," Dr. Robertson said at the Union station. "Because I have a weak heart the blow shook me up pretty badly. I don't feel right yet. Gorham had been under a crossfire of questions all day before the committee and his nerves were apparently on edge. I was just putting my arms in the sleeves of my overcoat when he struck me on the side of the head and bowled me over. The thought of striking back never entered my mind. I'm not a vindictive cuss."

Gorham Is "Humiliated."

At Springfield yesterday Attorney Gorham said he was "humiliated," but he will not apologize, he said, because he feels that he was unjustly accused.

"Dr. Robertson called me a liar," said Mr. Gorham. "That was false. In the stress of the moment I forgot myself and struck him. I deeply regret my action."

Both Mr. Gorham and Dr. Robertson seemed ready to let the matter drop.

Cries of Mother and Two Children Rout Burglar

The struggles of Mrs. Anna Kozulak, 40 years old, and the terrified screams of two of her seven children routed a burglar yesterday when he invaded their home at 10121 Lafayette avenue. He fled with two rosaries. Five of Mrs. Kozulak's children were at school, and she had returned to sleep when the intruder roused her. He seized her by the throat. She struggled, and screamed, attracting the two small children who added their cries and frightened the man away.

'ACCIDENT,' SOBS BRIDGE WIDOW IN HER DEFENSE

Case Is Expected to Go to Jury Today.

Kansas City, Mo., March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Myrtle Bennett's sobbing testimony that her husband was shot to death by accident and not deliberately, as the climax of a bridge game quarrel, was followed today by the prosecution's futile attempt to introduce surprise testimony.

State's attorneys were restricted in the questioning of Thomas K. Bennett, brother of John G. Bennett, the slain man, and Byrd Rice of Chicago, his nephew, in an attempt to discredit Mrs. Bennett's accident defense.

Testimony was completed at today's session. Tomorrow will be devoted to arguments of attorneys and the court's instructions to the jury.

"More Than There Seems."

John V. Hill, assistant prosecutor, asserted that Thomas Bennett was prepared to testify that Mrs. Bennet had told him:

"There is more behind this than there seems. After the trial I will tell you all about it and you'll see I was justified."

Judge Ralph S. Latshaw ruled the testimony incompetent in rebuttal, as the defense had not questioned Mrs. Bennett as to "why" her husband was slain, but as to "how." Rice and Bennett were both placed on the stand. Rice was not permitted to answer a question, while Bennett was permitted only to tell of his brother's reputation as a peaceful man.

Not Intentional, She Says.

The defense rested when, in answer to forger Senator James E. Reed's question as to whether she shot her husband "intentionally or deliberately," Mrs. Bennett sobbed:

"No indeed, I did not. I'd rather have been dead myself."

Mrs. Bennett began her recital of the bridge game tragedy in a low voice and finished it in a flood of tears which interrupted her testimony.

Telling of Bennett's anger, caused by criticism of his bridge playing, Mrs. Bennett said:

"He slapped me several times, hard."

She retired to a divan, weeping, she said, but later arose to talk to her husband, who was in a closet reaching for his grip, suddenly determined to start a business trip that night, planned originally for the next day.

"Stumbles," Weapon Discharged.

At Bennett's direction, the witness testified, she went to her mother's room to get his pistol, which he habitually carried on business trips. Returning, Mrs. Bennett related, she stumbled over a chair and accidentally discharged the weapon.

"I was scared to death," the witness continued, telling of seeing her husband rush through a door into the living room.

"He was running towards me," she sobbed. "When he got to me he grabbed hold of me. He caught my arm and twisted it. Somehow in the scuffle the gun was discharged. I don't know how it happened—but that's what happened——"

Calls Doctor and Aunt.

"I was frightened almost to death," Mrs. Bennet continued. "I called the doctor and Jack's Aunt Nellie. We put a pillow under his head."

A brief cross-examination failed to draw from the witness the admission she had told other versions of the slaying.

Shipping Through Panama Canal Lowest Since 1926

$2,500,000 BIDS FOR HIGHWAY WORK OPENED

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—Thirty state highway and bridge construction jobs, embodying 85 miles of paving and ten bridges, were opened today by the Illinois department of public works and buildings. The projects total $2,500,000 and are the second series of bids opened this year towards the 45,000,000 highway program for 1931.

Five of the projects are in Cook county and the rest are scattered throughout the state. The largest in Cook will pave a strip 5½ miles long on Route 46, from Des Plaines to Franklin Park, and the next project continues the same route from Franklin Park to Melrose Park, a distance of 2½ miles. On route 62 from Des Plaines, a distance of 2¼ miles will be paved to the southeast and the final paving job in Cook county calls for 39-100ths of a mile of hard road on route 1, northwest of Chicago Heights.

The Des Plaines river will be bridged in the village of Des Plaines on route 62.

The longest paving strip in the list is on route 95 in McDonough county, where 9¼ miles from Bushnell to Good Hope will be made hard road.

LEAGUE ASKED TO ADVISE CHINA ON GOLD STANDARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 4.—The Japanese Rengo News service tonight circulated an interview with a high official of the finance department of the Nanking government, presumably T. V. Soong, finance minister, stating that President Chiang Kai-shek had invited Sir Arthur Salter, director of the league of nations finance and economic section, to come to China to advise the Nationalist government regarding the inauguration of a gold standard for currency.

The Nanking finance spokesman declared that the Nationalist government has given up hope of inaugurating the gold standard scheme recommended by the American Kemmerer commission or of obtaining financial assistance from America. Hence the Nationalist government has turned to Europe.

The Nationalist government railway commission announced today that it is placing orders in England for $2,500,000 worth of railway equipment. This is the initial expenditure of a sum of $15,000,000 to be spent in England for locomotives, freight, and passenger cars.

WOMAN WINS $16,000 DAMAGES FROM THAW; SHE SAYS HE BEAT HER

New York, March 4.—(AP)—Marcia Estaddus today was awarded $16,000 damages from Harry K. Thaw in her suit for $100,000. She charged that in January, 1927, while she was visiting Thaw in his apartment he struck her with a hairbrush and bit her.

The jury deliberated two hours.

In a previous trial Miss Estardus was awarded $75,000, but this was reduced to $25,000 by Justice Aaron Levy, who heard the case. The appellate division ordered a new trial, however.

Thaw, who attended only the last hour of the first trial, did not miss any of the one which closed today.

MEMORY GONE, GIRL COLLAPSES BEFORE CHURCH

A well dressed woman about 23 years old halted South Park Policeman William Berndt at 7th street and Michigan avenue last evening.

"Who am I?" she asked. "Where do I live?"

Berndt told her to show him the contents of her purse. Among other articles was a rosary, and Berndt led her to St. Mary's church at 9th street and Wabash avenue, hoping that some one there would know her. In front of the church, however, she collapsed. At Mercy hospital, where she was taken, physicians said she was delirious.

The only clew to the woman's identity was a card bearing the name of Cathryne M. Snell and the address of the Chrosier Missionary society, a Catholic organization at 326 Robert street, St. Paul.

DAUGHTER OF AIMEE WED TO PURSER OF LINER

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SINGAPORE, March 4.—Roberta Semple, 20, daughter of Aimee Semple McPherson, California evangelist, was married to William Bradley Smyth, 23, purser of the liner President Wilson, in the Wesley church here today.

The couple met in San Francisco at the outset of a tour the evangelist and her daughter were making on the President Wilson. They became engaged in Shanghai. They will continue the tour on the liner and complete their honeymoon in Capri.

After the ceremony Mrs. McPherson said: "It is a pure love match. I give it my blessing." She gave her daughter away.

GERMAN DENIES CHARGES OF PLOT AGAINST SOVIETS

MOSCOW, March 4.—(AP)—Raphael Abramovich, an emigré menshevik connected with the German Social Democratic party, today denied the "confession" of 14 mensheviki on trial here that he delivered instructions to them from the German party. His deposition was telegraphed from Berlin.

Abramovich contradicted the testimoney of the men, who are being tried for attempting to overthrow the soviet government, that he had visited Moscow to confer with the Moscow Social Democrat leaders.

After the telegram was read in court several of the defendants, all of whom have pleaded guilty, took the stand and testified that Abramovich was a "liar." They dared him to come to Moscow and give testimony.

ATLANTIC COAST AREAS FLOODED BY RECORD TIDE

Sea Water Invades Cities on Wide Front.

Boston, Mass., March 4.—(AP)—With hundreds of north and south shore residents homeless as a result of floods caused by the highest tide since 1898, a second tide—greater than the present generation in New England ever had seen—at midnight pounded at already weakened shore fronts.

At Revere, Winthrop, Hull, Nantasket, and Pemberton the surf was curling around houses and, in some cases, public buildings. The scenes of twelve hours before, when streets were flooded, automobiles stalled, and houses torn from their foundations, were duplicated as peninsula points were completely isolated.

Thousands of residents slept in unheated homes with from two to six feet of water in their cellars.

New Menace Arises.

Residents whose homes, imperiled by the noon tide, were more seriously menaced tonight, stood frightened and helpless as a driving wind drove the full moon flood waters far inshore.

Many steamers were anchored in the outer harbor. Ferry boat service was halted as the waters poured over the wharves and into the streets along the Boston waterfront.

At Portland the tide was as high tonight as it was earlier in the day, but a diminished wind prevented the damage from reaching the height of the forenoon. Shipping men there estimated the tide to be the highest in fifty years.

Railroads Are Crippled.

Transportation systems serving sections north of Boston were severely crippled. Suspensions of service were forced on lines of the Boston and Maine and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroads by washouts and serious inundation.

At Revere Beach, popular summer resort, damage was expected to approximate $100,000. Seven cottages were tumbled into the sea and many others badly damaged.

The city of Lynn was almost isolated by the tide. With virtually all rail transportation disrupted, motorists were forced to take circuitous routes to enter or leave the city. Ambulances removed children from a school which was surrounded by water.

Lardner's Home Periled.

East Hampton, L. I., March 4.—[Special.]—Ring Lardner's summer home on the dunes here was hanging over the cliff tonight after the high tide had undermined the house. It is feared the house will topple into the sea if a heavy tide rolls in tomorrow.

The home of Grantland Rice, 200 feet away, withstood tonight's storm, but part of the house was undermined and a large crack appeared in the foundation.

Full Moon, Winds Blamed.

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The tidal rise along the east coast the last few days has been caused by a combination of full moon and brisk northeasterly winds.

As the moon has been getting full, Dr. James H. Scarr, weather bureau meteorologist said, an area of low barometric pressure has been moving northward off the east coast. Dr. Scarr looked for an easing of the tides at their regular appearance tomorrow morning.

Store Watchman Is Shot in Battle With Burglars

In a revolver duel with three burglars whom he surprised early this morning in the Leader store at 1700 West 18th street, Louis Najzil, 59 years old, 1515 West 18th place, was shot in the right arm. Najzil, a watchman, was making his rounds when the men sprang from behind a counter and fired once. He returned two bullets, and the trio fled.

At an annual meeting of the Hygiene Reference Board of the Life Extension Institute, Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek Sanitarium, told of a prominent business man who once called upon him to find out what his chances were of living at least ten years longer. This man was planning a new venture which would take at least ten years to complete.

Dr. Kellogg found that the man's physical resources were extremely low, and when Dr. Kellogg explained to him how his troubles had evidently been developing for a great many years, the man became greatly excited and said, "Doctor, why didn't I know all this before? With the knowledge I now have I am willing to do anything if I can only live. I must have ten years for my business, or at least five. Why didn't I know my condition before?"

Dr. Kellogg stated that he, too, wondered why this intelligent man had allowed himself to drift into such a condition and why men and women generally know so little about their own bodies and the things that lay the foundations of disease and physical breakdown.

What Happens to 100,000 Men?

According to U. S. Census figures do you know what happens to 100,000 men born on the same day? 90,757 live to be one year old. 80,129 live to be 27. About as many die during the first year as during the next 26. 64,311 live to be 52. Only 32,583 reach 72. Note the tremendous loss—about 32,000—between 52 and 72, when life is worth most and responsibilities are greatest. What can be done to stop this life waste? Scientists tell us that a yearly examination is the best weapon to employ.

The Life Extension Institute was the pioneer in establishing and popularizing such examinations. The purpose of the Institute's examination is not the diagnosis of so-called "disease," but the detection of physical impairments, predisposition to disease, or faulty living habits, the correction of which would have a beneficial influence on the health-span and life-span of the individual.

The health survey which members of the Institute receive follows a system of examination forms and reports which were formulated in consultation with the eminent physicians on its Hygiene Reference Board, and which have been further developed from its experience in the examination of nearly a million men and women. In this vast group of people from all parts of the country many lives have been saved and prolonged, and much misery and suffering prevented.

The Sixteen Rules of Health

If you are interested in a protective service of this kind for yourself or any member of your family, send in the coupon below for further information and for the free booklets "How to Live Long" and "Hygiene at Middle Life." The Institute will also send you a card giving the "Sixteen Rules of Health."

The Institute's Chicago offices are situated at 6 N. Michigan Blvd., where it has established a health examination center similar to that which it has at its home office in New York City. The Institute also has medical examiners in all the principal cities and towns of the United States and Canada, and these life extension examinations are available everywhere.

Since its organization nearly a million men and women have had the benefit of the Institute's examination and instructions on correct living. 43 life insurance companies offer its service to about 7,000,000 policyholders and 340 industrial and financial concerns have given the service to their employes. Many thousands of individuals take these life extension examinations as individual subscribers.

The Institute works in perfect accord with the highest ideals of advanced scientific medicine. No medical treatment is undertaken by the Institute, but it instructs its members how medical science is equipped to serve them, and warns them away from quacks and fake cures. If you have never had this life extension examination, send in the coupon below for further information and the interesting free booklets mentioned. Your inquiry involves no obligation.

CAPONE OBJECTS TO 'SCARFACE' IN WARRANT; WINS

Vagrancy Trial Is Set for March 20.

Al Capone, who heads the public enemy list, made a brief stop in Judge Frank M. Padden's Felony court yesterday to object to the designation of himself as "Scarface Al" in the pending vagrancy warrant, which was issued by Judge John H. Lyle when he presided over that court. Attorney Michael Ahern, representing Capone, succeeded in soothing his client's feeling by getting the phrase stricken from the warrant.

Capone, who entered the court building by a rear door to evade as many of the curious as possible, must go back to the court on March 20, at which time Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown expect to be at leisure to take care of his prosecution. A motion to quash the complaint will be argued at that time.

McGurn in His Wake.

Fifteen detectives flanked the gangster as he walked into the courthouse, followed within a few minutes by Machine Gun Jack McGurn, considered to be one of his principal lieutenants.

McGurn was answering a charge of gun toting. He, too, is seeking to have the complaint quashed in his case. A motion to suppress the evidence is to be heard on March 13.

"Alphonse Capone is this man's right name," said Attorney Ahern as he stepped up to the court rail with his client in response to the announcement from the clerk of the "People of the State of Illinois against Al Capone, alias Scarface Al Brown."

"I ask that the epithet 'Scarface Al,' which appears on this complaint, be stricken from the record," continued Attorney Ahern while Capone vigorously nodded his approval.

"I'm going to file a new complaint anyway and I will leave the epithet as you call it off the sheet," replied Prosecutor Ditchburne. "The new complaint will not be very much different from the old one, except that one change will be made to include Capone's conviction in Philadelphia of gun toting."

Because of the crowd, which had gathered in the room, the police escort took Capone out the private prisoners' elevator and to a waiting automobile. He was photographed several times on the way and seemed to have no particular objections.

Capone nearly became a talking movie actor. Several such machines were set up to take courtroom pictures, but Judge Padden called a halt and the machines were removed.

Quirk Wins Freedom.

Martin Quirk, 27 years old, a minor hoodlum, was liberated following Capone's appearance. His case was dismissed for want of prosecution. He was charged with shooting Valene Erwin, a cabaret entertainer, in the foot as a result of a quarrel between himself and Harry L. Goodwin Jr. as to who was the entertainer's escort. Miss Erwin did not appear to prosecute.

Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, was another hoodlum figuring in the police activities yesterday. He was held, but not identified for the murder of Thomas Bonner last July. Bonner was shot and killed as he came to the front door of his home, 7353 Yale avenue. The widow looked at Quinlan, but said that she could not identify him.

GASOLINE BURNS PROVE FATAL.

Burns suffered in an attempt to start a stove fire with gasoline caused the death yesterday of Frank Malinovsky, 67 years old, of 2146 West 18th place.

Graft Inquiry Jury to Hear Trial of 16 Policemen Today

Arrangements were made yesterday for the members of the special grand jury to be present today at the trial of 16 policemen before the city civil service commission. After that, it was suggested, the special jury's investigation of the police department may be concluded.

The jurors are to be present only as spectators, without a voice in the trial, unless unofficially, but they may wish to review the evidence later, according to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the jury's investigation of alleged police graft.

Policemen on Trial.

The policemen against whom charges have been made are Capt. Joseph Palczynski of the West Chicago avenue station, Lieut. Daniel O'Hara of Albany Park, Sergt. Jack Herdegen of North Robey street, Sergts. Peter Bernacchi and James Coleman of the South State street district, Sergt. John J. Feery of Englewood, Sergts. Ernest Daliege, and Policemen Joseph O'Brien, Ira L. O'Hara, Patrick J. Nolan, Owen Small, Louis Starr, all of Englewood; Policemen Wellington Britten and James Howland of the detective bureau, and Policemen James F. Best and Joseph Hogan of the Wabash avenue station.

Prosecutor Mueller said he did not recommend the suspension of Lieut. O'Hara and Policemen Best and Hogan, nor had he included Sergt. Daliege in his list because Daliege is in the county jail. The others, however are to face the trial board on the recommendation of the grand jury and Mueller. It is possible, it was said yesterday, that the trial will be held in the city council chambers.

Mr. Mueller said he had instructed his policemen and investigators to discontinue efforts to purchase liquor at supposed speakeasies and then make raids wherever there is a purchase. The arrests made so far under that policy have been fruitless, he said. The first purpose of the investigators was to obtain evidence which would give information regarding police graft, but the plan has been a failure, he declared.

State's Attorney Swanson and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court conferred yesterday, presumably on the question of continuing the special grand jury. While neither would disclose the decision reached, it was understood the officials can see little use in continuing it.

Seek to Indict Mrs. Kub.

If it is to be discharged from further service, the grand jury probably will close its work tomorrow with the case of Mrs. Shirley Kub, formerly an investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock. Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury was seeking evidence yesterday on which to indict Mrs. Kub for perjury because of her testimony to the grand jury on Jan. 19. On Friday she faces a contempt citation for refusing to continue testifying before the jury.

Another inquiry that may occupy the final hours of the present investigation is that concerning the fatal stabbing of a Negro doorman at the Club Racine, 546 North Racine avenue, early yesterday morning. Prosecutor Mueller ordered an inquiry yesterday into conditions prevailing at the club, which has an amusement license but no beverage licence. Mueller said he had reports that the patrons of the club were all intoxicated at the time of the stabbing.

Wales and Brother Reach Argentine Coast Resort

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina, March 4.—The prince of Wales arrived by airplane at 5:30 this afternoon, and his brother, Prince George, followed in another plane 10 minutes later. Wales was received by the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Macleay. A crowd, which had been waiting for three hours in a drizzling rain, broke the police cordon and surrounded the princes. Wales responded to the crowd's salutes in Spanish.

Newark, N. J., March 4.—(AP)—The divorce of John R. Craig, theatrical producer, and Mary Young Craig, actress, was recommended today by Jules E. Tepper, special master in chancery. The recommendation goes to the chancellor for approval or disapproval. The action was brought by Mrs. Craig, who alleged desertion.

LOUIS ALTERIE JAILED BY U. S. IN CAPONE QUIZ

Charged with Perjury Before Grand Jury.

Leland Varian, better known as Louis Alterie, former Chicago gangster who was a friend of the late Dean O'Banion, was arrested late yesterday on a federal warrant charging perjury in connection with his testimony before the grand jury, which presumably was investigating the income tax affairs of Al Capone.

LOUIS ALTERIE.

Alterie, who returned to Chicago a short time ago from his ranch near Denver, Colo., where he has been in seclusion for several years, was served with the warrant issued by United States Commissioner Walker and locked up last night at the detective bureau.

U. S. Agent Signs Complaint.

Frank Wilson of the intelligence unit, internal revenue department, which is conducting the investigation of Capone's income tax matters, signed the complaint. Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who is presenting evidence in the Capone case to the grand jury, was understood to have requested the warrant.

The specific allegation set forth in the complaint is that Alterie on Tuesday told the grand jurors that he had no financial interest in a Cicero gambling house owned by the Capone gang. The government investigators allege that they have definite proof that Alterie is interested in the place.

Although the federal authorities would not comment on the purpose of calling Alterie before the grand jury, it was believed that they sought information from him concerning Capone's profits from the gambling house. Capone's case is known to be under consideration by the jurors, and two managers of his gambling establishments were called as witnesses last week.

Five Years Maximum Penalty.

The maximum penalty for perjury is five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. Alterie was indicted by the government in 1924 in connection with the robbery of the Sieben brewery at 1466-76 Larrabee street, along with Johnny Torrio, pal of Capone, and Dean O'Banion. O'Banion was killed before he was placed on trial, Torrio served a nine months' sentence, and the case is still pending against Alterie. Originally there were thirty-eight defendants.

Alterie at one time controlled the Theatrical Janitors' union, and he brought back to Chicago recently by "Dapper" Dan McCarthy, labor racketeer, who is on the pay roll of the plumbers' union, according to police.

Slapped by Chief Stege.

Alterie once threatened to meet the slayers of O'Banion, his chieftain, at State and Madison streets and shoot it out with them. Former Chief of Detectives John Stege slapped Alterie's face once when the gangster was dragged out of the Midnight Frolics.

Alterie was indicted in 1924 for assault and robbery for his participation in the attack on three policemen in the Northern Lights café, which ended in the killing of John Phillips, one of the gunmen, by Policeman Frank Sobol.

MLLE. CHANEL HERE TO FASHION GOWNS FOR SCREEN STARS

New York, March 4.—(AP)—Mlle. Gabrielle Chanel, Paris designer, who arrived today on her way to create gowns for Hollywood stars, hasn't decided yet what sort she will mold in the movie colony.

"I don't know how long my skirts will be," she said. "I don't know that I shall work primarily for the line and that I shall try to dress types. I always thing of the gown, not the person who's going to wear it."

Creator of first couturiere perfumes and originator of the craze for costume jewelry, she recently declined to become the wife of the duke of Westminster.

"Why be the fourth duchess of Westminster when one can be the only Chanel?" she said.

DANCERS SWEAR TO HEALTH GAIN IN MARATHON

Efforts of the city to close marathon dances on grounds that they are injurious to the health of the contestants received a setback yesterday when two marathon dancers testified at a court hearing that their health had been improved during the long grind on the dance floor. The hearing is being held before Master in Chancery Robert C. O'Connell on injunction proceedings to restrain the police from interfering with the marathon in progress at White City.

Miss Cecilia Love, 1122 South Winchester avenue, testified that she dropped out of the dance at the end of six months and that she had gained eight pounds and felt better at the finish than at the start. Dave Gilmore of Joliet said he started dancing on Aug. 30 of last year but quit on Dec. 12 when he became worried about his increasing weight. He gained 22 pounds, he said. The hearing will continue.

Guard Cleaning Shop After Drivers Strike

Two squads of police were assigned yesterday to guard the Michigan Cleaners, 1339 West 63d street, as a result of a walkout of all truck drivers. No violence occurred, although union men picketed the shop, carrying placards terming the shop "unfair to union labor." A sign in the window proclaimed that Louis Hallman, president of the company, was willing to organize his shop but unwilling to pay racketeers.

CLEVER COOKS USE SUGAR TO SEASON FOOD

Improves the Taste-appeal and Increases Nourishment of the Dish

There is no need to deny yourself flavor when you eat essential foods. According to leading nutritional authorities and dietitians, the use of sugar to season vegetables, meat dishes and fruits is entirely proper.

Sugar adds zest to essential foods which carry vitamins, mineral salts and roughage. It heightens the "taste" of peas, beans, spinach and other vegetables. It improves the flavor of meat stews and makes them more palatable. In the case of fresh fruits, sugar modifies harsh acids.

In vegetable and meat cookery, a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular rule of clever cooks. The great value of seasoning and flavoring foods with sugar is that it makes them more enjoyable. Too often essential foods are rejected, especially by children, because they are not pleasing to the taste. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

CHICAGO'S GANG LIFE DESCRIBED BY U. S. REPORT

Dry Agents' Survey Data Sent to Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Adventures, experiences, and impressions gained by the special government investigator who studied gangland conditions at Chicago for the prohibition bureau in 1930 are set forth at length in the exhaustive report signed by Guy L. Nichols and transmitted to the senate by the Wickersham commission.

In the special section devoted to vice lords and the scene of their operations, Nichols, as the investigator anonymously styled himself, tells how he photographed the personal headquarters of the leading gangsters of Chicago. Thumbnail sketches of some of the more important figures in Chicago's underworld night life and photographs of the haunts of the gangsters are included in the report.

Activities Are Mapped.

After inserting a map outlining "just how and where the leading gangsters and racketeers operate," Nichols takes up the various gangs, one by one, and adds further details regarding their enterprises. In some cases, he states his information is gained first hand. In others he depended on what he terms reliable or authentic authorities for his data.

Although Nichols' report was submitted to the senate by the Wickersham commission, officials of the President's law enforcement group said today that they had not ordered the report made. At the office of Chairman George W. Wickersham it was stated that the Nichols report was included among a number of reports made by the prohibition bureau and voluntarily submitted to the commission.

Inquiry "Not Ordered."

Officials there said that as they had not ordered the investigation, they could say nothing about the identity of the man who made the report.

"It is not our report," W. H. Barry, secretary to the commission, said today. "The Chicago and Illinois reports were made voluntarily by the prohibition bureau and turned over to us for what they were worth. You will have to obtain the name of the investigator from the office that employed him."

Col. W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition enforcement, said that he knew nothing of the Chicago report, adding that he had not even read it. It was made, he said, before he became director. Officials employed in the office of Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, declined to make the name of the investigator public.

Gang Headquarters Pictured.

Photographs of the headquarters of Joe [Polack] Saltis, George [Bugs] Moran, and Al Capone and the Hawthorne Kennel club and dog race tracks are included among the exhibits.

The Lexington hotel is described as "headquarters of Al Capone and his lieutenants" and the Metropole hotel as the place where many of the gang reside.

"Bugs" Moran is termed leader of the north side gang and now Capone's most dreaded enemy.

CYNTHIA MOSLEY ASSAILS LABOR PARTY AND QUITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 4.—Lady Cynthia Mosley, member of parliament from Stoke-on-Trent, today definitely severed her connection with the parliamentary Labor party in order to aid her husband, Sir Oswald Mosley, in the establishment of his new party.

In a letter to Prime Minister MacDonald, Lady Cynthia strongly criticized the government's policy, especially regarding unemployment, "which leaves the electorate and myself tragically disillusioned."

"I still believe that the only final solution for our economic problems is a socialistic solution," she wrote.

DEMAND CICERO POLICE EXPLAIN ARREST OF DRYS

Four Cicero policemen were called on by Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher yesterday to explain why they arrested Roy M. Budd, a federal prohibition agent, and Dan Coakley, a Chicago policeman attached to the dry bureau, who were disarmed by a doorman at Ralph Capone's Cicero cabaret, the Cotton club, 5342 West 22d street.

Budd and Coakley were sitting in their car early yesterday near the Cotton club, which is operating under a temporary dry law injunction, and which they were to observe for dry law violations. According to their story, an unidentified gunman walked up and threatened them with a pistol while Jack Karron, 24 years old, doorman, took their guns.

Karron called the Cicero police, believing, he said, that Budd and Coakley were holdup men. The gunman escaped. Fisher said the Cicero policemen, Lieut. John J. McGrath and Patrolmen Baldwin Koch, Christ Priesmeyer, and John Mrzna, arrested Budd and Coakley and held them at the station for a time, even though they showed credentials. Karron was held in bond of $5,000 on charges of assaulting and interfering with a federal officer.

Falls 15,265 Feet Before Opening 'Chute; a Record

Los Angeles, March 4.—(AP)—E. S. "Spud" Manning, 22, today claimed a new record for delayed parachute jumps after official calibration of the barograph he carried on a leap Sunday showed he fell 15,265 feet before opening his 'chute.' The previous record was 9,600 feet, set by Rex Harker over Cincinnati, O., Aug. 4, 1929.

Ontario Liquor Board Sales Total $53,000,000 for Year

TORONTO, March 4.—(AP)—Sales of liquor by the Ontario liquor control board during the last fiscal year reached $53,000,000, W. H. Price, attorney general, stated in the legislature today.

Dail Dallies; So Erin Will Be Dry St. Patrick's Day

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 4.—(AP)—St. Patrick's day again will be bone dry in the Free State, as successive postponements of a pending liquor bill, which is supported by the government, have so reduced the time available it cannot become law by March 17. In recent years there has been prohibition over St. Patrick's day, Good Friday and Christmas.

WOMAN'S FALL ACCIDENTAL.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict stating that Mrs. Amelia Ries, 52 years old, was killed accidentally when she fell from a window of her home at 6438 Harvard avenue.

PRINT PETITIONS FOR REFERENDUM ON OHIO DRY LAW

Columbus, O., March 4.—(AP)—Defeated in the legislature, Ohio anti-prohibitionists will take their fight for a prohibition referendum directly to the people.

After the house of representatives yesterday voted 76 to 47 against the Nippert resolution for a state-wide vote on repeal of the state constitutional provision for prohibition, Senator Joseph N. Ackerman, anti-prohibition leader, announced today the referendum will be demanded by petitions. The senator said he would withdraw all his present anti-prohibition bills and concentrate his efforts on the circulation of petitions.

Petitions were being printed today and the senator said he expects sufficient signers will be found to permit a vote by the people on the prohibition question by November.

BONUS PAYMENTS REACH $600,000 IN CHICAGO AREA

Approximately $600,000 has been paid out in bonus loan checks to veterans of the world war in the Chicago area since last Saturday, according to Noel M. Jeffrey, assistant director of the Chicago region, who yesterday supervised the mailing of about $250,000 in checks.

From the comment of veterans who filed into the various branch offices of the bureau yesterday to file their applications, it is apparent that the bulk of the money disbursed by the bureau is going into circulation through the purchase of food and clothing and the payment of bills.

Two new voucher machines installed at the central office of the bureau at Hines will result in a marked speeding up in the mailing of checks, officials said. At the same time the daily number of applications received is falling off, Mr. Jeffrey said. Only 300 needy veterans called at the Hines office yesterday.

ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

WOLFE ASSAILED FOR FAILURE TO BUY WATER PIPE

Many Kept from Work, Aldermen Assert.

Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, was assailed yesterday by members of the city council who accused him of dilatory tactics in awarding contracts for the purchase of water pipe. One set of bids, which was opened on Dec. 5, 1930, has been rejected, although there was a low bidder. A new set will not be opened until March 16.

In the meantime, the aldermen report, the city's supply of pipe for the installation of feeder mains and water pipe extensions has been practically exhausted. The lack of pipe supplies with which to work, they say, has forced the layoff of a number of city employés, including some civil service men as well as temporary appointees.

Calls Situation Unprecedented.

In the opinion of one alderman the situation is unprecedented. Wolfe, he said, has the money and an appropriation to buy the pipe and he has the unemployment situation as an incentive to put men on the pay rolls, but instead of putting men to work Wolfe's actions have resulted in adding to the numbers of the unemployed.

"The city a short while ago," said the alderman, "sold water certificates and out of the proceeds $1,700,000 was set aside for water pipe extension work. This money can be used to put men to work as soon as the city has pipe to lay. But with no pipe on hand hundreds of men are being kept out of jobs."

On the December bids for the purchase of 985 tons of pipe the Glamorgan Pipe and Foundry company was low with a price of $42,501. However, the Central Foundry company, bidding for the sale of pipe .17 of an inch thinner than the specifications call for, was still lower with a price of $35,520.

Cuts Cost of Installation.

Representatives of the Central company contend that their pipe will withstand as great pressures as the thicker pipe and cite instances of its use in Detroit and other cities. In addition they have informed Wolfe that he can save $2,260 in the installation of their pipe because of a different method of joining pipe sections.

Wolfe delayed action until the stated time in which he must award contracts had expired, and then called for new bids. In the meantime he opened bids for pipe of larger size than that called for in the December bids.

French Bid Is Lowest.

These bids disclosed that a company manufacturing pipe in France offered to deliver it in Chicago at a lesser price than that asked by five American companies that bid. The bid of the George J. Halligan Supply company, representing the French manufacturer, was on pipe that the city does not need immediately, but on which the bids were as much as $1.89 a ton lower than the American companies' bid.

A tabulation of the bids shows that should the city buy pipe from the French concern a saving of approximately $10,000 would be made under the price of the next lowest bidder. It was indicated that the pipe will not be bought from the French company.

RECTOR SUES WIFE'S KIN AND ANOTHER WOMAN FOR $200,000

Wellesley, Mass., March 4.—[Special.]—Claiming that his wife, a well known churchwoman, was lured away from him by her sister, a prominently known New York woman, the Rev. John J. Callan, Episcopal minister, today brought suit against his wife's sister, Mrs. Hetty Richard of New York, and Mrs. Natalie Hemenway for $200,000. Each woman is sued for half this amount. The Rev. Mr. Callan was formerly rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church here.

Mrs. Callan, who was Mary Hemenway Lawrence, is a daughter of Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal church. She is seeking a divorce from her minister husband and the suit brought by him in the middle of the divorce hearing created a sensation.

In his suit the Rev. Mr. Callan sets out that Mrs. Richard and Mrs. Hemenway visited his home and finally prevailed upon his wife to leave him and their home.

SPAIN ABOLISHES CENSORSHIP OF FOREIGN PRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 4.—The censorship of foreign press telegrams was lifted today at the insistence of Count Romanones, foreign minister and Liberal party leader. The count, courageously attacked Primo de Rivera throughout his dictatorship for his repressive measures, censorship particularly.

"No government resorts to censorship unless it sees no other road," he said today. "The country cannot be considered as living normally as long as there is press censorship." Spain, he said, was not yet back to normality but soon would be.

The withdrawal today of the censors from Spanish telegraph and radio offices leaves Italy the only country in western Europe to enjoy the supposed advantages of a check on outgoing dispatches. Censorship of the Spanish press, Count Romanones said, will be lifted by degrees.

Paid Husband's Alimony 7 Years; She Asks Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ida Schwab got so tired of paying the alimony bills for her husband's two former wives that she filed suit for divorce today. Money of hers went to pay Robert E. Schwab's alimony arrears so he could avoid jail, and after seven years this constituted cruelty, according to Mrs. Schwab. Beside this, she charges, he has names of fourteen girls in his date book. They were married in 1924.

FRANCE REFUSES TO LET MOROCCO REBEL END EXILE

Abd-el Krim Tires of Life on Reunion Island.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 4.—After more than four years of exile on a tiny island in the Indian ocean, Abd-El Krim, the famous Moroccan chieftain, who for several months fought desperately against the French and Spanish forces in the Riff, is getting homesick and has just addressed a letter to the French minister of colonies asking for his pardon and permission to return to his native land.

ABD-EL KRIM.

Since he was exiled to the Island of the Reunion in 1926, the Moroccan warrior has been watching languishingly the growth of sugar canes with his two favorites, the dark eyed Aicha and the adipose Fatima whom the French and Spanish authorities granted him permission to bring over with him in exile.

Although the former sultan of the Riff is living in a luxurious country house, surrounded by beautiful gardens, put at his disposal by the French government, he cannot overcome his sadness.

However, the French government, in answer to his petition, expressed its regret for not being able to let him return to the country of his ancestors, explaining that the Spanish government would never allow him to come back.

Furthermore, the French pointed out to him that they had shipped him to the Island of the Reunion to keep him away from Spanish bullets, as Spaniards intended to execute him following the disaster of the Bay of Alhucemas, where hundreds of Spanish soldiers were killed by Moroccan rebels.

Twists Calf's Tail; Loses Suit Against Employers

St. Louis, Mo., March 4.—(AP)—When William Penney twisted a calf's tail to encourage it onto a truck, he gave a law suit a queer legal twist. The calf kicked him, he sued his employers for damages, and finally it became necessary for the Court of Appeals to pass on the case. That tribunal set aside the $2,500 verdict of the lower court, holding Penny committed a "tactical error" amounting to negligence, when he stood directly behind the animal instead of to one side.

"Rest in Parts!" Camera says

Automatic motion picture cameras recorded the positions and movements of sleepers during the investigation at Mellon Institute. The sleep habits of 150 persons were studied. More than 2,000,000 observations were made.

Old-type mattresses defeat their purpose, 6-year sleep investigation indicates . .

FOR the first time in history a broad scientific investigation of sleep has been made—by a group of scientists at Mellon Institute. With motion picture cameras it was proved that healthy sleepers take 10 to 15 different positions during the night, and change position from 20 to 45 times.

We "rest in parts." One position rests one set of muscles and organs—other positions rest other groups. We need to shift around, for complete rest.

Millions of mattresses now in use defeat this purpose. They pad down. They form bumps and hollows. They limit positions that can be taken. If your mattress is this kind, it is handicapping you. Throw it out!

The investigation pointed to a new type of mattress as ideal—the Beautyrest and Deepsleep, both made by Simmons. Inside them are hundreds of springy, cushioned coils. These are always "alive"—always resilient—always responsive to every change in position. They encourage the deep, satisfying rest that leads to successful days.

See the Beautyrest and Deepsleep at any good furniture store. Test their comfort. You can have this superlative comfort in your own home from now on!

H. M. Johnson, Ph. D., head of the Investigation of Sleep at Mellon Institute, has written a helpful booklet, "Bodily Positions in Restful Sleep." Send for it—to the Simmons Company, 222 North Bank Drive, Chicago, Ill.

MAY ASK U. S. TO TAKE HUGE SHARE OF ITALIAN LOAN

Reveal Hand of Morgan in Naval Dickering.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 4.—American investors are likely to be called on to shoulder almost all of the projected three billion dollar loan to Italy, which was that country's price of the recently concluded naval compromise with France. This was learned here tonight.

J. P. MORGAN.
[Acme Photo.]

It has been revealed that J. P. Morgan is taking the lead in floating the loan in America, that 70 billion lire is approximately the figures involved, and that the American slice probably will be raised by a popular bond issue such as that employed to float the world bank for reparations settlements.

U. S. to Take Largest Share.

No formal engagements have yet been made between the bankers and the Italian government. The British and French governments have merely pledged themselves not to oppose a private loan to Italy.

The French, however, are already said to be thinking better of the matter. Leading banks point out that owing to the popular French feeling against Italy and the opposition of the radicals and socialists to any loan for preserving the Fascist régime it would be hazardous to try to float the loan in this country. Their solution is that America turn the trick single handed.

This the Morgan people have refused to do. They are said to have offered to absorb the greater part of the loan, but insist on France taking up a slice, no matter ho / small, to reassure American investors.

Italy Wins Parity.

ROME, March 4.—(AP)—Italy gains practical parity of construction with France over the next five years under the terms of the British-Franco-Italian naval accord as disclosed unofficially here today, and in 1936, when the accord expires, will be in a better position relative to France than she is today.

The principle of parity which broke up the London conference so far as Italy and France were concerned is not settled by the new accord, but is postponed until 1936.

Italy made some sacrifices, the terms of the agreement show, but she believes they will not affect the national security and that they are balanced by sacrifices on the part of the French. The accord will give France in 1936 a superiority of 228,000 tons, but Italy discounts this, pointing out that 84,000 tons of that total will be obsolete, while the Italian obsolete tonnage will be only 5,000.

RUSSIA TO TEST BAN BY SHIPPING $100,000 IN LUMBER TO U. S.

Providence, R. I., March 4.—(AP)—The Providence Journal says 4,000,000 feet of soviet timber, valued at $100,000 will be brought into Providence harbor within a month to provide the first test of the United States treasury department's embargo laid down Feb. 10.

The lumber is being imported to the A. C. Dutton Lumber company, which has been the sole distributor of Russian lumber to New England points from this port.

A. C. Dutton, president of the company, said today from Pouchkeepsie, N. Y., that efforts to land the cargo undoubtedly will furnish an international test case. The treasury department has announced that lumber from northern Russia would be barred from American ports unless shippers could show it was not a product of convict labor.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

HOOVER PRAISES FRANCO-ITALIAN PACT ON NAVIES

Says Whole World Should Extend Congratulations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The highest Washington administration officials tonight hailed the Franco-Italian naval accord with satisfaction, asserting that it marked another important milestone in ending international competition in naval building.

President Hoover asserted that the new accord marked the completion of the naval reduction work begun two years ago in an effort to end competition in naval construction between the five leading naval powers. Secretary of State Stimson praised the agreement, asserting that it now made certain that the London three power agreement would not be imperiled by unlimited building on the part of France or Italy.

Text of Hoover Statement.

President Hoover's statement said:

"The Franco-Italian naval settlement marks the completion of the work which began two years ago in naval reduction and the ending of competition in naval construction among the five leading naval powers.

"Throughout the long continued process toward the completion of this plan, the cause of disarmament has been fortunate in the devotion and application of the men charged with the conduct of foreign affairs.

"In the last phase of the negotiations, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Briand, and Mr. Grandi have given it the full measure of their statesmenship and the successful result is a matter for congratulation in the whole world.

Sees Progress for Disarmament.

"I am happy also to acknowledge the impetus given the settlement by the suggestion of Ambassador Gibson conveyed in Paris and Rome last November.

"I feel that the responsible heads of governments and the peoples of the world owe a debt of gratitude to the infinite patience and ability of all who have collaborated so effectively toward the settlement and that they realize the fortunate augury which the solution of this problem by direct conversations between the interested parties contains for the progress in the removal of the obstacles in the path of a general and reasonable limitation of all armaments."

Secretary Stimson declared flatly that the agreement now made it certain that Great Britain would not need to invoke the escalator clause, which permits a nation to build above the London treaty tonnage levels in event her safety is menaced by the building operations of a nontreaty power.

He added that he could say unequivocally that there was nothing in the new agreement which would affect the size of American battleships. He stated that the French government had informed this country that reports that an agreement had been reached to limit the size of battleships below a maximum of 35,000 tons was in error. This country, Mr. Stimson said, needs and wants big battleships.

The text of the new agreement is expected to be delivered by the British ambassador to the state department tomorrow.

SENATE COMMITTEE IS GOING EAST ON PARTY CIRCLE STUDY

It is composed of Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep.], chairman; Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep.], Victor P. Michel [Rep.], Thomas J. Courtney [Dem.], and R. V. Graham [Dem.].

The committee will leave Friday and will hold hearings in Boston Monday and in Albany Tuesday.

The hearing on the O'Grady state prohibition repealer is set for 3 o'clock next Wednesday, in senate committee and that night a hearing will be held on the Huebsch resolution to investigate security exchanges.

COMBINED FIRMS LOWEST BIDDERS ON BOULDER DAM

Expect Work Will Begin in 30 Days.

Denver, Colo., March 4.— (AP) —A combination of western construction firms—the Six Companies, Inc., of San Francisco—submitted the low bid today for the general contract on the Hoover dam and power plant and won a recommendation that their figure of $48,890,995.50 be accepted by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur.

Work on the Boulder cañon project, the biggest engineering job ever attempted in the United States, is expected to be under way within thirty days. The entire project will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $165,000,000.

A few hours after the Six Companies, Inc., had submitted the low bid to government engineers in Denver, it had been recommended to Secretary Wilbur for acceptance by Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation.

Ready to Start Work.

W. A. Bechtel, representing the low bidders, said they were ready to proceed with the preliminary work leading to the construction of four tunnels which will divert the flow of the Colorado for a distance of 4,000 feet and permit the building of upper and lower cofferdams. The general contract specified that work must be started within 30 days from notification of acceptance of the bid.

Bonds of $2,000,000 accompanied each of the three bids submitted. The bid of the Six Companies, Inc., was $5,002,883.20 lower than that of its closest competitor, the Arundel corporation of Baltimore, Md. Woods Brothers corporation of Lincoln, Neb., the other competitor, bid $58,653,107.50.

More than 1,000 workers will be taken to the dam area to begin operations. A railroad now under construction and which will be completed next September, is to provide transportation for materials between Boulder City, Nev., where the thousands of workers will be housed, and the dam site.

Actual construction of the four diversion tunnels, two of which will be located on the Nevada side of the river and two in Arizona, must wait until after the high water season of July or August.

Must Finish in 1938.

Contractors are allowed 1,965 days to complete the dam to within 300 feet of the top. At this point it will be possible to begin the generation of electrical energy which is to be sold to the city of Los Angeles on contract, beginning in September, 1936. The dam, when completed, will be 727 feet high from the floor of the cañon.

All the work specified in the contract which was bid for today must be completed by the summer of 1938. The government has reserved the right to exact a penalty of $3,000 for each day's delay beyond the 2,565 day limit.

These concerns constitute the Six Companies, Inc.: Utah Construction company of San Francisco and Ogden; Henry J. Kaiser and W. A. Bethel & Co., San Francisco; McDonald and Kahn, Ltd., San Francisco; Morris, Knudsen & Co., Boise, Idaho; J. F. Shea company, Portland, Ore.; the Pacific Bridge company, Portland.

Frank T. Crowe of Boise, Idaho, will be general superintendent in charge of construction. Crowe has had 26 years of practical experience in building dams for the reclamation service and in 1924 and 1925 was general superintendent of the United States reclamation service in Denver.

Workers Warned Away.

Government officials, although asserting work would be hastened so unemployment conditions in the southwest would be relieved, warned workers against a general migration to the Nevada-Arizona line dam site as there were 10,000 laborers on hand at Las Vegas, Nev. Estimates for construction forces ranged from 2,000 to 2,500 men at work at one time when the program gets into full stride.

The whole Boulder cañon project will have a total cost of approximately $400,000,000, of which $165,000,000 is to be supplied within the next few years by the government. Los Angeles plans to spend $250,000,000 for an aqueduct and other California cities and companies will spend several millions for water and power.

Ireland Has Too Much Money; People Are 'Socking It Away'

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 4.—The Free State government has too much money. The overloading of the treasury is due to the thrift of the Irish people.

This, one of the most significant of the contradictions which Ireland periodically produces, is due to the situation which has arisen in connection with the issue of savings certificates. This is a form of thrift which was introduced in Great Britain shortly after the war and was followed here when the Irish Free State was set up. The principle is the issue of a $4.86 certificates for $3.72. This certificate at five per cent compound interest becomes worth $4.80 to the investor in five years. It is exempt from income tax and need not be declared in income tax returns.

Popular Form of Investment.

The yield of this and the fact that the security is gilt edged makes it a most desirable form of investment for people with small incomes. The only "snag" is that no individual can hold more than $2,430 worth of certificates at the same time; but there is no objection to individual members of the same family holding up to the maximum amount. In this way a united family might acquire a very substantial "nest egg."

Now it appears that the rush for these certificates has been so great that the government is not able usefully to employ all the money which is being put into certificates—it amounts to $9,720,000 in the current year—and as the government must provide the interest yearly, it is anxious to turn the money into some other directions, such as the postoffice savings bank, where the interest is only half as much and there is no bonus.

Will Raise Prices.

For this reason it has been announced that at an early date the issue price of savings certificates will be raised to $3.84 and the interest reduced so that at the end of ten years the amount of each will mature at $5.76 instead of $6.24 as is the present arrangement. This also is according to the standard at present in Great Britain.

The rush for savings certificates, a cabinet minister said, was due to the industrial depression in Great Britain and elsewhere, because of which few desirable industrial investments are available. Moreover, the Free State government loans all stand at a high price and are difficult to procure. Indeed, even government departments which have funds that they are by law bound to invest in home securities, find it difficult to get the requisite stocks. As soon as these departments appear on exchange looking for securities the price at once goes up against them.

BILL TO REFORM VOTING IS PASSED BY BRITISH HOUSE

LONDON, March 4.—(AP)—The house of commons wrote history tonight in passing, almost on the centennial of the great reform act of 1832, the alternative vote clause in the government's electorial reform bill revising English voting methods. Although opposed by the Conservatives, the clause was carried by a vote of 277 to 251.

Alternative voting proposes radically to alter the scheme of British elections and is regarded as the greatest change since the great reform act. It operates by each voter making a first choice of his ballot and then indicating a second choice. In a three cornered race if the leading candidate fails to get a clear majority over the man in second place, the votes of the third candidate, which are specified as second choice for either of the others, will be counted for the man indicated. This makes it possible for the second high man to nose out the leader on the basis of second choices.

Despite tonight's vote, the bill is still far from the statute books. The house of lords is the principal obstacle and if the peers refuse to concur in the measure it will be returned to the commons for further action.

ENTIRE U. S. FLEET SAILS FOR WEEK OF MANEUVERS

U. S. S. ARKANSAS, March 4.—(AP) —The entire United States fleet, comprising all the navy's fighting ships except those in Asiatic waters, steamed out of Panama bay in stately procession this morning for a week's maneuvers in the Pacific.

All the precautions of wartime were enforced and the day's work began with a survey of the outside waters by reconnoitering airplanes searching for hostile vessels. Then the minesweepers cleared a channel and the divisions of the great fleet passed out on a clock-work schedule.

First went the submarines, then the cruisers and destroyers, branching out when they cleared the channel to drive off any lurking foe. The huge aircraft carriers followed them. Then the powerful battleships—infantry of the sea—and the tankers, tenders, and auxiliary vessels. Once out of the bay, the fleet formed in cruising formation, ready to deploy into battle array, and steamed south to the open Pacific. All the ships zigzagged constantly in unison to throw off the calculations of possible attacking submarines.

AN AGREEMENT IN INDIA.

Gandhi and Lord Irwin have reached an agreement at New Delhi which is thought to contain the new future of India under dominion government. The British will release the political prisoners, numbering some 50,000. The Nationalists will stop their civil disobedience campaign. They will be permitted to make salt at the seashores and an adjustment will be made as to property confiscated for nonpayment of taxes. In the Nationalist boycott of western industrialism British goods will not be singled out. That discrimination will be abandoned.

These agreements do not make a settlement, but they may make one possible. A London conference will determine whether what Great Britain will grant India as a dominion will satisfy what India wants within the British empire. The prospects seem to be brighter than anything in reasonable expectation a month ago.

Gandhi's revolution is like no other great one in history. It takes its character from the ethics and religion of the mahatma's faith and from his esthetic adherence to it. He is a wasted little man, 98 pounds in weight, as remote from the physical elements of life as the human being can be and live. He has directed a resistance to British government virtually without lifting a hand at its agents. His followers have endured violence without responding to it. They submitted by thousands to bodily injury without defending themselves until the conscience of their rulers became their greatest aid. Gandhi could fight without violence and without hate, and he could animate the people with his spirit to adhere to his methods.

Great Britain could have met an armed rebellion which in the sight of the world imperiled the whites in India and thus made the use of industrial and chemical engines of war justifiable in the moral opinion of the west, but this withholding of the hands without anger in suffering wore down the British rule.

In a Tory government Gandhi might have found more stubborn stuff, but consistencies bothered MacDonald's Labor government. Lord Irwin himself is an advanced Liberal and the Tory front could not be presented to the revolution. Irwin admired his indomitable but unhating foe.

If Gandhi can now accept what Great Britain can offer he then embarks on another troubled sea. He repudiates western industrialism. With his spinning wheel and his all around farm he tries to lead his people back to a distributive society against the encroachments of industrialism. England to India is modern industrialism converting that old land into a creature in England's own image. Can India resist over the long course of years? To succeed, Gandhi must break down caste. He must break down religious and political dissension within the Indian area. He must alter religious rules and bring about a limitation of the Indian birth rate. Only by these means can the old India survive against industrialism. Gandhi's greatest problem is ahead.

UNCLE SHYLOCK IN PERSPECTIVE.

The attention of debt cancellationists is respectfully directed to the war debt which Australia owes Great Britain. Australia, to be sure, got something in the way of real estate for her participation, but it was not much and was certainly not worth what it cost in blood, not to say money.

What Great Britain and the other allied powers owed the United States was reduced, both as to principal and interest, in accordance with the doctrine of capacity to pay. Thus, Uncle Shylock settled with Italy for about 20 cents on the dollar, with France at 30 cents, and with Great Britain at 70 cents. There may be some disagreement about the mathematics, but there can be none about the fact that reductions were made and they were all extensive.

None of the allied countries, not even Italy, we venture to say, was in such straitened circumstances when the debts were refunded as Australia finds herself today. Australia is a new country whose present as well as future solvency depends on the import of capital. Australia's credit is nearing the vanishing point. Chicago is known the world over as a bankrupt city, but here bankruptcy is apparent, not real. The taxes have not been collected, but the productive wealth from which the taxes are derived is unimpaired. Australia, by way of contrast, has all but exhausted the sources of her credit. Her economic stability depends upon the money received from the sale in export of a few basic commodities, notably wheat and wool. The collapse in the prices of these commodities has left Australia in a desperate situation. As the facts were summarized recently in the London Economist:

"The national income of Australia, whose total production has been estimated at about 450,000,000 pounds sterling a year, has suddenly been cut down by 100,000,000 pounds a year or even more. The export of wool in the financial year to June, 1930, brought in only 36.5 millions, against 61.6 millions in the previous year; and the export of wheat 10 millions, against 20.3 millions. And since June, 1930, wool and wheat prices have continued to fall. . . . It is small wonder that unemployment in Australia is severe, that business depression is widespread, that state and federal budgets cannot be balanced, and that in spite of drastic import restrictions and prohibitive tariffs and the formation of an exchange pool in London the commonwealth government has been unable, without banking help in London, to secure sufficient sterling exchange to meet the 36 million pounds interest due each year on the external debt of the governments and public authorities. . . ."

Aside from private obligations and debts to individual bondholders, Australia owes some $400,000,000 to the British treasury on account of the war. If Britain applied the principle of ability to pay; as it was applied by the United States, that debt would be all but extinguished.

If there is a moral argument for our canceling the debts owed us, the argument applies with greater force to the debt which Australia owes the mother country, for if Great Britain helped us win our war, Australia in proportion to her resources did far more for Britain in winning hers. Blood, as everybody knows, is thicker than water. If racial and sentimental considerations are to guide international financial relations, the case for Britain's canceling the Australian debt is perfect. We commend this situation to the attention of the English Speaking union.

THE FLOWERING OF PACIFISM.

There need be no great astonishment that congress failed to provide the means by which the United States could make good its rated strength under the London naval treaty. There may be indignation or great concern, but no sense of the unexpected. The seed flowered. That was all.

The pacifists whose pressure sends the United States into naval conferences and peace agreements regard these as agencies not of balancing or regulating national defenses, but of abolishing them. Thus in the United States the Kellogg peace treaty cannot be taken as it is elsewhere for an illusioned, amiable and probably foolish documentation of a virtuous thought, but as a reason why the United States should disband its army and junk its navy. When that treaty was proposed this consequence could be seen.

The various naval conferences have not been held, in pacifist American opinion, to establish ratios within which the United States would serve its purposes of national defense, but to furnish reasons for the abandonment of the American navy. The purpose of the pacifist may be carried into the world court, the league of nations, the Kellogg pact, the naval conferences or any other form of international arrangement or agreement, but it remains singly that of using these as means of bringing this country to a state of complete disarmament and defenselessness regardless of what may be the condition of other nations.

EAST OF LINCOLN PARK.

The state senate has passed the Barbour bill authorizing additional bond issues for Lincoln park up to $7,000,000. For boulevard extensions and other great improvements the money will be used. Most of it will benefit directly or indirectly the motorist.

These improvements as well as those designed to develop air and water sport and transportation are all worth the money. But the future should give far more attention to the water. The motorist should not absorb all the benefits of bond issues. Until Chicago builds a pleasure port for small boats and yachts off the lake shore several miles the full use of the water for sport and transportation will remain undeveloped. There is now no place to go.

The lake is shallow for many miles east of Chicago. At eight miles the water is 60 feet in depth, at six miles it is about 40 feet. Every year Chicago dumps half a million cubic yards of stone and dirt far out in the deep water in the lake. In 1929 more than 840 scow loads were dumped beyond the 13 mile limit. Were this material concentrated in one place there could be made a city island six or eight miles out within a few years. The engineering problem is simple. The legal situation should not be difficult. The cost would not be great. As a part of Lincoln park or of the south park system a city island could be made an attraction for tourists, an always cool place in summer, a resort for Chicagoans twenty minutes from the loop such as no great city now possesses.

A yacht harbor, a public park, a recreation field and beach, a restaurant, should be parts of such a project. A concession for a high grade hotel and private hotel grounds would no doubt in time pay a large part of the costs of the entire project. With a city island of this kind Chicago could become the small boat center of the world.

Editorial of the Day

THE THIRTY MINUTE EGG.

[New York Sun.]

Various government bureaus at Washington have often been accused of trying to teach their American grandmother how to suck eggs. One of these bureaus—the bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture—is actually engaged at the moment in trying to teach American housewives how to boil eggs. "'Soft cooked' and 'hard cooked' eggs, cooked slowly at a moderate, even heat, have taken the place of 'soft boiled' and 'hard boiled' eggs, it was stated." Thus the pronunciamento from the bureau. "It was stated." "I have said."

A soft cooked egg, the bureaucrats' substitute for the soft boiled egg, takes five minutes to prepare. From the description of the process, apparently it takes a little longer than this, if the time spent in heating the water is counted. Six or seven minutes in the morning might not mean the difference between a train caught and a train missed, but it is apparent that anybody who intends to break his fast with a hard cooked egg, the bureau's substitute for the hard boiled egg, had better give up all thoughts of catching his usual train, perhaps even abandon the idea of going to work at all.

To prepare hard cooked eggs, place the eggs in cold water in a sauce pan with a rack at the bottom. Heat the water gradually until it simmers. The temperature of the water should not be allowed to go above 185 degrees. After the water simmers, keep the pan over a low fire for thirty minutes. Spend the thirty minutes explaining to your husband that breakfast is late because it has been discovered that slow cooking improves the texture of the white of the egg.

The world is so full of a number of things that every little bureaucrat finds something to do.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

NO, NOT YET!

The Illinois legislature is wrestling with the question whether or not to abolish the death penalty in this commonwealth. How can we abolish the death penalty as long as there still are people who drive through the red light, wear blue spats, and rush out into the street and gaze goggle-eyed whenever Hizzoner the Mayor sends his Rocky mountain burro out on parade? And preachers and radio announcers insist on saying "constitooshun" and "roon" and "nooze"? And fresh air fiends insist on hiking up the office windows and freezing everybody until they get the flu?

And people meet you on the street and address you thus: "Say, is it cold enough for you?" And book borrowers still pounce on your favorite tomes and drag them away and never, never bring them back? And when we would seek surcease from sorrow and tune in the radio for some sweet, dreamy, soothing refrain we hear instead: "Well, folks, some day we all gotta die and if you want a tombstone that is as swell as any tombstone in the graveyard you oughtta see James Gonerdye, 2321 West——" etc., etc.

And then there's the girl that sticks her chewing gum down by the side of the chair where you're sure to drop your hand. And there's the 100% American who wants you sent to jail for life if you don't agree with his particular views on prohibition. And there's the bird that's always talking about his home brew, and another one that is always raving about how wonderful his automobile is and how many miles it does to a gallon and how he doesn't need to slow down for any kind of curve.

No, friends, it is still too early to talk about abolishing the death penalty.

There is a little girl who often comes
When I'm alone, to gravely fix on me
The candid and the long unwav'ring gaze

Sometimes I smilingly give look for look;
More often am I fain to turn away,
Reluctant to read judgment in the eyes
Of her who is myself of yesterday.

THERE WAS A FLOOD of telephone calls to the weather bureau and newspaper offices when people in Chicago yesterday discovered a soft, white, fleecy substance on the sidewalks and in the streets. They were greatly surprised when told that the soft, white, fleecy substance was "snow," which is found in abundance in cold latitudes in winter, but is a great stranger in our warm, beneficent region. Some people tried to preserve the snow by putting it in bottles and setting it up on the shelves, and were greatly surprised when it turned to water. Ah, what a climate! What a climate! And you may indeed say so.

THE NYE INVESTIGATING committee says it was perfectly all right to spend $600,000 to elect the ticket headed by Puddler Jim Davis in Pennsylvania. All right, that establishes the price—six hundred thousand dollars—if you want to be senator. But we'll bet that George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln, and a lot of those old idealists and dreamers did a lot of turning over in their graves when the Nye committee reported.

AND THEN, TOO, Senator Nye's committee reported that in elections in these United States money is the root of all evil. And it cost the government one hundred thousand dollars to find that out. And a lot of us had a suspicion of that before.

From a Russian standpoint that will be a wowski.

SUGGESTED EXERCISING.

G. L. W. writes: Will you describe setting-up exercises that are especially helpful in preventing constipation?

REPLY.

Any exercise is better than physical torpor. But there are some that are better than others. The best of the gymnasium exercises are those which bend the body and those which make use of the heavy muscles of the abdominal wall. Since the chest is splinted by the ribs and the pelvis by the pelvic bones, most of the bending takes place in the abdomen and neck. Bending of the abdomen pushes the abdominal organs around and that is what we are driving at.

An old one is the army setting up exercise. It consists in taking the position of a soldier and then bending forward with the hands and arms pointing downward. If the fingers touch the toes while the knees are held stiff the exerciser is happy. Those built on the ape plan—long arms, long trunk, and short legs—find it easy to touch the toes. Those otherwise architectured will have to bend the knees or leave their toes untouched. If the recoil is carried to a marked backward bend of the body, so much the better.

Bending the body forward and backward while in the sitting posture is even better for one who is trying to overcome constipation. Another set of exercises of about the same type is executed from the prone position. Lying flat, the legs are raised to the vertical position. A variant is to cause the trunk to rise to the vertical position. Another variant is to lie on the back with the head lower than the feet and then to raise the body to the vertical. To do this most people will need to put the feet in stirrups, or to catch them under something solid. This exercise is varied by carrying the legs to the vertical position.

There are different methods of massaging the abdomen, as, for instance, rolling a heavy ball over it. Pounding the abdomen, or massaging it with the hands, is somewhat effective.

Of the various forms of out of door exercise, horseback riding is best. Jolting the abdomen and using the muscles of the walls are the aims. Therefore, a trotting horse is better for this purpose than is a finished easy saddler. A wagon without springs and a rough road are better than an easy automobile on a concrete roadway. Among the sports, wrestling is better than boxing, and boxing is better than tiddledewinks. And while all this is true, the best of exercises is no more than a part of the cure.

CAUSE OF BUNIONS.

Mrs. H. H. writes:

1. I have had a bunion for several years and would like to know how I can cure it.

2. How can soft corns be cured?

REPLY.

1. Bunions result from separation of the bones of the foot in the region of the ball. Bones or bony spurs may be the cause. They should be removed. Sometimes it may be necessary to remove large sections of the foot bones. A few cases are cured by wearing toe straighteners or toe separators. Wearing large, broad shoes cures some cases.

2. They can be removed by the use of ordinary corn medicines. To prevent them from returning the toes must be kept separated and rubbing must be prevented. There are devices which keep the toes separated. Cotton or toe cots can be used for the purpose. The front of the shoes should be roomy.

DIET FOR GALL STONES.

Mrs. R. A. C. writes: I wish you would give a diet for gall stones.

REPLY.

A person with an infected gall bladder and gall stones should drink no alcoholic beverages and eat no pepper, mustard, horse radish, sauces, nor highly seasoned foods. He should not eat heavy meals. My observation is that he will be better off if he eats no supper.

Most physicians advise the eating of fats and oils. Some find fatty foods troublesome. Decide that question on the basis of your experience. My suggestion is that you eat no eggs and no brains, and that you become a light meat eater.

It is better to reduce until you are a little underweight. Physical activity and muscle work are better than a life of ease.

FEARS PARROT DISEASE.

A. S. M. writes: Is there any danger of catching a disease from a parrot? I would like to buy one, but wonder if I'll run any risk of catching anything.

REPLY.

Parrots have some diseases to which human beings are subject. One that caused considerable apprehension a few months ago was called parrot fever, or psittacosis, by those who saw it in human beings. It was spread by some newly imported birds found mostly in bird stores. This epidemic led to such control of parrots as has wiped out the danger, at least for the present. At this time there is no special danger in purchasing or owning a parrot.

WHAT MYALGIA IS.

J. E. writes: What is myalgia and how does it affect the human body?

REPLY.

Myalgia is a condition of the muscles similar to that of the nerves in neuralgia. It generally refers to muscular rheumatism. Lumbago is a myalgia of the back muscles using the term in the accepted sense.

PARIS.—The German submarine U-8 has been sunk by destroyers belonging to the Dover flotilla, the ministry of marine announced. Members of the crew were taken prisoners. The U-8 was built in 1908 and was a vessel of 300 tons displacement.

LONDON.—Athens dispatches tell of the continued success of the allied fleets in the bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles. Another Athens report says the allies have landed troops under a command of Gen. D'Amadeo of the French army for an expedition against Constantinople.

LONDON.—Paris and Berlin reports give conflicting news of the fighting on the western battle front. The Paris report says that French artillery fire has been effective and that the French have continued to make progress in the Champagne and in the Argonne. The German report says that French attacks in the Champagne and Argonne failed.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Col. George W. Goethals was nominated to be a major general in recognition of his services in building the Panama canal.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Official reports to the government describe an intolerable condition of affairs in Mexico City, where the populace is suffering the effects of famine and lack of communication with the outside world. One report charges that Gen. Obregon, the Carranza commander, is inciting the people to loot and to take the law into their own hands to obtain food.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 5, 1901.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—William McKinley of Ohio completed his first term of four years and took oath to serve the people as well as he has done in the past for four years more, thus becoming the last President of the nineteenth century and the first of the twentieth. The traditional McKinley luck was sadly infringed upon by the weather, rain falling with dire impartiality on panoplied soldier and umbrellaed civilian. His Democratic predecessor, Grover Cleveland, drove with him to the capitol, along with Mr Hanna, representing the Republican national committee; Uncle Joe Cannon, representing the Republicans of the house, and Mr. McRae of Arkansas, the Democrats. Theodore Roosevelt was inducted as Vice President. State dignitaries attending the ceremonies were Govs. Yates of Illinois, Nash of Ohio, Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa, and Dietrich of Nebraska.

SAVANNAH, Ga. — After having been buried and lost 115 years the remains of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, the hero of the American revolution, were discovered in Savannah today reposing in a cemetery vault bearing a plate with his name. The discovery is one of the most important of its kind made in many years.

CHICAGO.—Maj. Daniel W. Whittle, who was associated with D. L. Moody for many years in evangelistic work, died at his home in Northfield, Mass. He was a resident of Chicago for thirty years and began his evangelistic career in this city. He was 61 years old.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 5, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. James A. Garfield was inaugurated President of the United States. The weather in the early part of the day was abominably cold, wet, and boisterous. A chill wind, cutting to the bone, and suggesting pneumonia, was abroad. President Hayes went to the capitol with Gen. Garfield, and Gen. Hancock, the defeated Democratic candidate for President, attended the inauguration by invitation and made part of his rival's pageant. Gen. Garfield's mother, his wife, and Mrs. Hayes sat together at the ceremony. Don Cameron, looking wolfish and red, sat beside Hancock. Others present were Abraham Lincoln's two secretaries, John Hay and John G. Nicolay, and Senator Bruce (the last of the Negro senators). The diplomatic corps, with their families, made a brilliant spectacle. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Waite. After Gen. Garfield took the oath he read his lengthy inaugural message, and then was escorted to the White House. Chester A. Arthur was sworn in as Vice President and delivered a short formal address. The inaugural ball was held in the new national museum, perhaps the most magnificent setting for a ball on a vast scale of any structure in America. It cost a quarter of a million dollars and covers nearly three acres. The ball was the most successful ever held at an inauguration.

CHICAGO.—There were 191 carriers employed in the Chicago postoffice last month.

A DERELICT OF THE LAKES.

Oak Park, Ill., March 1.—I was brought up in Sandusky, O., and well remember the advent of the steamer Arrow. In 1898 my husband and self were in Sandusky the Decoration day the Arrow came in on her maiden trip, with flags flying and bands playing. She was intended for the excursion business between Detroit and Cedar Point and to carry mail and passengers to the islands in Lake Erie off Sandusky.

The boat proved one of those keen disappointments that sometimes tend to drive marine architects to the insane asylum or the poorhouse. Whenever a sea would run any way high the poor Arrow would roll and dash about like a cockleshell; she would ship seas so badly that it was unsafe to remain on the lower deck. She was brought to Chicago years later, but could not stand the buffeting of Lake Michigan, and so, after drifting from port to port, finally gave up the ghost in the Chicago river.

The fate of the Arrow brings to mind another marine disappointment, the steamer Mary, brought out by the G. & M. line to run between Chicago and St. Joseph, Mich. She was a small boat intended to make fast runs with the mail. My husband and I crossed from St. Joseph July 4, 1903, her maiden trip. She was supposed to make 22 miles per hour. We left St. Joseph at 7:30 a. m. and tore across the lake at seven miles per hour, arriving home around 3 p. m. I have wondered what became of the Mary, for, like the Arrow, she was a beautiful little boat.

MARY LAMB WATTS.

HE WORKED ABOARD HER.

Chicago, March 2.—That old hull lying on the west bank of the north branch of the Chicago river is the remains of a steamer that was built around 1888, I think, by the Jenks Shipbuilding company, Port Huron, Mich. When the Arrow was put in the Lake Erie excursion trade she was the last thing in modern shipbuilding. She plied between Port Huron, Detroit, and Sandusky. She was built like a sea gull and rode the waves just as you see a gull out in Lake Michigan ride the waves.

Later on she was sold to a firm in Sandusky and put in the trade between Sandusky, Put-In-Bay, Lorain, and Cleveland. Still later, when the old Barry line of Cleveland was plying the lakes, she was in a steamship rate war between Cleveland and Detroit when the rate was cut down from $1.50 to 25 cents and your breakfast. The last time that I worked aboard the Arrow she was running between Cleveland and Kelly's Island and Sandusky. She got up on the north branch because she was in the peach trade and made Chicago and Michigan City her ports of call.

WILLIAM R. CLANCY.

THE ARROW.

Chicago, March 1.—Before and during the world war, when I was practically a baby, we spent our summers at Lakeside, O., a resort near Sandusky. Plying between Sandusky, Lakeside, Kelly's Island, and Put-In-Bay was a single stacked, side wheeled excursion boat, the steamer Arrow. For five or six summers we spent the most delightful hours of our childhood on the Arrow. About 1921 or '22 we heard that the Arrow had burned to the water at its moorings in Put-In-Bay. It was rebuilt and put back into service, however, and we heard no more of it. Reading of Howard's discovery set me to dreaming of those happy days, and I spent a very pleasant hour looking through our old photographs taken in the days when the steamer Arrow was to us, the "queen of the seas." And I can't help wishing, if this is the same Arrow, that she, too, is having very pleasant dreams.

Chicago, March 3.—In looking over the rotogravure section in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE I have found something that interests me, and I believe a lot of others. It was the colored pictures on the front page of the different kinds of birds and their young. I have cut them out because I am interested in birds. I am going to start a scrap book with these. I wish, if it is possible, you would publish some more.

BOB POLACEK.

BUSHWHACKERS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—I read with interest and amusement the article James O'Donnell Bennett wrote about Judge Lyle. I would like to call Mr. Bennett's attention to the misuse of the word "bushwhacker." He says their purpose was to prey upon a distracted countryside and terrorize loyalists into flight and neutrals into the rebel army. Mr. Bennett has been misinformed. That was not their purpose at all. My great-grandfather organized one of the first troops of soldiers to defend the confederacy, and he was their captain. All my ancestors fought for their beloved confederacy and they also fought the bushwhackers, who were the menace of the women and children left at home. Let me inform Mr. Bennett that bushwhackers were poor white trash who belonged to neither army, but who preyed on those who stayed at home; they certainly were connected with the rebel army in no capacity. I've heard my grandmother tell how they thieved and murdered. I have known descendants of bushwhackers, but their ancestors are considered poor white trash. I have heard my grandfather and grandmother say that the bushwhackers were feared more than the Union army. Their purpose was to steal, murder and terrorize, but not to induce any one to join the confederate army, for that army was their enemy.

A SOUTHERN DEFENDER.

SEEN FROM A DISTANCE.

Waterloo, Ia., Feb. 25.—Can the people of Chicago blame those living outside of Chicago if as a result of Tuesday's election the following conclusions are formed? (1) That the crooks in Chicago outnumber the honest people. (2) That the rottener a candidate in Chicago is, the more votes he receives. (3) That the good people of Chicago are entirely too indifferent as to the duty they owe society in general. (4) That the Bar association has inflicted an injustice on Chicago by too strongly advocating judicial temperament, which to the public means deciding cases on what seems to be technically right rather than actually right.

If the people of Chicago only realize it, they are in need of pity as well as advice, and the rest of the country hope that they will clean house in the coming regular election. JOHN E. MUELLER.

ANOTHER MIRAGE.

Chicago, March 2.—About a year ago a reader of your paper wrote saying he had witnessed a mirage on Lake Michigan. This reader stated that the eastern shore was plainly seen, even to the contour of the sand hills.

Just yesterday this same phenomena repeated itself. From a point north of the Gun club in Lincoln park the mirage made the sand hills on the eastern shore visible as far north or south as the eye could see.

Now to repeat the year old question: I wonder how many people of the thousands in Lincoln park yesterday witnessed this beautiful apparition?

JAMES FLOOD.

POST-VOLSTEAD MORALITY.

Chicago, March 2.—What has happened in the hearts of men? At least in pre-prohibition days there was pity—even though mixed with contempt—in the effort to help one intoxicated out of harm's way. But now nothing seems to be made of the fact that both men and women—boys and girls, if you will—guests of a so-called party, a restaurant owner, a waitress, and a policeman seem unaware of fault on their part at leaving a young girl helpless, even though they considered it due to intoxication.

One good Samaritan might have saved that life.

God help us when women, too, do know and pass by! M. E. T.

CENSORSHIP.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 25.—It seems to me that externally we Americans who want to talk or write about Italy are under the thumb of Mussolini and internally we are under the jurisdiction of Al Capone. THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John said, had magnanimously adopted the child. His sister, Gertrude, took charge of Judith when his wife died. Hilary suspects such magnanimity.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Steven, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home. No one is at the boat when it docks to meet Hilary and John takes her to her door.

INSTALLMENT X.

A PECULIAR WILL.

"I always feel so fortunate the drawing room was on this floor, or what we should have done about it I don't know," said Mrs. Ferguson plaintively. "Your stepfather would never hear of having his precious study moved. As I told him, he would sacrifice every one of us, even though we might be wanting bread."

She had always talked as though they were on the verge of penury, but the house which had become a maisonette had the same air of careless polished elegance as of old; and kitchens had been thrown out at the back, and hot water installed in the bedrooms, she explained to her daughter, because servants were so very difficult nowadays. She opened a door.

"Hugh's old room is the dining room, you know. I always feel so sad at meals," said Mrs. Ferguson brightly, recollecting her grief, "and that's another reason I couldn't meet you, darling, it would have been too upsetting. You do understand, don't you?"

"It's all right, mother, I understand."

Hilary, to her own complete bewilderment, found she was looking into Hugh's old room through tears.

Steven and Christine Ferguson were ordinary enough young people, sufficiently good looking and conforming to be popular with their own generation, and rather spoilt. Hugh had been quite right. He would have been good for them if only in pointing a contrast to their own easy lives. They had been quite fond of Hilary in the days when such things were done; they were proud of her in an offhand fashion now because everybody knew the Revel guides, and it was amusing to say casually, "O, yes, H. C. Revel's my stepsister, Hilary. She's always traveling about, lucky devil."

They had been pleased to hear she was coming home, though neither had imagined it would be a permanent return, and when they found her actually preparing to stay they agreed she was a mug. They had expected to be invited to gay little dinners with her in some smart hotel and meet her interesting friends. Moreover, they were suffering from a mild sense of grievance at Hugh's will, and that night at dinner Steven told her so.

"Certainly not," he retorted, swinging around.

"You were pretty clever over Hugh's money. Congratulations!" he said.

"O, I don't blame Hilary for putting it across when she had the chance," said Christine. Steven was a fool to burst out like that, she thought, when with a little management Hilary might be wheedled into doing something for them. "Only we did think you would have put in a word for Steven and me," she added airily to her sister. "Even if he had only left us a hundred or so. Jolly useful it would have been to a couple of paupers like us."

"What are you talking about?" said Hilary, looking round the table in bewilderment.

"I didn't know he'd made a will."

"Rats! 'Everything I possess in trust for my sister, Hilary Revel, to be settled on her at her marriage or if she remains single to buy her an annuity when she reaches the age of forty years,'" intoned Steven. "He must have been a pompous old ass."

"That was the last thing in the world Hugh ever was," flamed Hilary, and heard her mother's voice saying plaintively as though from a great distance:

"Children, children, I wish you wouldn't talk about my poor Hugh. You know how miserable it makes me."

"Well, you are soppy!" protested her younger daughter.

"Hold your tongue, Christine." Dr. Ferguson's tone was sharp, but his eyes were bent upon Hilary's white face, and when at last she looked in his direction it was to meet a reassuring smile.

"I'll show you the document after dinner, my dear," he said. "No sane person could have imagined your brother would leave his money to anybody else."

She nodded dumbly, unable to trust her voice. It had never entered her head that Hugh's money would come to her of all people in the world, but she supposed he had done it from a reluctant sense of fair play. He knew that her own small income and all her earnings, together with his income and pension, had just sufficed with careful handling to pay their traveling expenses and give him the comforts he needed; but he had never made any comment on her share in the financial situation, had appeared to take it as a matter of course, and she was surprised and rather shaken now. She could see, knowing him so well, why he had tied up the money in that mocking fashion. He had always resented what she had done for the children, and he was paying her [in a double sense] and paying them, determined that they should not benefit from his legacy to her.

"Anyway, it's nice to have some one in the family rolling in money," remarked Christine, as though making the best of it. "With your own cash and Hugh's and the piles you've made out of your book, you must feel gorgeously affluent."

"I haven't made piles, people don't," smiled Hilary. "Affluent is the last thing you would call me."

"Well, you must have had a perfectly gorgeous time, anyway," said Christine. "I've always envied you your luck."

"Me, too," said Steven fervently."

She saw that they were perfectly serious and did not protest, she was too dumfounded.

It was a relief when dinner was over and her stepfather carried her off to the study, curtly refusing Steven's suggestion to make it a family council.

"Have this easy chair, my dear, and a cigaret," he said kindly. "You have had a long and exhausting day."

No one else had thought of that and she was grateful, liking the quiet of the beflowered room, and remembering how often long ago she had borrowed, surreptitiously and always in fear of being found out, from its shelves. Her mother had created something of a family tyrant of this stooped, tall man in these days. It was always, "Your father would never allow it . . ." or when he was for the moment in disfavor, "You know how strict your stepfather is." The subtle distinction had tickled Hilary even then.

Dr. Ferguson brought a long envelope and laid it in her hand, turning his back as she read the will. It was very short, a few lines only, her stepfather was mentioned as executor, the others not at all.

"O, I'm sorry he didn't leave them something," she said regretfully, "and I can't even give it to them, can I?"

"Certainly not," he retorted, swinging round. "If you tried, I, as your executor and their father, should have something to say. God bless my soul, child, they will have all I possess one of these days, and is this orgy of self-sacrifice never to end? Look what it has brought you. Quite apart from your devoted care of Hugh, you have saved this household the misery of seeing him suffer all these years, and they fail even to realise it, but talk of your good luck."

GOOD MORNING!

"They are coming, Father Abraham, a hundred thousand strong——" These covered wagon "epics." The trouble is, they're not all strong.

"Fighting Caravans" is just an ambitious little brother of "The Big Trail," "Cimarron," "The Pony Express," et al. It is exceedingly reminiscent of "The Covered Wagon," patriarch of the herd.

As adapted from the story by Zane Grey, this western is scenically worth while. It has some beautiful photography and panoramic shots. But it rings no surprises. Same old wagons; the expected romance between a hard boiled young plainsman and a damsel traveling with the wagon train! The regulation droll old scouts furnish what is called "comedy relief," contributing at the last a bit of hard hewn pathos. There are raiding Indians to call forth demonstrations of bravery from gallant men and no less valiant women.

An introductory title gives you the kernel of the story:

"In the civil war days the country west of the Mississippi needed supplies, and these were brought by wagon trains—fighting caravans—braving the dangers en route to California. . . ."

Gary Cooper and Lily Damita play the romantic leads acceptably but unremarkably. Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall get some laughs as the scouts. Charles Winninger does a brief but splendid bit as a town marshal. His performance, short as it is, outshines all the other acting in the production.

"Fighting Caravans" is like some people. It's rather dull, but it has a good heart.

See you tomorrow.

Movie Couple Married at Bedside of Ailing Father

Los Angeles, March 4.—(AP)—Douglas MacLean and Lorraine Eddy of the films were married yesterday at the bedside of the bridegroom's father, the Rev. C. C. MacLean, who celebrated at the same time the fifty-eighth anniversary of his marriage to Mrs. MacLean. Dr. and Mrs. MacLean had planned to make the marriage of their son a part of the celebration of their anniversary. Last week Dr. MacLean was stricken with paralysis. He is 80 years old.

YSAYE, IN HOSPITAL, HEARS HIS OPERA'S PREMIERE VIA RADIO

LIEGE, Belgium, March 4.—Belgium's grand old man of music, Eugene Ysaye, master violinist, had his first opera played here tonight, but was unable to see it. Ysaye is partly paralyzed and is being treated in a clinic at Brussels. He listened, however, throughout the evening to the strains of "Pierre le Houyeur" ("Peter the Coal Miner") on the radio. Then he spoke a few words of thanks to the singers through the microphone. Loud speakers sent the old man's voice to the entire opera audience, among whom was Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians.

In writing his first opera at the age of 73, Ysaye, former conductor of the Cincinnati orchestra, has done something which is unique in the history of music. Rumor says Queen Elizabeth, who was Ysaye's pupil for years and is a talented violinist, helped her teacher to compose the opera.

"Peter the Coal Miner" was written in the dialect spoken in the region of Liège, where Ysaye was born and reared. Critics agree that the opera will make its way to bigger stages.

Women's Groups at U. of C. Elect Their New Officers

Three women's organizations at the University of Chicago have elected officers. Miss Ruth Abells was elected chairman of the federation of university women. Council members of the same organization are Rebeccah Hayward, Ruth Willard, Betty Millard, and Martha Miller. Representative to the board of women's organization is Miss Alice Steinnett. The federation is composed of all university women. Miss Margaret Hill was elected president of the Women's Athletic association. Miss Elizabeth Merriam, daughter of Prof. Charles E. Merriam, was elected president of the Y. W. C. A.

Presbyterians May Let Women Share in Council

Philadelphia, Pa., March 4.—(AP)—Women will become members of the Presbyterian church general council, the executive organization of the denomination, if an overture proposed by that body in annual convention here today is approved by a majority of presbyteries.

Flash, Smoke and Einsteins Both Are Gone

They Take Ship for Their German Home.

New York, March 4.—(AP)—A new Albert Einstein—an Americanized herr professor for whom the boom of flashlights has lost its terror—sailed home to Germany tonight.

Wearing the same round hat, black coat, and sagging suit, the relativity wizard, fresh from a stay in California's balmy climes, said good-by with a smile after playing a little trick on reporters to show he was master of the situation.

Hopping nonchalantly from a train that brought them from the west, Prof. and Mrs. Einstein were greeted by the usual crowd of reporters and photographers, whose presence had struck such dismay into the flustered German scientist when he stopped here en route to the coast.

There was an explosion of flashlight powder and when the cloud of smoke had cleared the Einsteins were gone. They were in a taxicab racing to the liner Deutschland's pier.

That was early this morning. A few moments later Einstein was breakfasting with Dr. George W. Crile, Cleveland surgeon, praising that surgeon's cell research.

Dr. Crile explained in detail his auto-synthetic cell project, telling of his process of reforming and giving cell characteristics to dried calves' brains which had been broken down into fats, proteins, and ash.

"The conclusions of Dr. Crile will be vindicated scientifically," Einstein said.

The German savant said, however, he believed the cell was not the smallest unit of life and that something better would have to be worked out in the problem of creating life.

It was a crowded day. Dr. Einstein heard Prof. Paul Lorenz of New York explain a theory of "fourth dimensional" music, received a delegation of pacifists, and attended a $1,000 a plate dinner in behalf of the American Palestine campaign.

ECKENER PLANS POLAR CRUISE FOR TOURISTS; SETS JULY AS TIME

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—The first tourist journey to the polar sea will be undertaken by the German Graf Zeppelin some time this July, So Dr. Hugo Eckener announced on his arrival aboard the Europa today.

Dr. Eckener stated the cruise would be open to any one with the "very high" price of passage. He said the cruise over the arctic region would last about five days, beginning at Friedrichshafen, home port of the Graf Zeppelin.

A stop will be made at Leningrad for refueling, both en route to and from the polar sea. Although the master of the Zeppelin does not expect to fly over the pole, he does hope that the first tour to the region may result in the discovery of several uncharted islands.

In the fall of 1931, after the polar trip, Dr. Eckener said the Graf Zeppelin would be put in air mail service to South America.

Woman's Wit Aids in Curbing War of Rival Chicken Fryers

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Emphasis on the mere details of frying chicken in accordance with the traditions of Indiana or Maryland was condemned roundly today in a resolution adopted by about thirty former residents of Indiana, asserting that "it was a proved and widely recognized fact that your true Hoosier takes his chicken when, where, as and if he can get it."

The resolution opened a controversy over the methods of frying chicken, which was said to threaten to become as serious as the corn pone and pot-likker feud in the south.

Mrs. Medea G. Wager, president of the Indiana club, insisted there was a difference. Maryland chicken, she said, was encased in a batter, while the Hoosier bird was fried with a sprinkling of flour.

Humanist Funeral Rites for Former Opera Singer

New York, March 4.—(AP)—A service molded to reflect her personality—without sermon or flowers or sacred music—was the last tribute paid to Mrs. Anita Findlay Webster, former opera singer.

Mrs. Webster, 34, died Sunday of a heart attack and was cremated yesterday after Charles Francis Potter had conducted the first humanist funeral rites in the Riverside drive apartment of her mother, Mrs. Lavinia Findlay.

While her closest friends told cheerfully of her qualities, her favorite song was sung and her favorite poem was read. There were no references to immortality.

THE STAGE

GUY BATES POST, returning to the stage after an absence of twelve years—or since "The Masquerader"—will begin an engagement at the Apollo theater March 22 in "A Lady in Pawn," written by Ralph T. Kettering and Henry A. Rosendale. He is under the management of Mr. Kettering, who mixes authorship with the duties of managing the Adelphi theater.

Mr. Post's company includes Lillian Kemble-Cooper, Ian Emery, William H. Sams, Lee Millar, Plumpton Wilson, and Esther Mitchell. This sounds like an excellent cast. Miss Kemble-Cooper represents an acting family of fine tradition. Mr. Emery is a son of the veteran Edward Emery. The others are players with good notices in their scrapbooks.

The authors of "A Lady in Pawn" have another play for early production. It bears the title of "The Chiseller," and Paul Muni has been engaged for the leading rôle.

James Agate, dramatic critic of the London Times, refuses to join the hallelujah chorus over "Strange Interlude," which is now being presented in London by a Theater Guild company. He writes:

"The story of 'Strange Interlude' is held together by the safety pin of accident, and the technique of its telling is pretentious and wearisome. The characters are not human beings, but entries in a neuropath's casebook. The play is morbid and rotten with decay. There is no vitality, vigor, or anything approaching life in it, and no character has any preoccupation except sex."

The Billboard, which has been published for thirty years as a weekly magazine devoted to the technical aspects of the show business, announces that in the future its policy will be "one hundred per cent flesh." In other words, it has divorced itself from "the pictures," whether audible or silent.

Its editors state:

"This publication will militantly support those departments of the show world which have as their goal the nation-wide return of vaudeville and the legitimate theater and employment for thousands of performers, musicians, stage hands, house attendants, etc."

A. A. Milne's latest play had a new title when it was staged at Charles Hopkins' theater, New York, last Tuesday night. It approached its première under the label of "Success," but when the curtain rose it was called "Give Me Yesterday." . . . Dorothy Stone, Fred Stone's livelist daughter, will make her vaudeville debut at the Palace theater, New York, next Saturday, appearing in a song and dance act staged by her father. The leading juvenile of the "Ripples" company will be her assistant. C. C.

GLASS OF FASHION TO REFLECT COLORS OF MOLD OF FORM

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The first models of the new colored host coats went on view today at the exhibit of the New York Custom Cutters' club. One was blue with green lapels, the other wine colored with red lapels. Their sponsors believe they will be a boon to human relations.

The custom cutters also have provided a business cutaway for the gentlemen who like to keep their dignity with them all day, and a pocketless, double breasted vest for those who have no elk's teeth to display.

Ordinary coats are growing a trifle longer and the vent in the back is returning. Pockets are a little higher in tuxedos and the lines of full dress are a bit easier.

"Drinking Song Provides Air of U. S. Anthem"

Dr. Browne Comments on 'Star Spangled Banner.'

The wisdom of establishing as our national anthem a tune with a "past" is open to serious questio , according to Dr. J. Lawis Browne, director of music in the Chicago public schools. He referred to the act of congress on Tuesday which gave that status, by law, to "The Star Spangled Banner," the words of which were composed by Francis Scott Key in 1814 to describe his feelings while a prisoner on an British warship that was firing on an American fort.

"Even the fact that the tune of 'O, Say Can You See' wc originally written for the words of an old French drinking song, later to be popularised on a greater scale by a social club of ribulous tavern rounders in London, might be condoned if the song were singable," said Dr. Browne. "But the tone range is too great for popular usage."

Records in the library of the Chicago Historical society are vague as to the authorship of the tune. But some authorities credit one John Stafford Smith. The best known words used to the refrain before Key composed his poem are purported to have been written by a Ralph Tomlinson, who is supposed to have founded the Anacreonic society, a London tavern club, in 1766.

The Anacreons, as they called themselves, must have evolved the original tune and words more or less cooperatively, said Miss Eleanor Hazelton, librarian for the Historical society.

Soon after the barrooms of London had begun to ring with this musical tribute to Anacreon, noted historically as a Greek poet of "love, pleasure, and wine," born in Ionia in 563 B. C. The British drinking song is understood to have achieved a popularity equaling that of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Research revealed that the name of the song was "Hymn to Anacreon," the latter having been adopted as "the patron saint" of the society. The first of the countless verses demonstrates the tenor of the song as follows:

To Anacreon in heaven, where he sat
In full glee,
A few sons of harmony sent a petition
That he their inspirer and patron would be;
When this arrived, from the jolly old Grecian—
"Voice, fiddle, and flute
No longer need be mute;
I'll lend ye my name, and inspire ye to boot;
An', beside, I'll instruct ye like me to entwine
The myrtle of Venus with Bacchus' vine."

"There is a doubt in my mind," Dr. Browne went on," as to whether our children will revere our national anthem quite so much as if its musical origin were more natively American and less associated with dissipation and revelry. O, yes, we'll continue to teach it in the schools. It's our national anthem, you know."

IT'S LAW OF LAND

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(AP)—Some said the high notes were too high and some the low notes too low. Others simply said that for most American voices it was "unsingable."

But anyway, the house and senate approved it. The President affixed his signature.

Marylanders in congress, in recognition of the song's words having been written in Baltimore harbor while British shells fell upon Fort McHenry, have sought the legislation for years.

Many patriotic organizations joined in the plea. Representative Linthicum and Senator Tydings got behind the project. The former introduced the bill and saw to it that hearings were held. The house judiciary committee conducted them.

Officers of the patriotic organizations appeared and urged approval. Two sopranos and a band were specially imported to show the committee the anthem could be sung.

Old attendants at the capitol said the hearing was unique. Unusual not only for its incidental music, they said, but also because the committee members spent most of the time on their feet. A hearing, they added, that could be heard.

With Linthicum urging the bill on, the committee approved it and the house passed it. Then Tydings took it up, stilled objections, and yesterday obtained the approval of the senate. President Hoover signed the bill today.

Sunny France Has Fogs, Too, So Critic Finds

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE exhibitions which have just opened in the Arts club and at the Chester Johnson galleries are enough related to make them good companions in the same story. Paintings by Edouard Goerg are at the Arts club and, with all due respect to the youth of France, this exponent of contemporary painting has much to fear at the hands of any one capable of carrying a bucket of ice cold water. What a relief it would be to dash one pail or a dozen pails over the heads of this company of diseased phantoms Goerg has conjured up and watch them dissolve in sneezes.

They are not built for resistance. Here we have the epitome of a modernism from which every red drop of blood has been drained through fear that by leaving it vital it might reflect some quivering portion of a life that was real.

The Chester Johnson showing of paintings by Leger moves on a bit thicker strata than do the gray, ethereal ghosts of Goerg. Leger at all events paints robustly and with a manner that takes cognizance of solidity. He may break the solids up, and does, but the assurance of them is there and the compositions which bind them are deftly built. Leger's sense of color is not always of the subtlest, but enough pure greens and true reds are introduced to take the bitter from the artificial lower tones, the grays and blues and browns. One may dislike a platter of apparent loose intestines with the champing of false teeth, yet when a book, a leaf, a this, a that, is set in its place one can find an excuse even for that which taste turns from.

Leger, in this accounting, leaves a great deal unsaid. He is an abstractionist playing with form and color and has not delicacy nor imagination enough to save himself from a chill commonplace. One cannot raise much enthusiasm over these designs. In the next room, however, are paintings by Martha Wilson which bring us back to sound America with a leap. Miss Wilson's water colors are entrancing and her two portraits of children are excellently handled, particularly the baby eating the apple. A self-portrait of Gauguin is another most valuable moment in the current Chester Johnson exhibit.

Food Talk.

Mrs. G. L. writes: "Will you please send me a Bohemian menu? What foods are characteristic of Bohemia?"

In consulting Bohemian cook books it would seem that their diets are made up of foods similar to our own. Their flavorings, however, are different. For example, they baste and bake a number of meats with sour cream. They use caraway seeds in such foods as creamed potatoes, ginger in kohlrabi, and mace in mushroom soup. We are supplying the following Bohemian menu with the necessary recipes:

Polevka-Cerstvych Hub
Nadivana Skopova Kyta
Dusene Brambory
Dusene Kedlybny Eile Brukvy
Sparglovy Salat
Azena Strudle s Jablky

POLEVKA Z CERSTVYCH HUB.
[Mushroom Soup.]

Clean six large mushrooms thoroughly. Slice thin, add minced parsley and allow all to stew in 2 tablespoons butter, then dust with flour and stew a little while longer. Pour on any good clear meat stock to make it of the consistency of a thin gravy. Add a pinch of mace and several tablespoons of good cream. Allow to boil and pour over bread croutons.

NADIVANA SKOPOVA KYTA.
[Stuffed Leg of Mutton.]

Take the bone out of a leg of mutton and cut out enough meat to make a good sized opening. Fry minced onions and anchovies in butter. Add the meat, minced, which you took out, 4 tablespoons bread crumbs, 4 tablespoons sour cream, 3 eggs, salt, and mix well. Fill the opening with this dressing and fasten, so it will not drip out. Place in a baking pan two sliced carrots, a little water, and melted butter. Add the meat and roast in the oven. Baste from time to time with a little sour cream. When the meat is done take out the fastenings or threads, skim the grease from the gravy, and serve.

DUSENE BRAMBORY.
[Creamed Potatoes.]

Old patotoes are made palatable in this way: Fry a minced onion in a heaping tablespoon of butter, add ½ tablespoon flour and when it bubbles a bit add a cup of milk. When it begins to boil add a plateful of sliced boiled potatoes. Add a bit of caraway seed, salt, and pepper. Cover and put on the back of the stove. When the potatoes have absorbed the milk, they are done.

DUSENE KEDLYBNY EILE BRUKVY.
[Stewed Kohlrabi.]

Peel and slice several kohlrabi. Melt a tablespoon of butter with a teaspoon of sugar. Add the kohlrabi, a little beef soup, salt, and simmer until tender. Then thicken with flour and butter browned together and add a bit of ground ginger. The young leaves of kohlrabi may be boiled in salted water, then chopped, stewed in butter and meat stock, thickened with browned flour and butter and served as a garnish to the kohlrabi.

SPARGLOVY SALAT.
[Asparagus Salad.]

Pick over the asparagus, choosing the crisp tips. Boil in salted water until tender. Drain dry. Arrange in a bowl, pour over it vinegar, olive oil, and paprika or pepper. You may garnish this with boiled cauliflower.

AZENA STRUDLE S JABLKY.
[Apple Strudel.]

Melt a piece of butter the size of a large walnut in a cup of lukewarm water. Beat in 1 egg, ¼ cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. Sift a quart of flour on the bread board, make a well in the center, pour into it the foregoing and knead the dough thoroughly, beating it with a rolling pin. Cover with a hot bowl and let it stand one hour. In the meantime peel and slice thin some apples. Pick over and clean half a pound of raisins and fry bread crumbs in butter. Now spread a white cloth on the table, dust it thickly with flour and stretch the dough over it until it is almost transparent (it must not tear or break). Two can do this much better than one. Then spread apples over the dough, sprinkle with the bread crumbs, raisins or currants and sugar, cinnamon and melted butter. Lift the cloth at one side and thus roll the strudel up like a jelly roll. Butter the baking pan, turn the strudel into it carefully, rub it over with butter and bake slowly one hour. Rub with butter after it begins to bake and when it is half done pour over it a cup of cream. When done cut in slices, dust each thickly with powdered sugar and serve.

Ambitious Boy Remains Mystery to This Maiden

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been going around with a boy quite a bit lately and have grown awfully fond of him. He returns the compliment, or I thought he did until he took a position evenings, in addition to his day job. He didn't have to take the evening job to support himself. His people are fairly well off, and I didn't encourage it, as that let's me out of the picture and I can't see him often now.

"I admire his ambition, but I can't see what the extra work is getting him, unless it affords more spending money. Can you dig up some excuse for his doing this in preference to being with me? CLARA."

Right offhand I could dig up two excuses: one that he may be losing interest in girls as too expensive playthings, the other that he wants to get ahead in the world!

So often I have wondered how boys on moderate incomes can afford to take girls about, as girls demand taking about, these expensive days. Some girls, I mean. Not all. The wonder is to me that more fellows aren't applying for night jobs to catch up with or get a bit ahead of the game.

And my impression is, "Clara," that you are the type of girl who would expect considerable spending done on her. Maybe the boy is working nights to retrench what he has spent on you. Of course, I am guessing only. But when a girl is so unsympathetic toward honest efforts to get ahead my suspicion is that she would be a most exacting miss.

Believe it or not, "Clara," the boy today who is willing to apply himself to day and night work is a young man to reckon with as a future somebody. The species is less current than it used to be, and should be regarded as a find, not in the manner in which you view his activities.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Friendship May Be Lost.

"Dear Miss Blake: My pal's girl has given him up. I love this girl, but don't want to interfere. I think she likes me. What shall I do?

Any interference on your part would be a mistake and undoubtedly would result in the loss of the friendship of both.

CHILDREN usually hate to take medicine but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And mothers like its action—so gentle, yet so prompt and effective.

Castoria is a never-failing comfort to children and mothers alike because it was formulated expressly for children—to correct their little ills and upsets.

The beauty of it is you can give Castoria to children of all ages with equally sure results. When baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed; and free from pain, he is asleep again in a jiffy.

In an older child when coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, a more liberal dose is usually all that is needed to cleanse and regulate the bowels.

Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your children are grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a child in his teens.

Guelph Art Objects Will Be Shown Here

BY THALIA

ANYBODY who has a few extra million dollars or so in his pocketbook may go on a shopping expedition to the Art institute on March 31 or thereafter to look with a purchasing eye on the famous Guelph treasure. The Antiquarians and the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago are bringing the renowned collection here, and they're pretty excited about it.

At an Antiquarian meeting yesterday the impending visit was discussed, and there probably will be a tea on the day of the opening of the exhibit.

You may or may not know that the treasure has been in the possession of an Austrian family since medieval times, and its worth is almost beyond estimate. The present duke of Brunswick found it necessary to part with the collection, and it was forthwith sent to England with the hope that his kin, the British royal family, would acquire it. The imperial purse wasn't equal to the strain, however, and so the gold and silver objects have been brought to this country to tempt wealthy Americans.

Chicagoans Own Some of the Guelph Treasures.

It was planned to keep the collection intact, but that may not be feasible, and the articles, most of them ecclesiastical vessels, such as chalices and the like, may have to be disposed of separately. The stupendous value of the treasure makes its transportation and care something to be reckoned with.

There are already a half dozen pieces of the Guelph treasure in Chicago, the Chauncey McCormicks having purchased 5 objects and the Art institute having one, bought for them by the Antiquarians.

Of personal interest . . . Miss Bertha Palmer, Princess Elizabeth Cantacuzene, and Eleanor McCormick went over to Palm Beach from Sarasota this week for a visit with Elizabeth Kent, the Atwater Kents' daughter, at the Kent villa, and Miss Kent gave a luncheon aboard the Alondra for them. . . . Mrs. William B. Storey took her departure last Sunday for her annual stay in California. . . . Mrs. W. Dow Harvey took the San Francisco limited last night for California. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell [do you suppose his patients know his nickname is "Fuzzy"?] are down on the gulf coast for a vacation, and get back on Saturday. . . . Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter has taken a job on one of the evening newspapers. . . . The Grand Duchess Marie is to speak and autograph her books in Field's book section on Saturday. . . . The Stanley Zarings are motoring to French Lick and Kentucky.

Junior League to Start Another Show on Saturday.

The cast for the Junior league's "Land of Oz" to open on Saturday morning is as follows:

Ann Robinson, Frances Weary, Betty Warren, Jean Dern, Katrina Mauff, Gwen Fargo, Phoebe Logan, and Helen Pope.

Toward the end of the winter the long daily rehearsals and grind on the League plays got a bit onerous for the participants, and I understand that most of them had little luncheon parties to celebrate the closing of "Pinocchio" last Saturday.

WOMAN BORROWS 10C TO BRING ART WORK TO SHOW TO SALLY

Miss E. P., an artist, spent her last dine yesterday to bring samples of her work to Sally Joy Brown in the hope of getting some kind of a job. She is a woman past middle age, of good education, and has in the past been able to support herself. But pictures are looked upon as a luxury now, Miss E. P. has found, and she is willing to accept most any job.

"I could work in a linen room of a hotel," she told Miss Brown hopefully. "And I could work as a cashier or do dress remodeling. But whatever it is, I need the job immediately."

Another woman appealed yesterday to Miss Brown. She was Mrs. J. M., the mother of three children, two boys, 10 and 6 years old, and a daughter, 9 years old. Her husband was a structural iron worker until he was killed a few years ago while working on a building. Mrs. J. M. has had no work since July. She can do clerical work, especially filing, or working in a firm's reception room.

Miss E. W., 32 years old, the only support of her mother, told Miss Brown yesterday that her savings are now exhausted and she will gladly take a job in an office, having had experience doing most everything except typing. She has, worked in a mail order house and the last place she was employed she was a department manager.

Among the jobs offered yesterday was a permanent one at the Z. restaurant, 4500 block North Ashland avenue. They wanted a woman to wash dishes and scrub.

L. M., 800 block West 54th street, was in need of a paperhanger and Mr. T., 3600 West 68th place, wanted a carpenter to repair a porch.

A permanent job with a good salary as an office boy was offered by the H. T. company, 7000 block South State street.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis is leaving tomorrow for Miami, Fla. He will visit Albert Lasker in his winter place there.

The secretary of commerce and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont have issued invitations for a dinner party tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley of Chicago are here for a short stay.

Mrs. Louis E. Laflin of Lake Forest, Ill., arrived here this morning from Aiken, S. C., to make an indefinite stay at the Mayflower. She was accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lloyd Alan Laflin, who will be with her here until Friday, when she will return to Lake Forest.

PALM BEACH SOCIETY

Palm Beach, Fla., March 4.—[Special.]—More than 200 guests attended the buffet dinner and dance given by Mr. Edmund E. Allyne and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Allyne, at the former's estate at Lantana tonight.

Guests were requested to come in old clothes and to bring their bathing suits, that they might enjoy the large swimming pool which is one of the features of the Allyne estate. During the buffet dinner music was provided by a Hawaiian orchestra. The dance orchestra from the Miami Bath club furnished music for dancing.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield, Miss Betty Offield, Count and Countess Henri de Frise, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bode, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen, Lady Henrietta Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mrs. Robert Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., Mrs. James B. Long, Count Perdicari.

WHAT COULD BE MORE convenient and enjoyable than to sail April 14 on the Raymond-Whitcomb Spring Mediterranean Cruise? To travelers to Europe, wanting something different, it offers a brand new series of experiences. First you must realize that the "Carinthia" heads out to meet the fullness of the Mediterranean Spring, when all Southern Europe is finest. It reaches Gibraltar April 23; you can disembark and see Spain at just the right time of year. It reaches Palermo April 28; if you are bound northward after Sicily, what could be more convenient?

It is at Naples May 11, allowing plenty of comfortable weather for a trip in Italy. It reaches Nice May 13; you can be in Paris the next day. It stops once more at Gibraltar, so that you can cut comfortably across Spain for a fortnight on the Côte d' Argent, before going north. With these calls are interwoven visits to less traditional points. In fact, on the groundwork of a regular Western Mediterranean course has been built an itinerary entertaining and (if you will permit the word) truly unique.

Of the visits to Southern Russia on the Black Sea and the Homeric cities in Southeastern Greece and Constantinople this advertisement will not undertake to describe. The Raymond-Whitcomb booklet does it better, likewise the Raymond-Whitcomb offices, who, if you will call on them, can convincingly enlarge on the suggestions that appear in the paragraphs above.

Does it hurt you to smile?

Do your lips begin to chap as soon as cold weather starts? Cracked lips, split lips take the joy out of life. They're most unattractive to look at—and most unpleasant to have. Dangerous, too, with open places where germs can gain entry.

Nature, for reasons of her own, made your lip skin thinner than on the rest of your body. Only a gossamer-like membrane covers the tissues. Cold, wind, heat or light quickly dries it—and breaks follow.

Roger & Gallet Lip Pomade gives just the protection you need. For 43 years thousands of men, women and children have used it for lip-comfort. Physicians order it for chapped or fevered lips, or during sun-ray treatment.

Children Deserve Own Unrestricted Playing Quarters

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Don't you sometimes think that houses and gardens and yards should be divided into two parts—a child's part and a grown-up's part?

A garden for a grown person is a thing of beauty—something to look at.

For a child a garden is a place to dig in, climb in, build in. Grass is something to walk on, to roll on, to feel with hands and bodies and sometimes bare feet. Children are close to the earth in many ways.

It is hard for grown-ups to have the ideas and actions of children imposed on their living quarters. It is equally hard for children to have to respect absolutely the desires and preferences of grown-ups.

What is true of children and gardens holds true with the interior of a house. It is nerve racking for a grown-up to see the wear and tear, the unthinking use that a child makes of furniture.

Also, it is hard for a child to have to respect and consider so many, many material things in his surroundings. This is so when he is in either of two younger phases. When he is quite little, at the stage of wanting to try out his sense of touch, it is eternally tantalizing to him to have to keep his hands off this and that. What he should be having is every encouragement to experiment with and develop his five senses.

When he is older, at the vigorous, fast growing period, it is cramping and annoying to have many muscular restrictions in order to preserve the cleanliness and order and often delicate materials that are used in his home. It is almost impossible for restless young muscles and a mind concerned with games, books, and companions to obey many restrictions.

African Stripes Mark New Parisian Chic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Everybody in Paris is looking forward to the French colonial exposition that is to show us how such a lot of the other half (geographically speaking, of course) lives.

Couturiers have turned their attention to Indo-Chinese lines and African colors. They are using the wide striped silks and woolens that lend such a lot of character to Algerian and Moroccan scenes, to lend chic to the occidental and modern Parisienne.

The Meinbocher frock, sketched here, is a smart example of this Colonial trend. It's of crêpe de chine printed in green, red, and black stripes. The skirt is plaited up the front giving just a hint of Moorish trousers. It has a hip hoke that wraps around like a Moorish bayadere's girdle, but the black suede belt with its gunmetal buckle brings you back to the rue de la Paix.

The bodice is a simple blouse in the front, fastened by silk covered buttons, but in the back it turns into a loose bolero. The three cornered mouchoir collar is also nonchalantly chic.

Meinbocher makes these striped frocks for sports in unusual tub silks and it is hard to find anything more girlish, chic, and practical for south and summer.

Hair Is Too Often Cared for While Scalp Is Neglected

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Why do so many women wait until their hair shows excessive falling, or until a great deal of dandruff is present, or until the hair is utterly lifeless before they do something about it?

Certainly, women do not do that with their complexions, nowadays! They don't wait until the skin is dry as parchment before treating it to creams and lotions. They don't wait until lines are furrows before they get after them. Then, why this indifference about the quality of the hair? There's no such indifference about the style of its wearing, about what the latest hair fashion hints proclaim.

They don't wait until pounds upon pounds roll up before a diet is recognized as the proper procedure. It just is one of the inconsistencies of our sex that hair is tended, while the scalp is left to thrive as best it may. Which isn't any "best," with all the hot air dryings and the permanents and the frequent iron applications, to say nothing of the things that happen to a scalp left to look after itself.

It isn't hair consciousness, perhaps, as much as scalp consciousness that we must start a lot of propaganda on now. Because there lies the root of all hair evil—and the real beauty of the hair.

My impression is that more women shampoo their own hair than have it done professionally—for economic reasons, of course. Which course is not to be criticized, if one shampoos well. It can be done well at home, with the proper shampoo lotion, or liquified soap. But the rinsings are of even greater importance. Get every last vestige of soap out of the hair by three, four, or if necessary, five clear water rinsings.

Then, if the scalp is dry, give it some ointment and rub it well into the scalp. Give it an oil treatment. Give yourself scalp food or a scalp tonic. The important thing is to find out what your particular scalp needs so that hair beauty will be prolonged for years and years. I want to get you thinking about future hair beauty as you think now of future complexion beauty.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

M. N.: REMOVE THE BLACKheads on your skin by scrubbing the parts with soap and warm water. Use a good pure soap. A complexion brush should be used. First apply a cleansing cream to soften the hardened substance, then scrub—after which you may rinse with warm water, followed by cold water.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Thoroughly Enjoyable Party.

One of my friends recently employed a Russian cook. Shortly afterwards she gave an evening party to which I was invited. About midnight a buffet supper was served. Some of the dishes were new to me and I was especially puzzled over a plate of some things carved to represent flowers. It was an extremely attractive arrangement. I carefully helped myself to a pond lily and, being seated across from my hostess, made a noble effort to nibble at the petals of what turned out to be a turnip. I noticed that my hostess had taken none of these delicacies.

You can imagine my embarrassment the next day when some gloating friend informed me that my hostess had told her that she thought she had had enough to eat but that she must have been wrong, for I had also eaten the decorations. I haven't made a party call yet. L. L.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The jacket costume will be indispensable in the spring wardrobe. This one is made in a "guardsman" blue and white thin woolen plaid—and plaids are decidedly chic. The upper part of the bodice, jacket facing and trim are in plain woolen, matching the blue shade. The plaited skirt, with its curved outline that starts either side of the front panel gives that modish flat look over the hips.

The pattern, 2968, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with 1⅛ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Dreaded Days

When women pity and men misunderstand

What a miserable feeling—suffering in silence — and shunning those we'd like to see—declining those pleasant invitations. Modern women no longer know such monthly martyrdom. They use Midol.

Why don't you try these tiny tablets that take effect in five to seven minutes? They neither hasten nor hinder Nature's regular process, but they do relieve you from all pain. Those days you formerly dreaded will become just an incident.

Midol is the marvelous discovery made by specialists. It is not a narcotic, yet it ends periodic pain. And if you anticipate the time, the expected pain will not appear at all. Tiny tablets in convenient little case obtainable at every drugstore. Just try Midol for painful periods, sick headaches or other muscular pain, and be convinced.

Lent Day by Day

JESUS AND FRIENDSHIP

Dr. Edward Scribner Ames,
Minister, University Church of Disciples.

One day Jesus announced to his companions that he would not call them servants, but friends. He had shown that he did not aspire to be master among them, for he had told them things that masters do not tell to servants. The very idea of authority was distasteful to him. He wanted to be loved rather than obeyed. His meaning was emphasized by a paradoxical "command," the command to love one another. Every one knows that love cannot be made to order.

The saying was too deep for them and it has been beyond most of his followers ever since. Teachers of Christianity seem unable to conceive their religion without the element of coercion. They live in awe, or fear, or in false humility. These are not the attitudes of friendship. True friends are trusting and confiding. They allow each other some freedom, some independence, some initiative. Jesus seemed to take a great chance when he left his church with no written rules or directions, but trusted to the friendliness of men to cherish his spirit and his vision. It looks like weakness or carelessness from a practical man's point of view. But it has proved to be the wisdom of the wise man.

Many people are indifferent or hostile to the religion of Jesus today, because they were taught that it consists of austere and arbitrary commands. They have never thought of him as a friendly, natural soul, a good companion, ready with quaint observations, illuminating stories, and profound insight.

Prayer.

O God, may we think of Thee through the personality of Jesus. Then shall we know and love Thee as a Friend, and we shall live in a friendly universe.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Seeks Clothes for Children.

"My husband has been out of work for a long time and hasn't been able to get anything. I would do day work, myself, if I could get it. We have five children, not old enough to work, and of course we cannot buy them what they need. Do you think you could get clothing for us, especially for the younger children? The girls are 6, 9½, 14, and 16. The boy is 7½. I wear size 40 and shoes, size 6½. My husband wears 42 or 44 and shoes, 11½. MRS. C. B."

Large families must endure a great deal of suffering during times of unemployment, for they have difficulty getting along when there is work. Can you be of any assistance to this family by supplying clothing for them?

Bright Sayings of the Children

Our little cousin, Louis, aged 5, had a bad cold in his chest this winter. He is quite fat and because his breathing caused such a decided wheezing sound, he said one day: "Daddy, I seem to be humming inside all the time." B. M. K.

15 NATIONS OPEN QUIZ INTO CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

League Backs Inquiry to Seek Its Origin.

GENEVA, March 4.—(AP)—An inquiry by the league of nations into the origin of the world economic crisis was brought to its first definite stage today.

Conferees from 15 nations, representing economic councils and research institutes told, at a session with the economic section of the league secretariat, how depression developed in their countries and a questionnaire was drawn up to obtain information from participating governments and economic groups.

U. S. Is Represented.

E. E. Hunt of New York, member of President Hoover's committee on recent economic changes, is representing the United States.

Prof. Olin of Copenhagen, designated by the league to direct the inquiry, sketched the task of the investigators and representatives of the international labor office and the Rome Agricultural institute expressed their views.

The questionnaire asks for information on agricultural production, labo and capital, foreign trade, the regions most affected by the depression, the times at which the crisis first manifested itself, how it extended in different countries, how it was aggravated in 1930, and how the depression affected differently agriculture and industry.

Compare Other Crises.

From replies the group will compare the present depression with previous economic crises and will seek to judge whether it is due to the same or to new causes.

A league spokesman warned tonight against anticipation of any "ready made cure" for periods of depression, which, he said, have been a world problem for a hundred years. The current inquiry bears only upon the present crisis.

1,000,000 Meals Given to City's Homeless in Winter

In the period between Oct. 24 and March 1 more than 1,000,000 meals were served and over 500,000 free night's lodging given to homeless men in Chicago by the shelters supported by the governor's commission on unemployment and relief. The figures were made public yesterday by the Clearing House for Men, 728 Sherman street, headquarters for the housing committee, supervising eighteen shelters. The average for each shelter was 5,614 lodgings and 13,428 meals a day.

Joseph Sabatello, Leader of Democratic Group, Dies

Joseph Sabatello, leader among Italian-American Democrats and drug store owner, died late Tuesday night at his home at 2353 West Chicago avenue. He was born Feb. 17, 1887, in New York City, but came with his parents to Chicago when 3 years old. For more than twenty years he had been active in politics in the old 14th and the present 32d ward. He was a candidate for alderman in 1925 and at the time of his death vice president of the Italian-American Cermak for Mayor organization. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at Holy Rosary Roman Catholic church.

"TORCH" SLAYER NOW IS THOUGHT MURDER VICTIM

Exhumation Shows He Died in Fire.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—[Special.]—The state fire marshal's office announced tonight that it is convinced that Paul Brown, 28 year old radio engineer, did not slay his well to do parent and then burn them in their farm home near Nashville in backwoods Brown county several months ago, but that one of the two bodies found in the ruins was that of young Brown.

PAUL BROWN.

Brown, former Purdue university student, is supposed to have been connected with liquor running in southwestern Indiana, working part of the time on an invention. Believed either crazed by his radio work or seeking the several thousand dollars in gold his parents had hidden in the farmhouse basement, young Brown was believed to have shot to death his parents and then set fire to the house. Extensive search has been conducted for him throughout the middle west.

Last week the two bodies were exhumed by court order. They are those of two men, the fire marshal's office said. The theory was advanced tonight that fellow rum runners murdered Paul and his father, and tortured the mother until she revealed the cache. Search was begun for her body back in the hills.

The farm hand neighbor wounded by Paul when he attempted to approach the house is now believed to have been mistaken by Paul for one of his rum runner assailants. The neighbor recovered. Brown county authorities have not commented on the fire marshal's theory.

CALLS ROAD TOO LEVEL TO WRECK SCHROEDER CAR

Surprise Witness in Torch Murder Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 4.—(AP)—The National road between Marshall and Martinsville, Ill., runs through level country and there are no deep depressions on either side of the highway, it was testified here today in the murder trial of Harold Herbert Schroeder, 35, of Mobile, Ala.

It was on this part of the road that Schroeder said an unknown hitch hiker he had picked up had suffered a broken neck when Schroeder's automobile went into a ditch last May. Schroeder, according to his statement, then drove back to Indianapolis and set fire to his car and the man's body.

Carl Louderback of Indianapolis, who makes frequent trips over the National road between Indianapolis and St. Elmo, Ill., was a surprise witness for the state. He testified that grading on either side of the pavement was about 5 feet wide and that it was not more than 12 inches lower than the road.

Miss Gertrude Kittrell, who was once arrested in Mobile, Ala., on the protest of Mrs. Schroeder, declined to appear as a witness today, the prosecutor announced.

MARCH is the Danger Time for Pale Run-Down Children

Children are very susceptible to disease in March. After fighting winter's dangers, resistance is at a low ebb, vitality is lessened and they do not have the reserve strength to resist disease. Now is the time to build up health and strength. For over 75 years Father John's Medicine has proved its worth as a body builder, as a tonic for weak run-down children, as an aid to healthy vigor.

This is because Father John's Medicine brings, in combination with other valuable ingredients, all the benefits of cod liver oil in the form best suited to a growing child's needs. Over 184 hospitals and institutions use it regularly. Contains no drugs or alcohol. Following its use, pale half-sick children pick right up. Colds become few and far between. Weight is added, strength returns. All druggists have it.

32 GOLDEN GLOVE BOXERS ADVANCE TO FINALS

BIG TEN PRESIDENTS TO DISCUSS NORTH CENTRAL CASE

N. U. HEAD CALLS GATHERING OF FACULTY CHIEFS

Minor Conferences Join Movement.

BY ARCH WARD.

Officials of the Western conference yesterday put on their war armor for a battle to the finish with the North Central association over the matter of athletic control in the Big Ten.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university called a meeting of university presidents to consider the conference's relation to the North Central in regard to athletic control. His request for the gathering of educators was forwarded to the various presidents by Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, faculty representative at the University of Michigan.

Announcement of the meeting followed publication in yesterday's TRIBUNE of the conflict between the two organizations over athletic control. No date has been set, but the meeting will be held in Chicago within two or three weeks.

Aigler Makes Statement.

Prof. Aigler's statement read:

"By agreement of the universities constituting the Big Ten for many years the making of rules and administration of athletic affairs, except that of purely local concern, have been delegated to the conference. This conference was a pioneer in athletic reform movements. Its organization has been the model for many years all over the country and its legislation generally has been widely copied. The aim of the conference not only has been to provide uniform eligibility rules, but also to bring and keep athletic activities in a proper relationship to the main business of the universities.

"Recently there has been developed in the North Central association a movement to take hold of matters heretofore handled by the conference and the whole problem has come to a head at Northwestern. It is on this question that Northwestern desires advice. It should be distinctly understood that the proposed meeting did not grow out of any charges against Northwestern or any other institution. Out of the meeting it is hoped there may develop a clarification of the position of the conference and its members in the North Central association."

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Western conference, pointed out yesterday that the North Central association, in attempting to supersede the authority of the Big Ten in internal athletic problems of the latter organization, was inconsistent.

"The issue between the Big Ten conference and the North Central has been stated by Prof. Aigler of Michigan," he said. "The matter must be settled at the meeting of the university presidents. The Western conference today is stronger than ever, but, in my judgment, if eligibility matters and questions of intercollegiate relationships which in the past have been handled by the conference are to be passed upon by another group the conference will have surrendered its sovereignty to the North Central association.

Revolt Is Spreading.

"The regulations of the Big Ten law schools which belong to the American Association of Law Schools are accepted without question by the North Central association. It seems no more than reasonable that the North Central should accept the Big Ten's standards in athletics as readily as it does its standards of the law schools."

Evidence that the revolt against the meddling tactics of the North Central into conference athletics was spreading to other organized groups was reflected in the attitude of W. S. Beyers of Iowa State college, an official of the Big Six conference, and in statements of Little Nineteen conference leaders, expressing satisfaction with the Big Ten's stand.

Prof. Beyers said no action would be taken by the Big Six until its regular meeting on March 27. It was his opinion that the North Central, in attempting to legislate in athletic matters, had exceeded the purpose for which the organization was founded. He said the matter of the Big Six conference's relations with the North Central would be given serious consideration at the coming meeting.

Prof. O. F. Long, faculty representative at Northwestern university, in a statement yesterday pointed out that there can be no middle ground in the conflict between the Big Ten and North Central. Either the conference must surrender its control of athletics or fight to retain the position it has held since the conference was organized. His remarks, in part, follow:

"The North Central association, probably is the most important sectional education body in America. It has achieved great results in raising standards in the secondary schools as well as in the higher institutions of learning. It has been stated that Northwestern university was the founder of the North Central association. Whether this is true or not, it is the desire of Northwestern that we shall continue to contribute to its betterment.

Big Ten Takes Lead.

"The Western conference is one of the oldest and certainly one of the most important of all sectional conferences. It has taken the lead in legislation and administration. In these par-

Fans Can't Escape Bike Race Blues

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 4.—It is an odd thing that of all the sports on the varied American program, the one that has moved people to the most profound reflections on life is the six day bicycle race, the fiftieth of which is being contested or, at any rate, performed, in the Garden at the present time. These reflections are, for the most part, of a rather depressing nature, having to do with the futility and brevity of human existence and the fact that oblivion is but the goal, for the bike riders vanish from view when a race is over.

Magazines and newspapers from time to time have commissioned prominent essayists to visit the six day bike races at both the old and new Gardens to do something that would really live about this strange affair. But there always has been a general lugubrious sameness about their work.

As the spectator sits there watching the athletes pedaling around the rim hour after hour, day after day, even the most frivolous nature is likely to become pensive and to see in the monotonous repetition an analogy to the average human life, and no encouraging one, either. The riders start on Saturday night to seek the bubble reputation and they ride furiously or drowsily, according to the state of the competition, until the following Saturday night, when they dismount and disappear.

There is a short ceremony just after the finish which inevitably suggests, the more so because of the flowers, the obsequies for the recently departed. The boys have gone a long way to arrive where they started.

It seems impossible to ignore the suggestion of the inevitability of the end. Even Mr. Tammany Young, who is no cynic, has been heard to compare the boys on the bikes to so many donkeys chasing wisps of hay suspended from sticks before them, and even noted authors with middle names are unable to write about the six day race without some reference, done in false lightheartedness, to the squirrel racing in a whirling cage, or man hurrying nowhere on the treadmill of life.

The six day bike race is the sport that makes the people think, but I am not sure that it is to be commended just on that account, for the thoughts which it engenders are not of an ambitious and stimulating kind. On the contrary, it makes people reflect that, what the hell, a guy hustles and hustles, with a boss to spur him on with little prizes for winning sprints, but that he will last just as long and come to the same end if he takes it easy.

Romantic writers who use the word Homeric and refer to the smoke and surge of battle in describing football games which Notre Dame wins by the score of 49 to 0, become philosophic at the six day bike race and touch more upon the theme of futility than the heroic nature of the struggle. This is not because the riders are professionals, nor is there any suggestion any more that they are indulging in a mockery, as some of them used to do.

The riders are among the athletic prodigies, game, daring and strong, and sometimes they go crashing down the banks, collecting a couple of cords of pine splinters in their hides, in horrible tangles from which it seems that no man can emerge alive. But even when this happens, the customer is likely to think, "Well, symbolically, that represents the time I went broke."

Horse racing promotes a contrary line of thought, the optimistic. I never knew a confirmed horse player, however unsuccessful, who did not feel confident that tomorrow, or anyway, some day, he would win a fortune. To the horse player time has but one dimension, an infinite future.

There will always be some division of popular opinion as to whether these bike affairs are veritable contests or mere performances, a fact which offends Mr. John Chapman, the proprietor of the New York and Chicago races. But Mr. Chapman merely hires his riders by the week at private terms and bars as outlaws all riders who do not find his terms agreeable. And he conducts the scoring by some intricate and mysterious

STILL NO VACANT CHAIRS AT CUBS' FESTIVE BOARD

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 4.—The Cubs today launched the third week of practice for pitchers and catchers and the second for infielders and outfielders, and every single one of the original cast still is eating heartily at Mr. Wrigley's expense.

Usually when things get along this far in a spring training camp at least a few of the less talented fellows are on their way, but Manager Hornsby is expressing reluctance about shipping any of his hopefuls as long as the squad is on Catalina Island.

Mr. Hornsby's generous attitude does not mean that he is completely undecided as to who are to be Cubs and who are to be something else. There are plenty of places a young man in a baseball suit can fill in during the routine of practice, and several who haven't a chance to stick with the Cubs are making themselves very useful in the matter of shagging flies, etc.

Esteem for Warneke Grows.

There isn't a man in the outfit who is certain to pass from Cub control, and, with the prospect of their being regulars at some future time, it simply is a bit of forehandedness to have them around to learn whatever there is to be learned about the Cub technique.

One of the rookies originally doped for early shipment, Pitcher Lon Warneke, continues to rise in the estimation of the new Cub boss. As announced a week ago, Hornsby early experienced surprise at Warneke's advancement, but he hadn't seen him in formal action until yesterday in the Regulars-Goofs game. There have been two intra-club games in which eight of the Cubs' pitching hopes have worked, and Warneke was able to turn in the best performance of the eight, with the exception of Bob Smith, who starred in the first intra-club contest.

Warneke's record last year isn't sufficient to warrant nine rahs and a tiger—he won 9 and lost 12—but it should be borne in mind that he was performing for the Reading club, which, according to all reports, was a pretty terrible outfit.

Malone Says He Is Ready.

Pat Malone, ace of the Cub staff for the last two years, after a stiff workout at today's practice, chortled that he was in possession of his "stuff" for the first time this year. Pat has done considerable pitching and some hard throwing, but he hadn't been satisfied because he wasn't able to make the ball do funny jumping tricks. Today Pat had the ball hopping and had no reticence about displaying his elation.

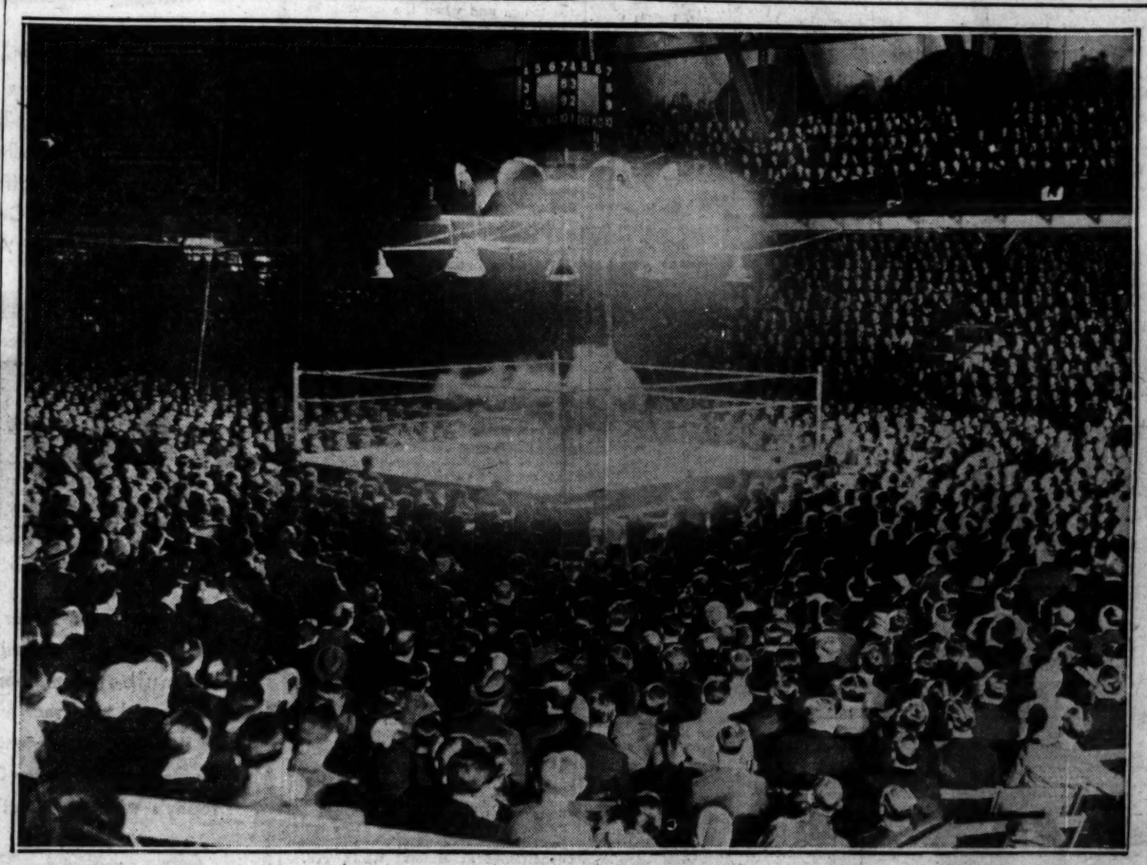
The third of the intra-club series is to be played tomorrow afternoon, and it is thought probable that Sheriff Blake and Jakie May will get their first pitching assignments of the year.

Next Monday will be a half holiday on the island so the natives may attend the game between the Cubs and Joe Brown's team of movie actors. There are to be concerts by the Avalon band and an island Mexican band. D. M. Renton, superintendent of the island, obtained a Spanish costume at great expense and had requested a Chicago author, who has a Mexican flair, to wear it at Monday's fiesta. A Mexican delegation lodged a formal protest, and rather than stir up an international squabble Mr. Renton arranged for a real Mex to wear the gorgeous raiment.

Play Los Angeles Saturday.

There also will be plenty of baseball before the movie actors get here. The Los Angeles Coast league team will arrive on the noon boat Saturday and will get into uniform in time to start a game at 1:30 o'clock. They also will play the Cubs at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

WHERE 32 BOYS PROVED THEIR SPUNK



The arena at the Coliseum with the crowd of 9,000 wildly enthusiastic fight fans banked from ringside to rafters. Those who attended the last of the qualifying battles saw a display of sportsmanship and courage such as Chicago has seldom witnessed. Four fighters in each class now remain in the running for Golden Gloves. These boys meet next Wednesday in the finals at the Stadium.

Maloney and Carnera Meet in Miami Ring

Miami, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Chilly weather, a lawsuit for damages and a substantial rush for passes at fistic headquarters today were the only noteworthy developments leading up to the 10 round heavyweight match between Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney, scheduled for tomorrow night.

Much after the manner of mourners, hoping for the best but anticipating the worst, the boys accustomed to appear at all big heavyweight affairs, no matter where the location, began trooping in today to make themselves comfortable "on the house."

Although weather prospects for tomorrow evening were good, the unseasonable chill today, which sent the mercury down to 48 and threatened a frost in the Everglades tonight, was not calculated to stimulate the advance sale.

Promoter Frank J. Bruen declined to make any further estimates as to what the show would draw or whether there was a chance to save it from losing heavily. The unofficial guess was that the gate receipts would be lucky to pass $50,000, on which basis the loss might be considerable.

Carnera, as a result of somewhat rigorous training within the last few days after a layoff due to his cracked rib, is expected to scale around 265 pounds. Despite his questionable condition and ability to go the route, the big Italian continued a favorite.

The day's lawsuit, filed in court here, involves a $6,000 claim for damages against Carnera and his principal managers, Leon See and Billy Duffy. It was filed by George A. Biener, Fort Wayne, Ind., promoter, who alleges the damages resulted from Carnera's failure to appear last June 9 in Fort Wayne for a fistic engagement. Promoter Bruen was named as garnishee.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I said I'd send you word how I felt and when I could come back to work, and it ain't so good. Another physician joined the consulting staff today. And say, Arch, did you ever have a lack of adrenal secretions? Well, that's what flu leaves you without. I forgot to ask doc what it was or whether it was anything that should not be mentioned in a family newspaper, but if you ever feel a lack of it, or them, coming on, hustle right over to the drug store or bootlegger, or wherever they sell it, and buy about $10 worth and take it all at once.

Another thing, my blood pressure is sub, and that's a lack of some other funny named thing, and they want to give me or take me to a metabolism, if that's the way you spell it, and I don't know what that is either, only it sounds like an oblong shaped capsule, and I'm taking enough different kinds of capsules now, and it seems everything they mention is sub, so you may have to get a sub for the Wake for a few days.

And another thing, I think I see evidences of a "frame." The family has been urging that I take my vacation and I don't want to take any vacation. I want to see the Golden Gloves finals next Wednesday and then go to New York for the intercity bouts March 30. Well, now the medical staff is urging I go to a warmer climate and sit in the sun to recuperate, and I don't want to go to a warmer climate and sit in the sun to recuperate.

So I wish you'd tell me just how you feel about it, for I haven't won an argument so far, you see I was off two weeks last month with the flu, now if you think that was my vacation, it would help me in my argument, but if you don't think so, I don't know what'll happen. I don't want to be bothering you with my troubles and unless I'm better tomorrow, you may not hear from me again until after the doctors held their antemortem, or whatever it is they hold when they expect the patient to live but he feels so punk he doesn't much care. Regards.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There's sportsmanship in boxing. Listen to the tales of the dry tank divers if you want to, and to yarns of chicanery in the professional ring. Believe all these stories if you like. But if you were at the Coliseum last night as the curtain rolled down on the Tournament of Champions, you would have walked out into Wabash avenue singing the praises of one sportsman.

Let us introduce Don Gonzales, of Cleveland, and in the other corner, Joe Kleko from Chicago's great west side. There are two of the best amateur featherweights in all the world.

When they entered the ring last night Kleko was wearing a heavy bandage over his left eye, the wound having been inflicted as he fought his way through the sectional meets and up to the Tournament of Champions. The thousands who watched the tournament roll along reached the conclusion quite some time ago that when Don Gonzales and Joe Kleko came together there would be a coronation at the end of the struggle. The fans became all the more convinced of this when Kleko whipped Dick Mastro.

Gonzales, knowing of Kleko's hurts, aware that by pecking away at that big bulging bandage over the left eye he could have probably won in a minute or so, told his second that he would hit Kleko everywhere but on the injured spot.

Gonzales was a man of his word. He didn't hit Joe Kleko on the left eye. But he hit him everywhere else from the hips up to the crown of his head. He had to do it to finish on top, for Joe Kleko was the gamest guy any boxing audience ever looked at, and he fought so gallantly even in defeat, that he was cheered almost as loudly as Gonzales when the verdict was returned.

When Gonzales put Kleko out of the running, he loomed up as the featherweight Golden Gloves winner. He may get whipped at the Stadium in the semi-finals or finals next Wednesday night but if he does it will be a terrible shock to the ringsiders who watched him fight on and on through the Tournament of Champions at the Coliseum.

There was sportsmanship in each of the 32 bouts, although some of the boys didn't display it quite so prominently as Gonzales. Boys who knocked their foes into slumberland helped carry them back to their corners. Boys who piled up long early leads on points didn't try to murder their more inexperienced foes.

The crowd was quick to pick up the spirit of sportsmanship. Not a boxer on the card worked harder than the 9,000 spectators. They were up on their chairs cheering one instant, hooting words of encouragement to a defeated boy the next second. They were worked up to as high a pitch as the boys who were out on the canvas, blinking, fighting and swinging under the glare of the powerful lights.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Golden Gloves trail nears an end. Thirty-two lads, the best in the central states, last night survived the quarter-finals at the Coliseum.

Nine thousand watched the third night of the Tournament of Champions. Only once more will Chicago see these boys—at the coronation of eight champions next Wednesday at the Stadium, which climaxes eleven nights of fighting in Chicago.

The thirty-two fights last night, four in each weight division, were a long list of hard fought victories. The record of knockouts Tuesday night was replaced by close decisions. For these boys were of superior ability and each who had reached the quarter-final had no thought of surrender save to the smashing blows of his opponent.

Here's Real Fight.

The drawings, which are made by lot, favored the thousands who came for the Coliseum finals. The championships at the Stadium can offer no more. Consider Joey Kleko, the west side scrapper who previously had beaten Dick Mastro in a spectacular battle Monday night, and Don Gonzales of Cleveland. Rated the best of the featherweights, the draw paired them last night. That scrap, although Kleko was handicapped by a bandage over his left eye, was worth waiting hours to see.

Gonzales' left hand was effective through all three rounds, and by that he conquered. He sent Kleko to the floor for a nine count in the first session, but himself was staggered momentarily when Joey's right hand siege gun landed on the jaw just before the final bell.

And while the 126 pounder are at hand, Tony Muscarello deserves attention. Tony, a southpaw like Gonzales, hammered out a three round decision over Gene Salvatore of Streator.

Thousands cheered these fights, just as they acclaimed others for evident ability. But the applause rose to a booming roar, uncessing, when two youngsters, with scarce else save fighting hearts, stood toe to toe in a last ditch scrap for Golden Gloves.

They Go the Limit.

And these fights for the main went the limit. Only one knockout was registered in the first 20 contests, although two others were stopped in the last round by the referee.

From the flyweights, on to the unlimited weight group, the throng made its selections for champions. Whether these opinions will be fulfilled only the fighters themselves will determine.

Take Kenney Jackson of Peoria and Jimmy Efiopoulos of Chicago. The experts at the Coliseum last night gave them thought. This does not eliminate two other lads who will be in the concluding program. By no means, for it's Golden Gloves history that courage frequently outweighs skill.

Max Maker of Milwaukee, who knocked out Poggie Wilson of Danville, Ill., in the first round of their bantamweight battle, also earned approval. Maker sailed into his rival and soon connected with a wallop which put him down for the ten count.

Nick Scillaba Wins.

Nick Scillaba of Kid Howard's gym was another. Chicago banks on Nick for a Golden Gloves title if the cheers last night are a criterion.

NORTH CENTRAL GETS ATTENTION OF BIG 10 HEADS

Scott Calls Meeting of Conference Presidents.

ticulars most of the other athletic groups have followed its lead.

"It is desirable that the North Central association and the Western conference should continue to hold their positions of leadership. At the moment the leadership of both is threatened by the question of jurisdiction. If the North Central attempts to supplant or supercede the Big Ten in athletic matters pertaining to the ten schools, the Western conference must either surrender the field or insist on retaining the position which it has held for the last 35 years.

"Northwestern believes in both organizations. It also believes that the Big Ten should not surrender its sovereignty to the North Central association."

LITTLE 19 AROUSED

Bloomington, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—Little Nineteen conference athletic leaders today expressed general satisfaction with the stand of the Western conference on the attitude of that organization toward the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Particularly are the state college athletic leaders bitter toward the North Central because of its stand on interscholastic track meets, the general opinion being that the elimination of these meets will mean the death of track and field sports in the high schools, who will now have no opportunity for competition.

These meets, conducted at a big financial loss to the colleges supporting them, served as the stimulus for track in the high schools, and already a number of smaller high schools have announced that they will no longer have track teams since the elimination of the Illinois Wesleyan, Bradley, and James Millikin university interscholastic meets, which were abandoned because of the sentiment of the North Central association on interscholastics.

Meets Attract 1,000 Athletes.

Each of these meets has attracted more than 1,000 prep school athletes each year, and through this medium even the smallest high schools were able to have track schedules. Now that these meets have been eliminated there is no place for the preps to compete.

Coaches of the state conference also resent the alleged efforts of the North Central association to cut salaries. It is said that one of the goals of that organization is to reduce all coaches' salaries to the same figure as the other teachers receive.

The same investigators who have been bothering Big Ten officials have made a survey of conditions in the state colleges, it was learned here, but in every case they found conditions wholesome, and directed their attack chiefly on the coaches' salary and the interscholastics.

GAGE EXPLAINS POSITION

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 4.—(AP)—H. M. Gage, president of the North Central conference of colleges and secondary schools, said today that investigations of schools in Illinois, Minnesota, and Ohio came in the course of regular triennial inspections. He made this statement in commenting on a reported break between the Big Ten and the North Central conference over the right of the former to control its own athletic problems.

He expressed the belief that the meeting of presidents, faculty representatives, and athletic directors of Big Ten universities called by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern would have a beneficial effect.

"The Big Ten schools are influential institutions and any action they may take toward clearing up problems on their campuses will have a good result," he said.

Hold Regular Investigation.

Explaining the investigations, Gage said that each year a third of the schools in the North Central conference were inspected to determine if they are conforming to conference standards.

"The adoption of athletic standards by the North Central conference three years ago, of course, makes that angle of the investigation outstanding in view of recent athletic difficulties at various schools," Gage added. Previous to that time, he said, the only standard pertaining to athletics was one regarding the "tone and atmosphere" of the institution, a standard under which the University of West Virginia was temporarily dropped because it had no athletic regulations.

The present North Central standards on athletics, Gage said, do not attempt to set up definite scholastic requirements, but are incorporated in general regulations as to the eligibility of the school."

RICKEY TO SPEAK AT N. U. TITLE CELEBRATION

Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis National league baseball club, will be the principal speaker at the victory celebration which is to be staged by Northwestern university students at Patten gymnasium tonight in honor of the Big Ten basketball championship.

Rickey, who is making a tour of all Big Ten schools, will relate a number of his experiences as a leader in big league baseball. Other speakers on tonight's program are President Walter Dill Scott, K. L. Wilson, athletic director, and Coach Dutch Lonborg.

Coach Lonborg, who brought the Wildcats their first basketball championship in 25 years, has been coaching at Northwestern for four years. Previous to that time he had coached four years at Washburn college, Topeka, Kas. He is a graduate of the University of Kansas.

In his first year at Northwestern he turned out a team which won twelve and lost five games, and repeated with a similar average the second year. Last year the team won nine and lost eight games.

Fans at Six Day Bike Races Are Gloomy Lot

I do not know just whom he could make his accounting to for the reassurance of the public. I was going to suggest some court, but, considering the recent state of the courts, such a course might be very unwise. Up to now the skepticism toward the six day bike races amounts to nothing more than a mild and rather amiable suspicion. Anyhow, if the people stay away on some days it is not because they have their doubts but because they haven't the money. The doubting kind are just as eager to pay their money to sit and stare and think sad thoughts as the kind who have implicit confidence in the race.

These suspicions probably date from a long time back, when Mr. Chapman did not own the six day bike races.

A newspaper man who used to work in Boston has told me of an incident which disturbed public confidence in six day bike racing there a long time ago.

"Boston's a 10 o'clock town," he stated, "and so they used to bed down the riders and put out the lights about midnight. But one night the mayor had been out with some friends and about 2 o'clock in the morning they decided to go to the bike race. As they came in they saw the lights go on and heard snores and grumbles and the cries of the hostlers, running from bunk to bunk and yelling, somewhat like Paul Revere's 'Up! Up! The customers!' It caused a great scandal in Boston."

1ST CASUALTIES HIT WHITE HOSE TRAINING CAMP

Jeffries and McKain Ail; Comiskey Arrives.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 4.—Inevitable casualties made their first appearance of the year today in the conditioning camp being conducted for the benefit of the White Sox. However, the ailments do not seem to be of an alarming nature and Donie Bush, smallish boss of the outfit, will consider himself lucky if he escapes without further mishaps. The Sox, as the world well knows, have a habit of developing some major trouble each spring, but this one may prove an exception.

The performers who responded to Trainer Buckner's sick call at the start of the day's toil were Irving Jeffries, who had been third basing with the Goof infield, and Hal McKain, right hander, who is being groomed for regular mound duty. Jeffries had to curtail his activities because of a bad wound which developed after Johnny Watwood spiked his left foot yesterday. McKain's complaint was pain in his working elbow, and while such things appear inconsequential, they frequently incapacitate a pitcher for the better part of a season.

Pitchers Begin Throwing Curves.

Except for these two cripples, Bush's method of being none too officious about what his players do for the first week or so has proved highly successful. The men haven't been driven and the weather has not been up to San Antonio's standard, but all the hands have profited handsomely by their daily toil. This is best indicated by the physical state of the pitchers. With a bit more than a week of actual labor, mound workers were actually curving in batting practice today, and when the curving begins it is a reliable sign that training is well along.

The lads who did some real pitching while the prospective regulars were hitting in today's three hour drill were Lefty Welland, Caraway, Moore, and Fraser. Old timers like Lyons, Thomas, Faber, and Braxton naturally didn't attempt to follow in the footsteps of the kids. The veterans are sufficiently primed to cut loose if necessary, but Bush isn't ordering them how to take care of their own arms. They will cut loose when they see fit and there is no cause for them to hurry. Bush doesn't plan on using them until the series with the Giants.

Bush Wonders About First Base.

Now that the young pitchers are in a position to get tricky about their work, a better line will be possible on the actual hitting worth of Mel Simons, center fielder purchased from Louisville, and Rip Radcliff, Selma, Ala., rookie, who is being counted on for first base duty. Thus far Simons has been able to show acceptable form at the plate. Radcliff, however, has required correction both in fielding and plate mannerisms. Bush won't criticize the lad one way or the other, but his lack of enthusiasm about first base prospects is fair proof that the job has him worried.

If Radcliff should prove a bit out of order as a fielder it will cause no annoyance, provided he can hit. It is attack more than anything that is needed on the infield. The outfield attack with Jolley, Reynolds, who will sign eventually, and Simons or Watwood will be good enough. There also are no indications that the pitching or catching departments will be much worse than the best in the league, but excellent pitching doesn't mean much unless supported by more than a couple of runs per day.

Ban Johnson Growing Weaker; Little Hope Left

St. Louis, Mo., March 4.—(AP)—The condition of Ban Johnson, former baseball leader, was described tonight as "unchanged." He has been growing slowly weaker, however, and his chances for recovery are slight, his physician, Dr. Robert Hyland, said.

32 BOYS QUALIFY FOR FINALS OF GOLDEN GLOVES

fought rounds. Then Scotty Sylvano qualified by eliminating Gene Lewis, a colored boy from Kokomo, Ind., who had greater determination than skill.

George Holden of Geneva, Ill., one of the most self-confident fighters, whose every move indicates that confidence, whipped Ernie Kratochvil of Milwaukee. But the best of the 135 pound fights was the hammering triumph of Steve Rozina of Davenport over Frankie Noonan of the Knights of Columbus, Chicago. Noonan had the lead after one round, lost by a shade in the next and was badly whipped in the last, when Steve proved a master of infighting.

Milwaukee Boys Beaten.

Milwaukee's scrappers, six of whom qualified in the first two days of the Tournament of Champions, did not fare so well last night after Maki's knockout victory. The big upset was when Johnny Phagan, a husky colored boy from the Lawndale gym, defeated Frank Knauer in four rounds.

Knauer had a lead in two rounds, knocking Phagan down for a no count when he pivoted out of a clinch in the second session, but Phagan rallied to even the score, according to the judges and referee, after three rounds. There was no doubt that Phagan was superior in the fourth and deciding round.

Jack Kranz of Gary, by his decision over Rowe Zehms of the Summerdale A. C. in the first 175 pound bout, passed the final barrier to participation in the championship rounds at the Stadium. Kranz was a member of the Golden Gloves team last year and his fighting last night was much superior to that of a year ago.

Anthony Sutton of Peoria knocked out William Gale of Chicago in two rounds. His wallop will make it tough for the other two qualifiers in the 175 pounds class, Dick Monty of Chicago and Randle Clore of Lafayette, Ind.

Knockouts End Heavy Bouts.

All four of the heavyweight matches ended in knockouts, which equaled, as far as the opportunity was presented, the string of quick endings on Tuesday night. Walter Cappel of Milwaukee was the lad whose crashing smashes to the jaw sent Marion Youngstafel of Vincennes, Ind., to the floor twice in the first round. Youngstafel was saved by the bell, but Referee Davie Miller stopped the fight in the next round wen Youngstafel was helpless on the ropes.

Merrill Tonn, Belle Plaine A. C., also lost by a technical knockout to Adam Smith of Rockford, Ill. Smith's only defense is apparently a stomach which cannot be injured, and he walked into Tonn, swinging as he came. After two rounds of these tactics Tonn wilted and went down repeatedly. The bout was stopped in the third round.

Don Beattie of Kokomo, Ind., stopped J. Kastendiek in two rounds and John Long of Gary, Ind., knocked out Ray Bennett of Wheaton, Ill., in one round to complete the series of catastrophes in the unlimited ranks.

HUNGRY PELICAN DIVES, BRINGS UP FISHHOOK, BAIT

BY BOB BECKER.

After fishing in the Pine island section on the lower west coast of Florida we have the inclination to start a movement which will fit every pelican with a pair of spectacles.

When we were trolling around the oyster reefs for sea trout, red fish, ladyfish, and other small game fish, a friendly pelican, apparently a little near sighted, swooped down on our copper spoon lure with a pork strip attached, grabbed this tasty looking morsel, almost burned the skin off our right thumb by running out our line for a long ways, and all but broke up our fishing expedition before yielding up our hardware.

Pelican Grabs Spoon.

We were trolling with Morehouse Stevens, an Elkhart fisherman, when the pelican executed his nose dive to grab our spoon and pork rind. It was late afternoon. The tide was coming in and covering the shallow flats and the oyster bars at Pine island, a large area of shallow flats which is ideal for the sea trout. A little one cylinder outboard motor was sending our skiff along at a slow pace while behind us the darting spoon lures flashed invitingly in the clear water.

Suddenly we felt a terrific tug on the line and we called out "strike" to the pilot so that he would cut off the engine. Looking back where our lure ought to be, we noticed a pelican in the air about 30 feet above the water, but thought nothing of it, because hundreds of cormorants, gulls, and pelicans had been feeding around us all day. Then, upon reeling in, we noticed that our line looped upward to the pelican. This fellow with poor eyesight had taken spoon, hook, and pork rind into his big pouch and he was holding on for dear life.

What a Disappointment!

However, he had a feeling that all was not well. Swooping down to the surface, the bird sat for a moment with a sad, disappointed look on his long face. Then he gulped a couple of times and shook his head. Apparently this wiggling "white minnow," which he had picked up was beginning to sting him. The hook was registering.

We hated to think of that harmless old pelican getting that lure into his mouth and we also hated to think of the bird going around with that hardware, which probably would prove fatal to him if it got into his throat. Then the bird opened up its mouth, gulped again and, presto! there was our outfit. With another disgusted gulp and a shake of his head the pelican flew away to more productive feeding grounds where fish were fish and wiggling minnows had no hooks in them.

RICHILI, GRIMM PULL UP IN SIX DAY BIKE CHASE

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Shortly before midnight Emil Richili and Willie Grimm replaced Reggie McNamara and Tony Beckman among the leading teams. The Swiss-American pair were tied with Freddie Spencer and Norman Hill and Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, French speed demons, for the lead in the six day bike race at Madison Square Garden.

One lap behind came Franco Georgetti and George Kroschel, Italian-German pair. Roger Denef and Adolf Charlier, Belgian riders, and McNamara and Beckman were two laps back tied with Bobby and Jimmy Walthour. Pietro Linari and Paul Brocardo, Italian cyclists, were four laps away from the three leading combinations, while Gerard Debaets and Charley Winter, Belgian-American duo, was five laps off the pace.

Romano and Kola Kwariani Meet Tonight

Mike Romano, battle scarred Italian heavyweight, and Kola Kwariani, belligerent Russian giant, will thresh out their grappling differences tonight in two falls out of three at the Rainbo Fronton. The Fronton is located at Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

It is the main event of a five match card that introduces heavyweight wrestling at the north side arena this season.

His crushing headlock that has put more than one opponent on his back is the main weapon with which Romano will work. Kwariani will depend on superior strength and a variety of holds to wear down the Italian. The pride of Petrograd will have a few pounds weight advantage.

George Zaharias meets Hans Bauer, German youngster. Since displaying unusual courage and staying powers here against Jim Londos recently Zaharias has convinced local fans that even though he is rough he can wrestle.

Fred Grobmier draws a tough opponent in Pat O'Shocker, the smiling red head from Salt Lake City. Both have appeared here to advantage this season. Tonight's card:

George Zaharias, Colorado, vs. Hans Bauer, Germany.
Fred Grobmier, Iowa, vs. Pat O'Shocker, Utah.
Frank Brunovics, New York, vs. Rudy Laditzi, Hungary.
Wild Bill Nelson, St. Louis, vs. Jack Zarnos, Ohio.

WEISSMULLER AND STAGE STAR REVEAL MARRIAGE

Miami Beach, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—The secret marriage last Saturday of Bobby Arnst, Broadway stage star, and Johnny Weissmuller, holder of many swimming records, was announced by them here today.

They said they were married by County Judge Fred Shippey at Fort Lauderdale, after a courtship that started when they were introduced Valentine's day. Both gave their age as 26.

Loughran May Face Victor of Stadium Bout

Tommy Loughran yesterday received an offer from the Chicago Stadium to meet the winner of the King Levinsky-Tuffy Griffith fight here tomorrow night. Griffith and Levinsky have agreed to meet Loughran, the proposed date for the bout being April 19. Loughran recently fought into the heavyweight limelight by beating Max Baer.

It is the plan of the Stadium to have the winner of the proposed Loughran fight box Jack Sharkey here in June. Negotiations are under way in New York for a Loughran-Sharkey bout, but Sharkey, incensed by eastern promoters' stand against him in the recent Schmeling controversy, has expressed a desire to fight in Chicago.

Loughran Beat Levinsky.

Levinsky met Loughran three months ago, losing the decision. Griffith, the fourth ranking heavyweight in the world, has never met the former light heavyweight champion.

Spurred on by possibility of another big shot in the Stadium if Loughran accepts, Griffith and Levinsky finished their gym work yesterday. At the same time it was disclosed that Levinsky has been attempting to shorten his sweeping right hand blasts to increase their effectiveness.

Confidence prevails in both camps. The fight is as good as won, to hear the fighters talk, and it behooves one not to argue differently when in their presence. Griffith's self-satisfaction has reached the point where his handlers have evinced alarm. They are afraid he might get too confident and stand toe to toe with the King.

Lou Scozza Arrives.

Lou Scozza, Buffalo Italian, who meets Battling Bozo in the ten round semi-windup, arrived in the city yesterday, a day late, and immediately worked out at Mullen's gym. He was so impressive that the gym hangers-on promptly installed him a favorite over Bozo, who holds a decision and a draw verdict in two fights with Maxie Rosenbloom.

De Paul Finishes Basket Schedule; Crushes St. Mary

De Paul university last night defeated St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., 48 to 15, in the final basketball game of the season for the Blue Demons.

It was the thirteenth victory in sixteen games for De Paul, and ended the collegiate basketball careers of Stix Powers and Capt. Johnny Ascher. Powers scored three goals and two free throws to take a major part in the De Paul offensive.

Completely baffled by De Paul's passing, the Minnesotans were able to cage only one field goal in the first half, which ended with the Demons in front, 21-8. Lynch, Horkon, and Kidly sank all of St. Mary's baskets. Lineups:

Harlan O. (Pat) Page has been appointed coach of the University of Chicago baseball team. This was announced by Director A. A. Stagg yesterday. In putting Page in charge of the baseball team the Chicago athletic director is following his policy of making each of his chief assistants coach of a major team.

Coach Nelson Norgren, who took over the baseball team a year ago when H. O. Crisler left to become athletic director at the University of Minnesota, is coach of the basketball team. He took the ball team to Japan last summer, his club making a brilliant recovery to break even in a fifteen game series after losing the first five games in the islands.

Parker Whips Phillips Five on Free Toss

The Parker High school lightweight basketball team of the south section yesterday eked out a 26 to 25 victory over Wendell Phillips, central division qualifier, in the last minute of their game at White City. It was the first triumph for the south siders in two semi-final games.

Ted Armsbury scored the winning goal after both teams had battled throughout the entire game with the score tied. The first quarter ended with a 2 to 2 deadlock and midway the score was 10 to 10. Both squads scored in the third period, but they tied 16 to 16 as the period ended.

Phillips took the lead in the final quarter. Then Taylor, Parker forward, scored from the center of the floor to tie Phillips, 23 to 23. A few minutes later Taylor was fouled by Giles and missed. Both teams scored and with one minute left, Armsbury was fouled by Johnston and scored the deciding point. Lineup:

HAWKS BATTLE AMERICANS IN CRUCIAL GAME

Both Teams Fight for Playoffs.

The hockey battle which the Blackhawks and the New York Americans will stage tonight at the Chicago Stadium promises to be the hardest fought of the 1930-'31 season on the local ice.

Both teams need the game. New York is in third place in the Canadian division, with a 1 point lead over the Montreal Maroons in the conflict for third place position, which carries a chance to win the Stanley cup and the pro hockey championship. The Americans have but five games to play and their nearest foes, the Montreal Maroons, have six. A loss tonight will practically eliminate them from the Stanley cup finals.

On the other hand, a victory for the Blackhawks means that it will require a miracle to dislodge them from second place in the season's final standings. Consequently both Managers Tobin and Gerard have primed their athletes for the big game of the season.

Fans will get their final opportunity to compare the styles of the league's two outstanding goal tenders this season. Chuck Gardiner and Roy Worters have a big edge on other major league net minders and the Hawk goalie seems to have a slight edge over Worters to date.

OTTAWA HOCKEY MOVE TO CHICAGO RINK IS DEFEATED

Chicago's hockey war, which has been largely carried on in reports and rumors, ended yesterday when Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks of the National league, said he would oppose any move to transfer the Ottawa franchise here.

As Maj. McLaughlin controls the National league territorial rights in Chicago, and no other franchise in the same circuit may be moved here without his consent, the Ottawa club, which is said to have lost money for several years, probably will remain in Ottawa.

It was learned that Thomas Shaughnessey and James Norris, owners of the Shamrocks of the American league, were willing to pay $225,000 for the Ottawa franchise. McLaughlin, however, said he would not consider the move.

STEEL INDUSTRY OUTPUT PLODS SLOWLY AHEAD

Ingot Production Is 53% of Capacity.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The great steel industry, long regarded as a barometer of general conditions, continues to make progress. The slow but steady improvement resulted in the mid-week trade reviews was the most cheerful item in yesterday's news.

In the last week, steel ingot production has risen to 53 per cent of capacity, compared with 52 per cent last week, according to the Iron Age. The estimate of Steel is even better as it places current mill operations at 55 per cent, compared with 53 per cent a week ago. And both journals call attention to the sharp upturn in pig iron production in February.

"The impressive feature of the market is the sustained, though gradual, expansion in the total consumption of metal," Iron Age says. "Further gains in the general average output are looked for during the current month, although no attempt is being made to forecast the rate of increase or the proportion of the increment that will be contributed by specific products.

Get Auto, Pipe Line Orders.

"With mill operations in close step with consumption, backlogs have lost much of their significance. The important consideration from the standpoint of production is the flow of shipping orders rather than the piling up of contract obligations. Automobile production is responding more rapidly to rising spring demands and present schedules indicate a March output for this country and Canada of 275,000 to 300,000 cars. Pipe line business looms larger with the appearance of substantial additions to the heavy tonnage now outstanding. Structural steel awards are large."

"Daily average pig iron production in February jumped 19½ per cent from January," Steel says. "Actual output was at the rate of 61,112 gross tons daily, compared with 55,337 tons in January and 53,732 tons in December. The rate in February, 1930, was 101,840 tons. Total output in February was 1,711,137 tons, compared with 1,718,433 tons in January and 2,845,917 tons in February last year. Relating production to capacity, February was a 43.2 per cent month, against 39.2 per cent for January.

"This improvement in pig iron output foreshadows a similar favorable report, when statistics on steel ingot production for February become available next week. Steel prices for the second quarter still are in an indefinite state. Producers are convinced they merit more remunerative levels, but are uncertain that demand, even though rising, warrants an increase."

Revises Price Schedule.

The oversupply of crude oil now pressing on the market and keen competition among refiners led the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to revise its price schedule yesterday. The company reduced the price of gasoline throughout its territory, excluding Chicago, by 2 cents a gallon. This establishes the price on the Chicago level, which was reduced 2 cents a gallon on Feb. 13. The present reduction also applies to kerosene and naphthas.

"The reduction is made to pass along to the consumer the benefit of the company's ability to buy crude oil at lower prices," President Edward G. Seubert said.

At the same time, President R. S. Ellison of the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, subsidiary of Standard of Indiana, announced a lower schedule of prices for crude oil. He asserted that competitors have been buying large amounts of crude oil below the former Stanolind schedule. The Standard Oil Company of Ohio yesterday advanced the price of gasoline a cent a gallon in the greater Cleveland district.

Copper Demand Increases Despite Raise in Price

New York, March 4.—(AP)—A sharp increase in domestic demand for copper, despite the advance of a quarter of a cent to 10½ cents a pound the first of the week, was reported today in trade circles. Estimates placed the amount of the metal sold the last 24 hours at 12,000,000 pounds, of which 10,000,000 pounds was said to have been sold to domestic consumers. Among the larger purchasers were the Pennsylvania railroad and one of the large telegraph companies.

Dividend Actions Reflect Shrinkage in Rail Traffic

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The effects of the shrinkage of railway freight traffic to the lowest levels in a decade were brought home to stockholders today.

Two railroads reduced their quarterly disbursements and another deferred action on its payment for the second time. In addition, a steel company reduced its payment. Three miscellaneous manufacturing companies and one sugar company omitted payments due at this time, while a tobacco and beverage concern increased their disbursements.

As had been rumored in advance, directors of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railroad reduced the annual common dividend rate from $7 to $5 a share, by declaring a quarterly payment of $1.25. The stock had been on a $7 annual basis since March 31, 1928, when the quarterly payment was increased from $1.25 to $1.50. The initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the common was paid March 31, 1927.

On $2.50 Annual Basis.

Directors of the Lehigh Valley railroad reduced the common dividend to a $2.50 annual basis, against $3.50 previously paid, by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents. The management said it hoped the reduction would be temporary and that it was the purpose to announce a resumption of the regular rate as soon as earnings would permit. If possible, the statement said, the full $3.50 a share for the year would be paid.

The board of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad announced after its meeting that the dividend due April 1 would be considered later. The payment is usually ordered at the February meeting, but at that time action was deferred until today. The issue has been on an $8 annual basis, but it has been widely reported, unofficially, that it would be cut to a $4 basis.

Youngstown Company Cuts Rate.

Directors of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $4 from $5, by declaring a quarterly disbursement of $1. Directors of Cooper-Bessemer corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common due at this time. The regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the preferred was authorized. Chicago Pneumatic Tool company directors omitted the quarterly dividend of 87½ cents due on the preferred stock.

South Porto Rico Sugar company directors omitted the quarterly dividend of 35 cents due on the common stock. The regular quarterly payment of $2 on the preferred was authorized. F. M. Schall, treasurer, said the omission had been decided on because of the present low price of sugar and the abnormal condition of that industry. Cost of production has been reduced for the current crop and the company's financial position "continues strong and liquid."

Omits Payment.

The Federal Screw works omitted the dividend due at this time. The company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share three months ago. The directors made a statement that while earnings have shown a gain since the first of the year it was deemed wise to conserve the current position.

A regular quarterly dividend of $1.10 a share was declared today on the common stock of the U. S. Tobacco company, placing that issue on a $4.40 annual basis. That was an increase of 10 cents a quarter, or 40 cents a year, as the stock formerly paid $4 annually.

Elisha Walker, chairman of Transamerica corporation, said that in view of current operations and outlook for Transamerica there is every assurance of a continuation of the dividend on the present basis of $1 annually.

Declares 50 Cent Extra.

The Coca Cola International corporation declared an extra dividend of 50 cents and increased the regular rate of dividend from $12 to $14 a share annually by declaration of a quarterly disbursement of $3.50 a share.

D. A. Dobry Securities company declared 50 cents extra on its 7 per cent preferred participating shares in addition to a semi-annual payment of $3.50. Kaynee company declared an extra dividend of 12½ cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock. Three months ago a similar extra dividend was paid.

Short Covering Lifts Wheat Prices on Board of Trade

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A short covering movement got under way in the wheat market yesterday after an early break of around ⅞c and a rally of 1½c from the inside figures followed. The close was ⅛@¼c higher, with July 64⅛@64⅝c and September 64⅝@64¾c.

While it is the impression of the trade that March wheat might advance sharply in case of any material buying it closed ¼c lower for the day at 79½c, while the May was ⅛c higher at 81¾c.

Selling of Winnipeg wheat futures against purchases in Chicago by spreaders had a depressing effect on the former market early, as did the weakness in Liverpool, but on the break there was a good class of buying headed by houses with foreign connections and the close was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with July 60¾c, the latter being 3⅛c under Liverpool. No export business, however, was reported in Manitobas during the day and the seaboard claimed the farm board had been unable to dispose of any domestic hard winters of consequence.

Take Bearish View.

Foreigners generally are inclined to take a bearish view of the world's wheat situation and Liverpool closed ¼@½d lower, reporting pressure to sell Australian cargoes. The latter were said to have been offered at 2⅛c per bu decline. Buenos Aires declined ⅝c for the day.

Around 100,000,000 bu wheat has been fed to live stock so far this season, according to estimates made by leading local statisticians. Murray indicated the consumption had been 105,000,000 bu, compared with 40,000,000 bu during the same period last year, while R. O. Cromwell made the total for 1930-'31 only 95,000,000 bu.

The corn market is very easily influenced by reports on the cash grain situation, and a better local demand for the offerings in the sample market, combined with reports that one of the leading local houses had changed to the bull side, started a short covering movement that carried prices up 1@1½c from the early low. Buying against bids was a factor in checking the early break, while on the bulge there was selling against offers. Closing trades were at net gains of ⅛@1⅛c, with March leading. The latter finished at 61⅛c; May, 64⅛@64⅜c; July, 66⅝@66¾c, and September, 66⅛@66⅝c.

Offer Better Cash Corn.

Quality of the offerings of cash corn was better, as the bulk of the receipts were from Illinois points, and the grain secured in this state last fall is showing a heavy test weight, some cars being sold that weighed 59 lbs per bu. The spot basis was ⅛@1c higher on choice grain.

A detailed report on the farm reserves of corn made by Nat C. Murray shows that the nine surplus states have a holding of 534,000,000 bu out of an estimated total for the country of 761,000,000 bu, while last year the surplus states had 681,000,000 bu out of a total of 986,000,000 bu. The shortage as compared with last year in Illinois and Iowa is 78,000,000 bu.

March Oats Weaken.

Open interest in March oats is being steadily reduced as the result of liquidating sales by scattered longs. The price dropped early to within ⅛c of the lowest of the season. The finish was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, March showing the weakness and closing at 29⅜@29½c, while May was 32⅛c and July 32¼@32⅜c. Closing trades in rye were ⅜ to ½c higher, with March 38c, May 41¼c, and July 42½c.

Expect Unfilled Orders of Steel to Show Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 4.—Unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel corporation showed a decrease for February for the first time since 1927, it was indicated in reports in the financial district today. The corporation's report, to be issued Tuesday noon, is expected to show a moderate decline for last month, largely as a result of a sharp increase in shipments. Only twice since 1923 have orders at the end of February been smaller than at the end of January. That was in 1926 and in 1927.

Mexicans Act to Stop Dumping of Cheap Wheat

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—(AP)—Chambers of commerce of Tampico and several other cities have petitioned the government to take immediate protective measures to prevent dumping of cheap wheat on the Mexican market. Unless a higher tariff is enacted, Mexican wheat growers and dealers will face ruin, the petitioners stated, pointing out that under the prevailing tariff Russia is able to place her wheat on the market at a price which Mexican growers cannot meet.

TRUCE IN INDIA SEEN AS BIG STEP TOWARD BETTER WORLD TRADE

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The truce between Mahatma Gandhi and the British government, ending the civil disobedience campaign in India, was viewed in Wall street banking circles as an important constructive step in international economy.

Its beneficial effects, it was believed, should prove to be far reach, since removal of the boycott against British products should stimulate England's trade, particularly in cotton goods, and from such an improvement the United States would benefit.

The settlement should also help the world silver problem, in the opinion of George Roberts, vice president of the National City bank of New York and a member of the league of nations gold delegation. The development of prosperity in India, he pointed out, would enable her to buy more metal, of which she took an average amount last year, thus lightening the load of silver dumped on China.

GENERAL MOTORS SUBSIDIARY BUYS INTO WESTERN AIR

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The ultimate acquisition by the General Aviation Corporation, Ltd., General Motors subsidiary, of control of Western Air Express corporation was viewed in Wall street today as a strong possibility, following announcement that it had purchased 50,000 shares of Western Air stock.

The General Motors subsidiary now has 24 per cent of the capital stock of Western Air Express, which operates five air mail, express, and passenger routes, radiating from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Catalina, Agua Caliente, and Kansas City. It also operates another route from Cheyenne to Pueblo, Colo.

New York, March 4.—Whatever helpful effect the adjournment of congress might otherwise have had on the troubled share market was set at naught today by an unusually heavy budget of unfavorable trade news such as poor earnings reports, dividend omissions and reductions and so, for the fourth day in succession, prices where whittled down by heavy selling, a majority of them bumping new bottoms for the reaction and the averages rubbing out a good half of the February advances.

Constructive forces worked for a while to turn the tide by bidding up the utilities, following word that congress had removed itself from the scene, but they were unable to attract much of a following. Evidently the rank and file had persuaded itself that the "technical readjustment" had not yet come far enough and that's all there was to it.

See Signs of Rally.

However, closing figures were generally 1 to 2 points above the lows of the day and market observers thought they were able to detect signs of a gestating rally which they insist is most emphatically overdue. One of the reasons, they pointed out, for the faith within them was the growing tendency of the market to turn dull on the selling side and speed up when rallying tendencies were in order.

Railroad shares were once more the big millstone around the market's neck. They opened uniformly lower and much talk was heard concerning

KROGER GROCERY EXTENDS LUNCH COUNTER SERVICE

Cincinnati, O., March 4.—(AP)—Successful operation of a lunch counter in one store of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company has led to a decision of the management to extend the service.

A. H. MORRILL.

Albert H. Morrill, president, announced that stockholders had amended regulations to permit service of meals, lunches, confections, and soft drinks, and that the service would be extended to only a few other stores.

Pointing out that business had improved in the third quarter of 1930, Mr. Morrill said the company's business was continuing to improve. He denied the possibility of a merger with Sears, Roebuck & Co.

"This rumor," he said, "undoubtedly arose because we operate departments in three Sears stores and are investigating the possibility of profitable operation in others. There is no reason in the world for a merger."

Alton Ry. Seeks Permit to Discontinue Six Trains

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—(AP)—Permission to discontinue operation of six passenger trains was asked of the commerce commission today by the Chicago and Alton railroad. These trains have been operating at a loss, the railroad said in its application.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING EBBS; PRICES DECLINE

Majority of Recessions Are Fractional.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday fell off to around 140,000 shares, as prices receded generally throughout the list. Tape watchers found little to hold their interest as stocks fluctuated back and forth within a narrow area.

Speculators were plainly marking time as they waited for some indication of trend on which to base commitments. The shrinkage in trading volume accompanying the general easiness in prices was interpreted as a favorable sign from the bull view point, but traders were wary of making too many generalizations.

As on the previous day the market trend was confused by various cross currents and counter movements, which lent an appearance of irregularity. By far the larger number of issues, however, were selling under previous quotations during most of the day.

Shares General Weakness.

United States Radio shared the general weakness during the initial transactions, but perked up noticeably with the issuance of a semi-annual earnings statement which reflected the increased operations of the company during the first half of its fiscal year.

Dotted throughout the final list were a large number of minor losses chalked up for a variety of shares. Recessions exceeding a point were the exceptions. North American Car and Iron Fireman were included in the class.

The United States Radio report showed net earnings for the six months ended Jan. 31 of $715,930, which is equivalent to $5.02 a share on the capital stock outstanding. Earnings for the corresponding period of the preceding year are not available. In its fiscal year ended July 31, 1930, the company made a net profit of $365,467, equivalent to $2.56 a share on the same capitalization.

The firm's balance sheet as of Jan. 31 disclosed quick assets amounting to $2,672,750, including cash of $943,868. Current liabilities amounted to $658,870.

Current Business Good.

In a letter accompanying the report, President J. Clarke Coit said that dollar volume of business during the six months period exceeded the comparable period of the previous year, despite the smaller unit sales. Current sales are highly satisfactory, he added, with February business greatly in excess of a year ago.

Poor & Co. made public yesterday its consolidated earnings record for the year ended Dec. 31. Net profit amounted to $729,003, which was equivalent to $1.34 a share on the class B common stock after dividends on the A shares. This compares with 1929 earnings of $1,841,959, or $4.20 a share, on the B stock. The Dec. 31 balance sheet shows current assets of $2,503,546 and current liabilities of $369,490.

NATIONAL CHAIN STORES EXPAND; LEASE 24 UNITS

David H. Jackson Talks to Realty Board.

BY AL CHASE.

Expansion of the National Chain Stores, operating millinery shops, was announced yesterday with the signing of leases for twenty-four new stores. Ten of these are in Chicago and fourteen in other middle west cities. Three of the new local branches of the chain store concern are in the loop. One is at 174 North State street, in the State-Lake building; another is at 34 West Washington street, leased from the Washington Shirt company, and the third is at 65 East Van Buren street, in the new Buckingham building. Ralph C. Hefter and Fred S. Kahn represented the lessee in all leases.

The other Chicago stores just leased are in the following outlying locations: From S. E. Mittelman, the store at 4119 West Madison street; from the Andes Chocolate shops, the store at 1334 East 71st street; from Francis J. Cusso, the southeast corner of Wilson and Racine avenues, and from Edward J. Lindahl, the store at 5317 North Clark street.

Other Leases.

They also leased the store at the northeast corner of Chicago avenue and Massasoit street from Minnie Thoms; the northeast corner of Lawrence and Crawford avenues, from the United Cigar Stores, and the northwest corner of Division and Hoyne streets from Lillian F. Blonder.

Among the fourteen stores leased in midwestern cities the following six are in Illinois: 135 South Schuyler avenue, Kankakee; 121 West Church street, Champaign; 309 South Adams street, Peoria; 113 North Chicago avenue, Joliet; 221 North Water street, Decatur, and 51 North Vermillion street, Danville.

The remaining eight are at 1441 North 12th street and 803 North 3d street, Milwaukee; 101 North State street, Madison, Wis.; 718 North 8th street, Sheboygan, Wis.; 109 South Main street, Fon du Lac, Wis.; 112 2d street, Davenport, Ia.; 735 North Main street, Dubuque, Ia., and 816 Chicago avenue, East Chicago, Ind.

Jackson Talks to Realtors.

David H. Jackson, chairman of the state securities commission of Illinois, in a talk before the Chicago Real Estate board last night, advocated the organization of common law trusts to relieve the present real estate mortgage situation. He pointed out that the law does not allow corporations to own real estate except in a limited way and that any scheme to remedy the present situation will have to contemplate the ownership of property. He added that there will be no difficulty in organizing trusts which will give the certificate holders substantially the same rights they would have in a corporation.

Mr. Jackson pointed out that the only sensible thing to do in the present situation is first to try as far as possible to stop the large waste from foreclosures because of master's fees, receivers' fees, lawyers' fees, waste in management, etc.; secondly, to try and place these properties where they could be carried largely by the people who already had their money in them.

Wrigley Gift Extended.

William Wrigley Jr. yesterday presented the Salvation Army with the use of the seven and eight story building at 509-19 North Union street for another year, rent free, starting from the first day of April, 1931. The Salvation Army was given the big structure a year ago for twelve months without rent by Mr. Wrigley, and has been accommodating 2,000 men each night with sleeping quarters.

The forest preserve commissioners of Cook county yesterday purchased an 8.75 acre tract on the south side of Winkelman road, near Milwaukee avenue, containing a house and outbuildings, from Herman Janness, for an indicated $12,750. They also bought 1.69 acres on the River road, north of Belmont avenue, from Henry P. Sinden for $7,948. In addition they purchased three small parcels in the Indian Highlands, Robinson reserve.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 25,000; sheep, 11,000.

The break in the market for fat lambs was checked yesterday, while cattle and hogs scored additional mild price gains. Slightly colder weather and abbreviated supplies gave salesmen most of the advantage.

Combined receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at the 20 leading markets in the country at 166,000, were 30,000 head, or 15 per cent, smaller than the previous Wednesday's receipts. The three day total shows a shortage of almost 100,000 head compared with a week ago and is 101,000 below the three year average.

Another "Starvation" Run.

The country sent in another "starvation" run of hogs yesterday and prices moved up mostly 5@10c on stronger local support. An advance of ¼@2c per pound in the price of pork loins on the wholesale market added zest to the trade and some medium and heavy hogs showed more than the general advance late in the day. Pork loins at Chicago sold yesterday at 13@17c, the highest since December 29.

The general average price of hogs moved up 5c more at $7.15, being highest since Feb. 11 and 45c above the low day of the year two weeks ago.

Hog Futures Steady.

Hog futures held about in line with the general selling the previous day. April light weights sold at $8.00. March lights were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.50. May light were offered at $9.00 and bid $8.00, while light, medium and heavy were offered at $9.50 and bid $8.50. Mediums for April delivery were bid $7.40 and for May delivery, $7.50. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today were bid $7.50, mediums $7.10 and heavy $7.00.

A senational decline in the market for calves featured the cattle trade yesterday. Calf prices broke fully $1.00 and are selling at the lowest prices in 20 years. The selected vealers at $8.00 yesterday are comparable to the $11.00 kinds at the high time last month and are $5.00@6.00 under the high point in January. Many attribute the break to the fact that the seasonal increase in supplies has come a little earlier this year.

Steers Rule Steady.

Calf receipts in March and April are almost always the largest of the year. Steers ruled steady to 25c higher, choice 1111 lb., long yearlings topping the list at $11.25, the highest for that weight since Feb. 16. Butcher stock held firm, with some yearling heifers higher. Stockers and feeders met good dmand at stronger prices.

Following a slow opening in the lamb market yesterday, when most bids were fully 25c lower, the market improved.

Spots were considered 10@25c lower early. The relatively low prices paid for calves lately have restricted the demand for lamb. Good handy weight lambs sold to packers largely at $8.50@8.65, with the city butchers paying up to $8.75. Good 106 lb., averages brought $7.75. Aged sheep and yearlings were slightly lower. Feeding and shearing lambs were unchanged.

RUSSIA SELLS COTTON

"Russian cotton is competing with American cotton in the English markets," say Thomson & McKinnon, "and 28,000 bales have been received at Liverpool since last Friday and it is said that additional shipments are pending."

The market was firm most of yesterday and closed around the top on buying by shorts and by trade interests. Net gains on futures in Chicago were 8 to 10 points, and in other markets 8 to 11 points. Ask Receiver for American Radio Television Stores Co.

Suit for the accounting and the appointment of a receiver, charging mismanagement, was filed in the Federal court yesterday against the American Radio Television stores, operators of more than a score of radio stores, with headquarters in Chicago.

The petition was filed on behalf of a committee of stockholders and alleges that mismanagement resulted in a deficit of $452,000 in 1929 and $600,000 in 1930. The defendants include W. B. Kopley, president of the concern, and J. Wardell, investment broker, who, according to Attorney Henry J. Miller, promoted the issuance of stock, which is listed on the Chicago exchange. The present assets, according to Attorney Miller, are approximately $260,000 and the liabilities $300,000.
